POEMS YOU OUGHT TO KNOW.*

*[Title Copyright: 1902: by Tribune Company.]

Whatever your occupation may be, and however crowded your hours with affairs, do not fail to secure at least a few minutes every day for refreshment of your inner life with a bit of poetry.—Prof. Charles Eliot Norton.

THANATOPSIS.

BY WILLIAM CULLEN BRYANT.

This imperishable poem was written by William Cullen Bryant when he was 18 years old. It was sent to the North American Review either by the poet or his father. Richard Henry Dana of the Review supposed the writer to be some one of international repute. The poet's father was then a member of the Massachusetts senate. Dana went to the statehouse to call on him, but the appearance of Dr. Bryant seemed to satisfy Dana that he must look elsewhere for the author, and so he returned to Cambridge without an interview with the senator. Later he learned that the author was the doctor's son.

To him who, in the love of nature, holds
Communion with her visible forms, she speaks
A various language; for his gayer hours
She has a voice of gladness and a smile
And eloquence of beauty; and she glides
Into his darker musings with a mild
And healing sympathy, that steals away
Their sharpness, ere he is aware. When thoughts
Of the last bitter hour come like a blight
Over thy spirit, and sad images
Of the stern agony, and shroud, and pall,
And breathless darkness, and the narrow house,
Make thee to shudder and grow sick at heart,
Go forth under the open sky, and list
To Nature's teachings, while from all around—
Earth and her waters, and the depths of air—
Comes a still voice: Yet a few days, and thee
The all-beholding sun shall see no more
In all his course; nor yet in the cold ground
Where thy pale form was laid, with many tears,
Nor in the embrace of ocean, shall exist
Thy image. Earth, that nourished thee, shall claim
Thy growth, to be resolved to earth again;
And, lost each human trace, surrendering up
Thine individual being, shalt thou go
To mix forever with the elements;
To be a brother to the insensible rock,
And to the sluggish clod, which the rude swain
Turns with his share, and treads upon. The oak
Shall send his roots abroad, and pierce thy mold.

Yet not to thine eternal resting place
Shalt thou retire alone—nor couldst thou wish
Couch more magnificent. Thou shalt lie down
With patriarchs of the infant world—with kings,
The powerful of the earth—the wise, the good,
Fair forms, and hoary seers of ages past,
All in one mighty sepulcher. The hills,
Rock-ribbed, and ancient as the sun; the vales
Stretching in pensive quietness between;
The venerable woods; rivers that move
In majesty, and the complaining brooks,
That make the meadows green; and, poured round all,
Old ocean's gray and melancholy waste—
Are but the solemn decorations all
Of the great tomb of man! The golden sun,
The planets, all the infinite host of heaven,
Are shining on the sad abodes of death,
Through the still lapse of ages. All that tread
The globe are but a handful to the tribes
That slumber in its bosom. Take the wings
Of morning, pierce the Barcan wilderness,
Or lose thyself in the continuous woods
Where rolls the Oregon and hears no sound
Save his own dashings—yet the dead are there!
And millions in those solitudes, since first
The flight of years began, have laid them down
In their last sleep—the dead reign there alone!
So shalt thou rest; and what if thou withdraw
In silence from the living, and no friend
Take note of thy departure? All that breathe
Will share thy destiny. The gay will laugh
When thou art gone, the solemn brood of care
Plod on, and each one, as before, will chase
His favorite phantom; yet all these shall leave
Their mirth and their employments, and shall come
And make their bed with thee. As the long train
Of ages glides away, the sons of men—
The youth in life's green spring, and he who goes
In the full strength of years, matron and maid,
And the sweet babe, and the gray headed man—
Shall, one by one, be gathered to thy side
By those who in their turn shall follow them.

So live, that when thy summons comes to join
The innumerable caravan that moves
To the pale realms of shade, where each shall take
His chamber in the silent halls of death,
Thou go not, like the quarry slave at night,
Scourged to his dungeon, but, sustained and soothed
By an unfaltering trust, approach thy grave
Like one who wraps the drapery of his couch
About him, and lies down to pleasant dreams.

KANKAKEE BOARD DIVERTS INQUIRY

Prosecution of Witness on Perjury Charge Delays, but Some Testimony Is Heard.

POLITICAL TAX ADMITTED

H. H. Ball Acquitted, Rearrested and Held in Jail Because Bail Might Offend Small.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Kankakee, Ill., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Trustees of the Kankakee Insane Asylum diverted the course of the inquiry into maladministration of the institution today by twice arresting a former attendant who had testified against one of them and by becoming defendants in a suit for $50,000 brought against them by that same ex-attendant, Harry H. Ball.

Ball, who had accused Trustee Murphy of drunkenness and immorality, was arrested at 2 a. m. charged with perjury. He was tried this afternoon and promptly acquitted "for lack of evidence."

An hour afterward he was again arrested on the same charge before another police justice and the case is set for tomorrow morning. In the meantime Ball has begun a suit claiming $50,000 damages from Trustees Small, Murphy, and Powell and Col. Buckingham, their attorney, for alleged conspiracy for false arrest.

Ball Is Out of Jail.

Late this evening bonds were procured for Ball and he was released from custody. It was procured through the exertions of Follett W. Bull of the Civil Service Reform league, who, in commenting on the two arrests, said:

"It is simply an attempt to intimidate witnesses and is done for no other purpose. Had the asylum trustees been sincere against Ball they would have waited until the investigation was over and then would have begun proceedings in the regular way. This swearing out a warrant at 2 o'clock in the morning, and then, when the defendant has been discharged by one justice, arresting him again at a time when it is hoped he will have to lie in jail over night is a course of proceedings which speaks for itself. It needs no comment."

Inquiry Makes Some Progress.

The inquiry at the asylum went on after a fashion, being delayed during the morning and part of the afternoon to allow Trustees Small and Murphy and Col. Buckingham to be present in the police court.

Later the following facts were brought out:

An admisson by Supt. Corbus that he had collected political assessments from employés.

An admisson from Trustee Small that he had used at home a horse belonging to the asylum.

An admisson from Trustee Small that employés paid by the state had been used for political work.

An admission by Supervisor Wagner that he had been drinking "on the ward," as charged by former Attendant Hill.

"Judge" on Witness Stand.

The above list of "admissions" developed during the afternoon inquiry. At the night session an interesting incident occurred. Dr. J. A. Glenn of Ashland, a member of the state board of charities, surprised the investigators by himself becoming a witness for the management of the asylum. He testified that some time ago he went through the institution in company with Dr. Podstata, and the latter had told him the hospital was in excellent condition.

"That was while Dr. Podstata was employed here, was it not?" asked Mr. Fitzgerald.

"Yes," was the answer.

"Do you not think it a rather unusual thing for a man sitting as a judge in a case, as the members of your board are, to act as a witness?" continued the lawyer.

To this, however, there was no response.

Refusal to Hear Two Witnesses.

Attorneys Bull and Cassidy, representing the Civil Service Reform league, offered to introduce Dr. Richard M. Dewey, a former superintendent of the asylum and the man who built it up, and Dr. William G. Stearns, for a long time the chief of the medical staff, as expert witnesses as to the present condition of the hospital, but the state board of charities refused to listen to them.

The first warrant for the arrest of Ball was sworn out by Trustee Murphy. Justice Washington being accommodating enough to get up at that hour to issue it. The arrest was made shortly afterward, and a local firm of attorneys was engaged at once to defend the case. When time came to try it this morning, however, the local lawyers refused to appear, claiming it would injure their practice if they took any case against the interests of the hospital, and especially Len Small. Then Lewis T. Orr of the firm of Fitzgerald & Orr of Chicago, who is here representing the Protective Agency for Women and Children in the asylum investigation, took charge of it.

Hearing on Perjury Charge.

Mr. Orr at once took a change of venue from Justice Washington to Justice Nichols, and went to trial. The charge against Ball was that he had sworn falsely in testifying that Murphy had been drunk around the hospital nights and had taken a woman attendant to his room in the institution. In the hearing Murphy went on the stand himself.

On cross examination by Mr. Orr he acknowledged he had a key to the dispensary and went there to get a drink "as often as he felt like it," and explained the woman incident by saying he had brought a woman nurse from his home late one night and accompanied her to her room door, but denied there was anything improper between them.

Night Clerk Krosin, who, Ball said, had been the messenger between Murphy and the woman, denied the defendant's story. E. H. Rood of Douglas county, who had been cited by Murphy, his fellow townsman, the night before to prove an alibi for him by swearing Murphy was in Tuscola at the time, did not appear, Murphy having conceded that perhaps he might have been in Kankakee. President Jayne of the state board of charities appeared to testify that Ball was under oath when he made the statement, and the official stenographer of the state board testified as to what his evidence had been.

Defense Rests Without Testimony.

Mr. Orr for the defense offered no testimony at all, simply contenting himself with the claim that the prosecution was not brought in good faith, that it was intended to intimidate other witnesses, and that in law no offense had been committed. Justice Nichols, in dismissing the defendant, simply said:

FORM A HARVESTER TRUST

M'CORMICKS MAY HEAD $120,000,000 COMBINE.

Concern Incorporated in New Jersey Which Probably Will Take Over the Principal Manufactories of Farm Implements—Entire Issue Will Be in Common Stock—Milwaukee Company Is Bought for $5,000,000—Chicago Makers May Be Included.

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—The International Harvester company was incorporated here today with an authorized capital stock of $120,000,000. The company, according to the charter, is to manufacture harvesting machines, harvesters, binders, reapers, mowers, rakes, shredders, and all kinds of agricultural machinery, tools, and implements. The incorporators are:

Abram M. Hyatt of Allenhurst, George W. Hebard, New York; Roland R. Dennis, Auburn, N. Y.; Edward M. F. Miller, New York; Robert O. Green, Elizabeth, N. J.; Erastus M. Cravatt, New York.

It is understood that among the concerns interested in the syndicate is the McCormick reaper and mower concern of Chicago.

Entire Issue Is Common Stock.

The only feature which is at all unusual in the charter is in relation to the character of the stock. The entire $120,000,000 is to be in common stock, but the charter provides that in the event of this being increased the present authorized stock may, upon vote of the holders of two-thirds of the stock voting for the first increase, be made preferred stock, in which case it will be entitled to receive 6 per cent cumulative preferential dividends.

The new company, according to the best information obtainable here, is to consolidate some of the large agricultural machine works of the country, chief among which are those of the McCormicks of Chicago. Representatives of the McCormicks have been in New York for some time, and the organization of the International Harvester company has been at least one of the causes for their presence here.

The company was incorporated through the Hudson Trust company, and its registered office in this state is at Hoboken. The state's fee for filing the charter was $24,000.

Milwaukee Company Taken Over.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 12.—The Milwaukee Harvester company of this city has been sold to the eastern syndicate for $5,000,000. The deal was consummated through a firm of local attorneys and the transfer made. The resignations of the officers of the old company were received and accepted, and the works will be in the possession of the new officers within a few days.

The Milwaukee Harvester company plant was brought here from Beloit, Wis., in 1886 by Senator Fred Dennett and Assemblyman L. Holden Parker. Its capital stock was then $30,000. Burnham brothers and A. K. Hamilton became interested in the business and later sold out to Stephen Bull of Racine, who interested his sons-in-law, Richard and Frederick Robinson, Frank Bull, and C. M. McIntosh. They began to add to and build up the business, and their authorized statement of the year's business just completed is that the output was 40,000 machines.

The above named men composed the officers of the company up to yesterday, and, their resignations being accepted, the firm of attorneys which consummated the deal assumed control and will manage the firm until relieved by officers named by the new combine.

McCormicks Are in East.

Cyrus H. McCormick and Harold F. McCormick are in the east. Supt. F. A. Flather of the McCormick concern, who resides at the Lexington hotel, said last night:

"I can neither affirm nor deny that the McCormick company is interested in the International Harvester company, because I don't know anything about the matter."

AGED OILER JOHN AHERN PREDICTS DEATH AND DIES.

Employe of Chicago Avenue Water Works for Fifty Years Prophesies His Wake and the Word Comes True.

"You'll be at my wake tomorrow night," said John Ahern, for fifty years an oiler at the Chicago avenue water works, to Patrick Gannon. The statement was made on Monday morning. Last night Gannon attended John Ahern's wake at his late residence, 81 Pearson street. Mr. Ahern died of heart failure a few hours after he had made his prophecy.

Ahern was 88 years old and oiled the old "Sallie" until sickness compelled him to resign from the service a little over a year ago. He was born in Monabricka, Ireland, and for a number of years was employed as guard in the Killarney Insane asylum. There he met his first wife, who was a nurse at the institution. When landlordism compelled Ahern to give up his farm in Ireland fifty-six years ago he came to America with his wife, coming to Chicago the following year. Upon his arrival he found employment as oiler in the frame water works in Kinzie street. There he worked until the Chicago avenue pumping station was built.

Twenty-seven years ago, while oiling the engine, he was carried under the fly wheel and his collar bone and several ribs were broken. He was found under the wheel the next morning after the accident and removed to the County hospital, where, after eleven months, he recovered and returned to his engine.

Twenty-two years ago Ahern's first wife died, and two years afterwards he was married to Miss Bridget Brady. The widow and a daughter and a son survive him. Funeral services will be held at the Holy Name cathedral tomorrow morning and interment will be at Calvary.

THREE MEN DODGE AVALANCHE

Party of Telegraph Officials Has a Narrow Escape While Working on Pike's Peak, Colorado.

Summit Pike's Peak, Colo., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Expert dodging of bowlders today saved J. P. Cook of Chicago, J. J. Dickey of Omaha, and Maj. Sells from death in a small sized avalanche on the mountain side this afternoon. Rocky mountain sheep scratching above them hurled the rocks down on the members of the party.

The party of Western Union men had been summoned as experts to devise means for maintaining wire communication with this station. They recommended half a mile of cable, held down by granite blocks. In the course of their observations they descended some distance from the summit. When the party was preparing to return bowlders from the size of a man's hand to those weighing hundreds of pounds began to roll down the precipice in such close proximity to the men that their lives depended upon dodging them. Col. Cook and Maj. Sells, being small of stature, managed to escape the fusillade by lying low, but with Col. PANIC ON BOARD A LAKE STEAMER

Two Hundred Persons Are Badly Frightened When an Accident Disables the Soo City.

DISTRESS SIGNAL GOES UP

Women Scream and Faint, Then Wait and Sing Until a Vessel Arrives to Tow Them to Port.

A crash, followed by a pounding that shook the steamer Soo City from stem to stern, created a panic among 200 passengers while the vessel was midway between Ottawa Beach and Chicago at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

While the consternation was at its height and women were fainting, Capt. Boswell ran to the main deck in an effort to reassure the frightened ones.

"The machinery's broken, but there's no danger," he cried. "The engineer has shut off the power and we'll be all right as soon as we can find a ship to tow us to port."

Then, while the women and children were screaming, a distress flag was hoisted and the danger whistle sounded. Soon most of the passengers became calm and amused themselves as best they could. Some one started "Sailing, Sailing," and most of the men and some of the women joined in the chorus.

Shaft Broken; Aid Comes.

While the passengers were making the best of the situation, Capt. Boswell and members of the crew were below trying to learn the extent of the injury. It was found that the main shaft had snapped in the middle, but it could not be ascertained just how much the other machinery had been hurt. All agreed that had not the engineer turned off the power promptly serious consequences might have followed.

Shortly after 4 o'clock, nearly two hours after the breakdown, a craft was sighted and all on board the Soo City cheered. The distress signal was answered and then the stranger began to bear down on the disabled vessel.

Soo City Towed to Port.

At 4:50 the other boat drew alongside the Soo City. It proved to be the United States lighthouse tender Dahlia. In a few minutes the Dahlia had lashed a towline to the starboard side of the Soo City and the run for port was begun. It was a slow pull for the Dahlia, and it was not until 12:45 this morning that the two boats entered the mouth of the river.

A large crowd of friends and relatives of the passengers was waiting at the Graham & Morton docks, and there was much relief when the Soo City's lights were seen coming up the river. There was rejoicing on the docks, rejoicing on the boat. Women who had feigned composure when the Soo City was in distress in midlake broke down when the vessel reached its moorings, and a number of them were assisted to cabs.

Tells of the Terror.

"It was a trying experience for us all," said Attorney George W. Murray, one of the passengers. "When the shaft broke and the machinery began to pound it seemed as if the world was coming to an end. Women fainted—how many I do not know. The children, too, were badly scared.

"Soon the ship's crew and some of the passengers managed to reassure the frightened ones and then we passed the time singing and telling stories. After the first excitement was over we settled down and really enjoyed ourselves.

"Too much cannot be said for the vigilance of the engineer. Had he not shut down the machinery promptly the consequences might have been disastrous."

Disabled Ship Sighted by Scout.

When the Soo City failed to reach Chicago on time President J. H. Graham of the Graham & Morton line began to grow uneasy, and went to the life saving station where he watched the lake with marine glasses for a sign of smoke on the Holland course. When the steamer was two hours overdue he dispatched the Easton of the same line to cruise on the Holland course on a search for the missing boat. The fact that nothing had been seen of the Soo City from the City of Milwaukee, which had come in from St. Joseph, added to the fears.

Fifteen miles out the Easton's crew sighted the missing boat, and were assured through the megaphones that every one was all right. The Dahlia appeared to be doing well in towing it, and the Eaton at once returned to port. The tug Andy then was dispatched to aid if necessary.

The accident caused a general disarrangement of the line's schedule. The Easton was sent out on the Holland run early this morning, and the passengers sought the cabin and went to bed. The City of Chicago was also dispatched to Holland at 10:30 o'clock.

CHASE OF PICKPOCKET CAUSES PANIC AT TRACK.

Capt. Forsee Tries to Catch a Man Who Has Been Working at Harlem—Bettors Run and Cry of Fire Is Raised.

Detective Capt. Forsee's effort to capture a pickpocket and diamond thief who has been operating at the Harlem racetrack resulted in a stampede yesterday, in which men and women were bruised and trampled upon. The man caught gave his name as Noonan, but claimed that he was not the person wanted.

The trouble took place between the third and fourth races and started in the betting ring. The alleged offender was pointed out to Capt. Forsee, and at the same time the man saw the detective. He started to escape, while Capt. Forsee made a dash after him.

Bettors began a rush to the outside, shouting, "Look out for the gun." Many were forced against the combination book which partly blocks the exit to the south, while others were thrown against posts, and, losing their footing, were stamped on by those coming from behind. In less than a minute the ring was deserted, bookmakers grabbing their cash boxes and joining the stampede.

While this was going on below some excited individual in the stand shouted "Fire!" and the same confusion followed, with the added danger that the women, in their flight, were compelled to descend the stairs. The roundup of the injured showed torn clothes, several [illegible]

FIRE HAS THREE VICTIMS.

TWO MAY DIE AS RESULT OF BLAZE AT 1 PARK AVENUE.

Flames Start on Second Floor, Probably from a Gas Jet, and Penetrates Ceiling Before Occupants Are Aware of Danger—Mrs. Lucy Burnett and H. G. Miller Suffer the Most Serious Injuries—Third Person Will Recover.

Three persons were severely burned, two of them perhaps fatally, in a fire which started at 1:30 this morning in the four story flat building at 1 Park avenue.

The Injured.

Burnett, Mrs. Lucy, burned about body and arms; taken to Presbyterian hospital; probably fatal.

Moore, Henry, 18 years old; hands burned; injuries not serious; taken to county hospital.

Miller, H. G., aged 25; back and hands burned; taken to county hospital; may be fatal.

The fire is believed to have started from a gas jet on the second floor. The wall took fire and the blaze burned through the ceiling into rooms on the third floor before the occupants of the building were aware of their danger.

Fourth Tenant Escapes.

Miller and Moore were rooming in the flat occupied by Mrs. Burnett. There was a fourth occupant of the apartment, but he left the building before the police learned whether he had been injured. None of the four persons was awakened by the smoke that filled the rooms and the flames had reached them before they knew of their danger.

Miller and Mrs. Burnett were overcome by smoke and would soon have been burned in the building had not police and firemen reached them. They were carried to the street and removed to hospitals.

Moore the First to Awake.

Moore was the first to be awakened. He jumped from his bed as the flames reached him. He ran to the room of Mrs. Burnett, found her unconscious, and started to carry her to the street. He was forced to rush through the fire to reach the hall, along which he carried her. Others had by that time been aroused and there was a hasty exodus from the building.

An alarm was turned in as soon as the occupants of the building reached the street and the firemen soon had the flames under control without letting them spread to the other apartments in the lower part of the building.

The damage to the structure was $2,000, and the loss on the furniture and other contents probably will be as much more.

CHICAGO WOMAN, A BRIDE, DISAPPEARS IN MICHIGAN.

Mrs. Laura Warren Dupont, Married Two Weeks Ago, Is Missing, and Search for Her Has Been Unvailing.

Laura Warren of Chicago was married in St. Joseph, Mich., two weeks ago to Vernon Dupont, and has since disappeared. Her home in this city was at 1182 Harvard street, but she had been spending the summer near St. Joseph. Mr. Dupont is a young farmer.

After the wedding the couple made a visit to Chicago and were accompanied on their return to Michigan by Mr. Dupont's family. When the boat reached St. Joseph the bride disappeared, and efforts to find her have been unavailing. The authorities there have taken up the search.

Mrs. Dupont is 22 years old, 5 feet tall, and weighs 110 pounds. She has brown eyes and hair.

The mother of Mrs. Dupont said last night she thought her daughter had gone to Ionia, Mich., and that the disappearance was not a serious matter. Mr. Warren and Mr. Dupont have gone to that place to see if the young bride is there.

Central station police have been asked to search for Robert Kirby, 72 years old, who disappeared from his summer home in Geneva, Wis. Mr. Kirby is a retired merchant and has been residing with Mrs. Tucker, his sister, at 529 Center avenue. Mrs. Tucker fears her brother's mind has become affected and that he has met with an accident.

C. Miller, 526 Collowhill street, Philadelphia, Pa., has asked the local police to find William Lassell, who, by the death of his brother, has fallen heir to several thousand dollars in money and jewelry.

USES FORMALIN IN MILK AND ASKS "DOES IT HURT?"

Dairyman Pleads Ignorance When Summoned to Explain Why His Shipments Are Adulterated.

"Yes, I put formalin in the milk. What of it? Does it hurt?"

So said Frank Lautmeyer, a dairyman who lives on the St. Paul railway a short distance from Chicago, when he was summoned to appear at the office of the Chicago health department yesterday.

"It's poison; that's all," replied Milk Inspector Grady.

"Well, you don't tell!" exclaimed the farmer. "The man I bought it from said it was good for the milk and would keep it from souring."

Lautmeyer went on to admit that for five days he had been using the formalin in the milk he has shipped to Chicago. His shipments amount to ninety gallons a day. He said he bought the formalin of a west side firm and had no idea he was doing wrong.

The dairyman promised to use no more formalin and was allowed to go. His shipments will be watched closely hereafter, however, as the inspectors are in doubt that he is as innocent as he appears.

WOMAN SEEKS CHAFFEE'S LIFE.

Armed with a Revolver, She Starts for New York to Demand Reparation for Alleged Cruelty.

El Paso, Tex., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Prepared to take the law into her own hands, Mrs. Aimie White of Verde, Ariz., carrying a big six shooter, is on her way to New York, where she expects to have a settlement with Gen. Chaffee when he arrives from the Philippines. She is the widow of a discharged soldier of the Eighth infantry.

On his deathbed her husband exacted a pledge that she would prefer charges against Gen. Chaffee for alleged cruel treatment at Camp McDowell, a post near the San Carlos reservation, Arizona. Mrs. White charges that Gen. Chaffee, then a major, sent soldiers to their home, which was just outside the reservation, burned their house, and drove off all their cattle. When seen here today she said:

"I am going to New York to meet Gen. Chaffee, and if he doesn't give me satisfaction I'll shoot him dead in his tracks. I have preferred charges, but he prevented them from getting before congress. I have told Gen. Miles about it and he says for me to go ahead. [illegible] settlement with him or his life or satisfactory reparation."

FIND CLEWS TO POLICE MURDERS.

One of the Men Who Killed Patrolmen Pennell and Devine is Supposed to Be Wounded.

SEEKS AID OF DRUGGIST.

Detectives Satisfied That the Slayers Are Burglars, Who Were Pursued by Their Victims.

One of the murderers of Patrolmen Timothy Devine and Charles Pennell is supposed to have been wounded and the work of the police last night was centered on this clew.

The police are satisfied that the two patrolmen, who were shot down in Jackson boulevard, near Ashland, early yesterday morning, were the victims of professional burglars, who were being pursued by the patrolmen after having attempted to commit some crime.

Information that one of the burglars may have been wounded, presumably by a bullet from Devine's revolver, came from George Pulford, a drug clerk at Ada and Randolph streets, a few blocks from the scene of the double murder and in the direction taken by the fugitives. Pulford says he was awakened about two hours after the murder by a man who was bleeding from a wound in the head back of the left ear.

"I stumbled and fell against a fence," the fellow said.

Pulford, who dressed the wound, now is certain it was made by a glancing bullet.

Wounded One Lags Behind.

The belief that Devine wounded one of the burglars before he was shot down is strengthened by the statement of Irving McLaughlin, bartender in a saloon at Ogden avenue and Randolph street. The fugitives ran by the saloon a short time after the shooting, and the smaller of the two was lagging behind and pressing his hand to his head.

"Keep on going, Charlie," shouted the taller man. "Don't give up."

The description given by McLaughlin of the injured man answers that given by residents in the vicinity of the scene of the shooting of the smaller of the two burglars, and also corresponds with the description given by Pulford of the man whose wound he dressed.

McLaughlin and Pulford will be taken to the bureau of identification today to see if they can identify any of the pictures in the rogues' gallery as that of the wounded man.

Electric Dark Lantern Found.

Another discovery which caused the West Lake street police to believe the murderers to be cracksmen was the finding of an electric dark lantern at Ashland boulevard and Adams street on the course traversed by the fugitives in their flight. The lantern was found by William Walter, an employé of the Arnold Coal company, and was lying in the grass, where it had evidently been thrown by the fugitives.

An incident in the search yesterday was the finding of a large china pitcher partly filled with beer in an alley near where the shooting took place. While this at first suggested that the shooting was done by persons who were drinking in the alley, the police soon concluded that it had no direct bearing on the murders.

Try to Rob, Then Murder.

An attempt to rob the residence of J. M. Frey at 466 Jackson boulevard, about two blocks distant from the scene of the shooting, within fifteen minutes of the time of the murders, leads the police to believe that the patrolmen were on the trail of the robbers, and were ambushed by them at the mouth of the alley where the exchange of shots took place. The attempted burglary and the shooting took place on Devine's beat, and it is believed that he called Pennell to assist him in catching the burglars.

Devine was recognized as one of the readiest and most accurate shots on the force. This, in the minds of the police, precludes the possibility of any parley between the patrolmen and the fugitives before the shooting took place.

"The shooting was done by burglars whom the patrolmen were trailing," said Inspector Shea, after securing a report of the crime. "It makes my blood boil to think of two good men being shot down in that way. I do not believe Devine was shot for revenge, as had been suggested."

Suspects Taken; Some Released.

Joseph Letcher and Edward Franklin were arrested during the evening as suspects. Letcher, it is said, recently was released from the Chester penitentiary for the criminal insane. The men in a general way answer the description of the murderers.

Investigation also is being made of an unknown man who left a bundle of blood stained clothing in a Van Buren street laundry during the morning.

Shortly after the shooting the police, acting on the theory that Devine had been shot in revenge for his activity in having a youth sent to the reform school, raided a house at 41 Plum street, and after some difficulty placed the occupants—members of the Dillon family—under arrest.

Mrs. Dillon and her daughter were released at once and later the other members of the family, with the exception of Thomas Dillon, were given their liberty. With Thomas Dillon was held W. G. Deacon, who was arrested shortly after the shooting in a saloon in Van Buren, near Laflin street, and who is said to have threatened to "get even" with Devine for disturbing him while he was asleep.

Lieut. O'Hara, however, says he does not believe these men had anything to do with the shooting.

Story of the Murder.

The double murder took place on the south side of Jackson boulevard, at the mouth of an alley which runs from Van Buren street to Madison street. This alley is intersected between Jackson boulevard and Van Buren street by another alley, which runs east to Loomis street. The Frey residence is in Jackson boulevard, east of Loomis. The attempts to enter the Frey house were described by Mrs. Frey as follows:

"About 11:40 o'clock I heard some one trying to open the front door. I was awake, nursing my son, who is ill. After a little while the noise ceased, and about 1:30 o'clock I heard it again. This time I heard some one try to put a key in the lock and turn it. At 3:30 I heard a noise at the back door. I wanted to go to the door, but my son called to me not to. As soon as he called I heard what sounded like two men running down the backstairs."

These stairs lead into the alley running east and west, and it is believed that while emerging from this alley into Loomis street the burglars were seen by the patrolman. Both Devine and Pennell had reported shortly after 3 o'clock from a patrol box at Van Buren and Loomis street.

Go to Their Deaths.

The theory of the police is that the two patrolmen followed the burglars west in the alley to Laflin street, and that there Pennell went north to Jackson, turning west, while Devine followed the alley to the intersection of the north and south alley, and then north to Jackson boulevard.

It is believed that the fugitives lay in wait at the mouth of the alley, behind a tree, and when Devine rushed out to the street, shot him. Three bullet holes in the fence indicate that they first fired on him when he was about twenty feet from the mouth of the alley, and kept on firing until he reached the open street, where he was shot down. Meanwhile, it is believed, Devine fired a shot, which struck the smaller of the burglars.

Pennell, who was running to assist his comrade, is believed to have been shot before he had time to use his revolver. He crawled to the curb, sat there a moment, and then fell backward to the grass. Devine fell where he was shot.

See Slayers Run Away.

Residents of the neighborhood heard the shooting and a number of them rushed to windows in time to see two men run away. The fugitives ran northwest across Jackson boulevard and then started west, when they were hailed by N. E. Wathier, who lives at 217 Ashland boulevard. They then turned north in Ashland to Adams street and then west in Adams to an alley running north to Ogden avenue.

At Ashland and Adams, it appears, the robbers threw away the electric lantern, which was found later. Entering the alley they stopped and took the shells from their revolvers, probably reloading them. Then, it is believed, they continued north to Ogden avenue, thence northeast in Ogden past Union park, passing the saloon, where they were seen by McLaughlin.

On reaching Randolph and Sheldon streets the slayers separated, the tall man going north and the shorter man south. It is believed that the shorter man became exhausted and hid in the vicinity until 6 o'clock, when he went to the drug store to have his wound dressed.

At Adams street and Ashland boulevard Benjamin Craycroft, who lives at 173 Ashland boulevard, shouted from his window to the men to halt. The shorter man hesitated, then both ran west in Adams street.

Fallen Men Beyond Aid.

Among the first to hear the shooting were Miss Rowena Burtis, 222 Ashland avenue, and Mrs. T. F. Wheeler, who lives in Jackson boulevard. Both opened their windows and shouted. Soon a number of men gathered in the street beside the wounded policemen, and two of the residents telephoned for a patrol wagon. Among the first comers were Dr. E. P. Noel, Dr. Harry Shaw, Wathier, and Craycroft.

The patrol wagon was followed by Sergeant Lynch of the West Lake street station. Devine, who was found to be dying, passed away soon after being placed in the ambulance. Pennell was unconscious, but revived at the county hospital and made an incoherent statement. The men were burglars, he said. One of them was tall and the other shorter. "Tim gave them a fight. He did his duty," he said in his last breath.

Devine was shot through the heart, the bullet entering in the left breast, passing downward and passing out at the left side. A bullet which was found partly imbedded in the fence is believed to have been the one which killed Devine.

Pennell was shot through the body, the bullet grazing the left arm and passing into the left side. Another bullet struck his right arm.

Dr. Noel, who examined the men as they lay on the ground, believes that they were under a cross fire from their assailants. He reasons that one of the robbers was concealed behind a tree and the other behind the steps of Dr. Colby's residence, to the east of the alley. "Devine was shot from the right side, while Pennell was shot from both sides," said Dr. Noel. "I believe the murderers had ambushed themselves and had the policemen under a cross fire."

Records of the Murdered Men.

Devine was born in Ireland forty-six years ago, and has been a member of the police force since 1888, having traveled out of the West Lake street station for eleven years. He leaves a widow and eight children at 741 West Ohio street. Devine, who was a musician of some talent, was a member of the Policemen's Benevolent association. He was known as a fearless policeman. A few years ago he arrested two men named Scully and Faulkner after an exchange of shots, in which one of the men was wounded. He has figured in a number of other contests with desperate criminals.

Pennell was an American and was 44 years old. He leaves a widow and five children, who live at 1347 West Congress street. He was appointed to the police force in 1889 and had been at West Lake street for about six years. One of his notable pieces of work was the arrest of Edward Black, who was convicted of shooting John Barsanti, a West Van Buren street saloonkeeper. He, too, was a member of the benevolent association.

CATCH A SUSPECTED MURDERER

Police Arrest Patrick Kane, Wanted in Connection with the Killing of Thomas Kane.

Patrick Kane, also known as McMillan, who has been sought by the police for several weeks, was arrested last night by Detective Franzen of the East Chicago avenue station. The man was wanted in connection with the murder of Thomas Kane, 86 Wells street, stabbed by unknown men at Ohio street and La Salle avenue the evening of July 3 while protecting his sweetheart, Annie Wilson, from two men who had accosted her on the street. Patrick Kane, who is not related to the dead man, was seen in the vicinity a few hours before the affray, and the description given of the murderer by Miss Wilson caused the police to suspect him. He will be confronted by the woman today.

ADMITS HE KILLED DAUGHTER.

Albert Ullman of Neosho, Wis., Arrested, Confesses That He Shot Girl from Ambush, but Gives No Reason.

Woodland, Wis., Aug. 12.—Sheriff Solon today arrested Albert Ullman, the father of Ida Ullman, who was shot from ambush on Aug. 3 near Neosho. He at once confessed that the shooting was done by him. On the Saturday before the shooting Ullman drove to Oconomowoc, pretending to leave his team there and take the train to Milwaukee. Instead he walked back to the place where his daughter would have to pass on her way home Sunday. He fired the shot, returned to Oconomowoc, and drove home with his team.

Ullman was seen by neighbors on his way to Oconomowoc after the shooting. This, coupled with utterances made by him, led to his arrest. No reason for the act can be learned.

MINISTER ADMITS A KILLING.

The Rev. Charles Hill, Indiana Preacher, Confesses He Fired Shot That Caused Widow's Death.

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—The Rev. Charles Hill, a Congregational minister, has confessed that he fired the shot that killed the widow Smith at the mining town of Benwood fifteen years ago. She was stepping out of the door of a neighbor's house when the bullet struck her and she fell dead. Three boys shooting at a mark some distance away were arrested, but the bullet that caused the death was too large for their guns. The widow's son was under suspicion, as it was said he obtained considerable property by the death of his mother. The Rev. Mr. Hill says he was shooting at a mark with a young man named William Trager and that he fired the fatal shot.

Goes to Philippines to Wed.

Holland, Mich., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Miss Julia Van Raalte, granddaughter of the late Dr. A. C. Van Raalte, founder of the Holland colony, left for the Philippine islands today, where she will be married to Prof. O. S. Reinold, formerly principal of the high school here.

HEAR 'BARTHOLIN' IN EVERY SOUND

Police Confused and Mocked by Multiplicity of Rumors and Clews.

MAN SEEN ON WEDNESDAY

Day Before Fiancee's Body Was Found He Was Talking of Leaving Town.

The police in their search for William Bartholin, accused of murdering his mother and sweetheart, stand puzzled amid a multitude of clews that come to them from different parts of the city and from various towns in the west, starting in Michigan and ending in Indian Territory.

Chicago people claim to have seen the man up to last Sunday, but the identification is not positive, and not much credence is placed in it. The general belief among the detectives is that he is still in the city, but if he has left town, they think that he is likely to have tried to make his way to Indian Territory, for the reason that he had friends there.

William Mitchell, the father of the girl Bartholin is supposed to have killed, was thought to be missing last evening. He started away from his home at 604 Forty-fourth street, early in the evening, carrying a revolver. When he did not return the family appealed to the police, and they found him at Eighty-fourth street and Vincennes avenue. He had been looking over the ground near where his daughter is supposed to have met her death.

Developments in the Hunt.

The developments in the hunt for Bartholin during the day may be listed as follows:

Bundle of laundry left in office of William Loewy & Co., 710 West Forty-seventh street, last Thursday afternoon, it is believed by Bartholin. Police now have the bundle.

Chief O'Neill received information that Bartholin was seen on Wednesday, Aug. 6, by an acquaintance and made inquiries concerning a number of places. This is the day after he was seen by B. Underberg.

A man known as Dan Mulvey, who frequents the corner of Calumet avenue and Forty-third street, says he saw the missing man last Friday on his way to an elevated train. The police are trying to find Mulvey to confirm the statement.

L. D. Smith, 4101 Grand boulevard, thinks he saw him in the Marine roof garden, Vernon avenue and Thirty-ninth street, on Sunday night.

Dr. Springer, coroner's physician, reiterated that the body found at State and Seventy-fourth streets could not be that of Minnie Mitchell, for the reason that it could not have reached such an advanced stage of decomposition in the time that had elapsed after her disappearance.

Mrs. Ora Young, who lives across the street from the Bartholin house, saw an express wagon carrying away what appeared to be furniture one evening about the time Miss Mitchell disappeared.

Oscar Thompson, on being questioned again, furnished the information that Will Bartholin had false upper teeth, three of them being gold. This point of identification had never been given the police.

The funeral of Mrs. Bartholin was held from the undertaking rooms of Spreyne Bros., State and Fortieth streets. She was buried by the Sisters of Hermann in Oakwoods cemetery.

The Police of Denver and Toledo declared they had not been asked to forward M. L. R. Edwards and E. O. Hunter, the former roomers in the house, to Chicago, although both men insisted that they were willing to go.

"Young men corresponding to the description of William Bartholin and seen acting in a suspicious manner" were reported from the following towns last night:

St. Joseph, Mich.
Kenosha, Wis.
Elkhart, Ind.
Doris, Ia.
Guthrie, I. T.

Much Reliance on Laundry Clew.

The police place much reliance upon the laundry clew which was found last evening in the laundry of William Loewy & Co. Last Thursday afternoon, the day following the disappearance of Minnie Mitchell, a man resembling closely the description of William Bartholin walked into the office and deposited a bundle of laundry. He was particular about having it done for delivery by Monday. He seemed in a nervous state of mind, and gave the name of Tom Arnold.

When his linen was unwrapped the initial "B" was found on all the articles, and a few of the pieces had also the name "Arnold." The latter name evidently was freshly marked. Inspector Hunt was notified, and the package was taken to the Hyde Park police station.

The woman in charge of the laundry said that her customer had not returned on Monday to claim the goods.

Mrs. G. N. Williamson, 3850 Vincennes avenue, reported to the Fiftieth street police last evening that she had seen a man on a Cottage Grove avenue cable train early in the afternoon who answered in many ways to the description of Bartholin. He was wearing a blood stained vest, she says. She boarded the train at Thirty-ninth street and sat beside the man in the grip. He was dressed in a black cutaway coat, black vest, striped trousers, and wore a gray fedora hat which he constantly pulled down over his eyes. He looked haggard and was in need of a shave.

In Chicago on Wednesday.

Chief O'Neill announced yesterday that he had secured a "scoop" on Inspector Hunt and the police in his district. He reported that he had found a man, whose name he withholds for the present, who saw Bartholin last Wednesday, which is a day later than any previous report, which is well substantiated. This was the day before the body on the prairie was discovered and a week after Miss Mitchell disappeared. The chief's informant said that Bartholin had made inquiries concerning a number of places and he was convinced that he was then planning his escape. Acting on this information Chief O'Neill started investigations at the towns mentioned and is now waiting for reports. All of them are some distance away.

In his conversation Bartholin intimated that he was about to leave Chicago, but did not say anything as to his reasons for so doing. It was intimated to Chief O'Neill that Bartholin might have planned this conversation for the purpose of throwing his pursuers off the track, but the head of the police department was inclined to believe otherwise.

O'Neill Trying to Locate Him.

"We have succeeded in tracing Bartholin up to last Wednesday," said the chief, "and there all trace of him is lost. Information has been furnished me by a man who knows him well and who saw him the day before the girl's body was found. He was then making preparations to leave the city, and made inquiries concerning several places. Efforts are being made to locate him in these places.

"I am not positive that he has left town, but it looks as if he had. We shall catch him yet. It is certain he will not commit suicide. We have no fear of that. A man who will take all the precautions he did would be the last man to take his life.

"What Bartholin wants to do is to pose as a bold and dashing criminal. To my mind there is no doubt that he murdered the girl at Seventy-fourth street, but across the street from where the body was found. He then dragged her across the street. The condition of the shoes indicates that."

Lieut. Wood Questions Thompson.

Lieut. Stephen Wood of the Hyde Park police station took a hand at examining Oscar Thompson yesterday. After he had heard the story told to Inspector Hunt rehearsed again, he flatly told the man that it was too improbable for him to believe. This did not shake the man in his story, and he doggedly replied that it was all the information he could give. He said he did not know much about the numerous roomers, who apparently came and went frequently, and was unable to say whether any suspicious characters had lived in the Bartholin house or not.

The police had been informed that Thompson had gone to the office of the gas company, Aug. 1, and asked Supt. McCarthy not to shut off the gas in the house, as he intended to pay the bill, which was overdue. He had explained that the woman of the house was away, and as he left he remarked that he thought there was something suspicious in her absence.

Thompson verified this, and said that he went from the gas office and reported the entire matter to the police. Before he was led back to his cell he admitted that to an outsider there might be much that would appear improbable in his story, but seemed to think that he was justified in taking the word of the woman's son as explanation for her absence, in spite of the peculiar circumstances connected with her seeming departure.

Still Doubts Identification.

The reiterated assertion of Dr. Joseph Springer, the coroner's physician, who held a post mortem on the body found on the prairie, that it could not have been that of Minnie Mitchell, revived the reported disappearance of Grace Lambert, who once lived at Halsted and Seventy-fifth streets. Dr. Springer says that the date of her disappearance, a little over a month ago, would more nearly correspond with his conclusions.

"I can say most positively that in all my experience I have never encountered a body which has lain in the sun for even three weeks which was in such an advanced stage of disintegration as the one found on the prairie at State and Seventy-fourth streets," said Dr. Springer. "Minnie Mitchell had been missing but eight days. If she was found at the end of that time her body would have been in a fairly good state of preservation. I have seen weather where the sun beat much more fiercely upon the earth and a body which lay exposed to its rays for a greater length of time than the one in question was in a much better condition. I have never been able to bring myself to the conclusion that the remains recovered were those of the Mitchell girl."

Dr. Springer also points to the fact that the only identification ever secured was on the clothing found scattered about the prairie. All the records in the coroner's office refer to the case as "an unknown woman."

Kept Out of Bartholin House.

Mrs. Ora A. Young, 576 Forty-third street, lived across the street from the Bartholin house shortly before the aged woman's disappearance. Before moving Mrs. Young stored her piano in the house at 4310 Calumet avenue. After she learned of the added mystery in the supposed elopement of William Bartholin with Minnie Mitchell she tried to get her piano moved from the house. Each time she approached Thompson about it, she says, he gave some excuse and tried to avoid her.

"He seemed to be afraid I was going into the house," said Mrs. Young. "I wrote notes to him and left them at the laundry with requests that he be at the house in the day so that an expressman could get in and move my piano. He never paid any attention to my requests, but once he told me that he could not see how he could help me out in the matter, because of the necessity of his working all day."

It was Mrs. Young who saw the express wagon at the front door of the Bartholin house with furniture loaded on it. The police do not think that this means was taken to cover up a crime, but are inclined to the belief that some of the roomers were moving furniture they owned.

Dig in Basement in Vain.

The diggers attacked the basement again and shoveled wherever there appeared to be a break in the cement floor. They found firm earth, however, and after a time gave it up. The basement bears the appearance of a street just before the paving gang arrives. The rubbish has been cleared out, and during the day there was a big bonfire in the yard. Although nothing significant has been found in the house since Sunday, the crowd of curious ones still fills the alley and sidewalk.

Girl Unable to Give a Clew.

Miss Mary Loesch, 4117 State street, called on Lieut. Backus at the Fiftieth street police station last evening in response to his invitation, but could give no light on Bartholin's recent movements.

"I have not seen him for three months," she said, and Lieut. Backus excused her from a further interview.

Policeman Lyonese of central detail thought he had found Bartholin in the Wellington hotel last evening, but found out that the man was Fred J. Menke before he had gone so far as to make an arrest.

The residents of Guthrie, Okla., are sure that Bartholin was in their town last Sunday. J. M. Brooks, owner of the Hotel Royal, says he recognizes the published pictures of the fugitive as the likeness of a guest. This belief is shared by the clerks and other guests. The man has disappeared.

The report from St. Joseph locates the fugitive eight miles east of the town.

WEDDING ENCORE A FROST

ACTOR ASKS THE COURT TO RING DOWN THE CURTAIN.

Benjamin Franklin Bush's Second Entry on Matrimonial Stage Marred by Music and He Declares Drama a Failure—Oak Park Couple Finds Three Months of Married Life a Plenty and Divorce Is Granted—Banker's Wife Charges Cruelty.

After an encore on the matrimonial stage Benjamin Franklin Bush, a Thespian, is anxious to have the court ring down a curtain which will forever separate him from the woman who gave him a recall.

It was two years or more after the death of his first wife that Bush thought he was required to make a reappearance before Cupid's flickering footlights. Then he went down to the vicinity of Boston, where the girls are cultured and wear "specs," and at Point of Pines, a resort near that city, he met his second fate.

He had lived happily sixteen years, he says, with the first Mrs. Bush, and could see no reason why further happiness should not be his, but the music was too fast. They started together at Lowell, Mass., in August, 1899, and shortly after that the orchestra began to make trouble.

This orchestra, according to the petition filed in the Circuit court, was Prof. George Williams. He had been employed to add to the new Mrs. Bush's culture in the way of music. She was a quick student and the professor was an earnest teacher—too earnest, says Actor Bush. That is why he wants to have the curtain rung down and the play stopped.

Drama Has Short Run.

It was a short engagement—only three months from the start at Lowell until Bush clared the drama a failure. The dénouement caused Mr. Bush great distress, he says. His bride's conduct, this Thespian declares, was such a shock to him that he was unable to appear in public for some time.

"As long as she was in the city," said Mr. Bush yesterday, "I could not longer live in New York, and I was obliged to sell my home and pictures, and leave the city. I have just returned to this country, and will, in a short time, go back to England, where I hope to forget all about my sorrow."

Frank Bush was originally associated with Tony Pastor in New York. He has been on the stage continually since 1877. He is said by Manager Castle of the Chicago Opera House to be the originator of the Hebrew character delineation.

Divorce Ends Domestic Discord.

A decree of divorce was granted by Judge Chytraus yesterday to Clara M. Wetherell from her husband, Homer S. Wetherell. Incompatibility of temperament was the reason assigned. Mr. Wetherell is an agent for the Elkhart Bridge company of this city. Mrs. Wetherell said she sat up nights trying to think what she could do to make her husband happier, but without success. They were married in 1892 and lived together until 1901. With the exception of two years, when they were in Des Moines, they lived on Oakwood boulevard.

Mrs. Wetherell also said that on one occasion she went down to the lake intending to end her sorrow in a watery grave, but that her husband followed her, and just as she was about to jump in grabbed her and roughly asked her what she was going to do. She told him she was going to end her life, and instead of being kind and gentle with her she said he took hold of her roughly and jerked her home, scolding her at every step.

Three Months Wedded Enough.

Bernard Keller is an insurance man, with home and office in Oak Park. On May 30 of this year he married Tillie Peters. But it is charged that the bride kept late hours elsewhere than in her house, and Judge Chytraus yesterday granted Mr. Keller a divorce. The husband testified that his wife told him she loved another man better.

Banker Sued for Divorce.

Divorce proceedings have been begun against Anthony W. Marggraff, manager of the foreign department of the National Bank of the Republic, by his wife, Margaret Merideth Marggraff. The bill was filed in the Circuit court yesterday and states that this is the second time that she has begun divorce proceedings on account of cruelty. The bill asserts that Marggraff and his wife were married in 1891, and that there are two children, Harold and Arthur. Mrs. Marggraff alleges that at one time her husband attempted to stab her with a pair of scissors.

GIRL SUICIDE A MYSTERY.

DIES AT HOSPITAL WITHOUT REVEALING IDENTITY.

Strange Man Calls Later and Makes Arrangements for the Funeral—Answers All Inquiries as to His Name with "Friedman"—Implies That Deceased Was His Wife, but Refuses to Give Address or Business—Inquest May Explain All Today.

In the death of a young woman at the Chicago hospital from poison, said to have been taken with suicidal intent, another mystery was presented yesterday for solution. The woman was about 20 years old and of attractive personal appearance.

Beyond the fact that she was supposed to be the wife of a man named Friedman, and that the couple occupied apartments in the Highland flat building at 5205 Calumet avenue, nothing is known of the case.

Neither the doctor who treated the woman, the authorities of the hospital where she was received, nor the undertaker who received instructions as to the funeral was able to learn anything more of the man than that he gave his name as Friedman.

One tenant of the flat building said he understood the man had interests at 151 Clark street, but this place was closed last night and there was no name of any kind on the door.

Makes Poison of Matches.

Tips of phosphorous matches, soaked in water until a poisonous solution was formed, and this liquid swallowed was the method the young woman is said to have adopted to end her life. It was twenty-four hours after taking this mixture before death came. During most of that time the woman was unconscious. But during her temporary rational moments she refused to make a statement or answer questions.

Several hours after her death Friedman in some manner learned she had been taken to the hospital and called there. When informed of her death he proceeded to arrange for the funeral. Police of the Fiftieth street station asked him his name, but he declined to give more than has been mentioned. The police believe that "Friedman" is fictitious and that the man has some reason for concealing his identity.

Two months ago the Friedmans secured apartments in the Highland flat building, which they furnished handsomely. "Mrs." Friedman wore fashionable and expensive gowns and frequently went riding in an automobile. The couple were exclusive and made no acquaintance among the other tenants.

Rumors of Differences.

Recently the janitor overheard a conversation which led him to believe Friedman was preparing to leave for Colorado. He also understood that "Mrs." Friedman objected to this and pleaded with him to abandon his intention.

But during the last few days, the tenants say, Friedman had not been seen around the building. Early in the morning and late at night they assert the face of the woman was seen at a window looking anxiously for some one. She was a frequent visitor at a neighboring drug store, also where she used the telephone a great deal.

Then on Monday evening Dr. J. M. Lang, 4800 Prairie avenue, drove hurriedly up to the flat and entered the Friedman apartments. A few minutes later an ambulance was called and the woman was taken to the hospital. There she died last night. The inquest this morning may explain it all.

PREFERS DEATH TO HEADACHE.

Girl Commits Suicide to End Her Suffering—Woman Ends Life While Despondent.

Because she suffered from headaches Sarah Rogers, 17 years old, committed suicide yesterday evening at the Sewall-Clapp envelope factory, 521 Wabash avenue, by drinking carbolic acid. She had complained of the headache all day, and in the evening while working at a table drank acid from a bottle which was on the table.

Mrs. Mamie Jones, 33 years old, was found unconscious yesterday in her room, 46 South Curtis street, by her husband, Lawrence Jones. A cup which had contained carbolic acid stood on a chair. It is believed she committed suicide while despondent. She died at the county hospital.

Charles Schultz, 435 West Belmont avenue, was found dead in the rear of his store yesterday by his wife. The man had drank carbolic acid. Ill health is given as the motive for the act. Schultz is said to have possessed considerable money.

JOIN TO FIGHT TEAMSTERS

BUSINESS MEN ORGANIZE TO PUT CHECK ON BIG UNION.

Purpose Is to Prevent the Drivers from Interfering with Strikes Called by Other Labor Bodies—Three Team Owners' Associations Amalgamated Into One and Officers Chosen—Carrier Boys in Another Walkout—Laundry Girls Quit Work.

Every business man of the city who transports a large quantity of goods by wagons will be invited to join "The Associated Teaming Interests," which has been organized to keep the teamsters from interfering in strikes called by other unions.

The disturbances which followed the packing house drivers' and freight handlers' strikes caused a loss to the city of over $8,000,000, according to a State street merchant, and the business men are determined that it shall not occur again. To prevent this they have organized their association and sent out invitations to the large companies of the city.

Fifty firms already have joined and over 100 more are expected to become enrolled as members when the first general meeting is held tomorrow night at the Great Northern hotel.

Three Organizations in One.

The association is partly the outgrowth of the Coal Team Owners', the Team Owners', and the Express and Van Team Owners' associations. These individually have been unable to hold the teamsters in line, and a joint organization, it is believed, will have more effect.

The move gained its greatest impetus last week when the National Teamsters' union convention at Joliet refused to reorganize the Truck Drivers' union which has a membership of 9,000 men. This body is the strongest of the local organizations and the best equipped to enforce its demands. At the time of the freight handlers' strike it broke from the control of its officers and threatened to tie up the city. President Albert Young of the national body then attempted to divide the local into nine bodies of 1,000 men each, but he failed.

Temporary Officers Chosen.

The interests already connected with the new movement consist of the State street merchants, the ice companies, the van and express companies, the wholesale grocers, and the storage house firms. The officers who were elected at the first meeting are as follows:

President—Frank H. Hebard of the Hebard Express and Van company.

Secretary and Treasurer—John C. Driscoll of the National Team Owners.

Executive Board—R. H. Adams of the Zuttermeister Ice company, Robert Mandel of Mandel Brothers, and A. C. Butolph of the W. M. Hoyt company.

Constitution Committee—John S. Field of the Knickerbocker Ice company, Harry G. Selfridge of Marshall Field & Co., and F. G. Hartwell of the Hartwell Coal company.

Boys on Another Strike.

The boys broke loose again yesterday and had another strike. Forty of the carriers from the Brink Express company decided they were worth $4 a week instead of $3.50. A committee went to see the management of the company and was promised a slight increase if the boys would remain at work. The boys went back.

Laundry Girls Walk Out.

The laundry girls at 244 Thirty-first street and at 147 Huron street went out on a strike yesterday for better pay and no work on Saturday night. They visited the headquarters of the Chicago Federation of Labor and said their strike did little good, as the firms sent their goods to other laundries. This program, the girls claim, is a direct outcome of the meeting of the Laundrymen's Protective association at the Briggs house Monday night.

LUMBER DRIVERS MAY GO OUT.

Promise to Quit Today if Edward Hines Does Not Return and Sign the Scale.

Unless Edward Hines of the Hines Lumber company arrives in Chicago today and signs the wage scale agreement entered into by the Lumbermen's association the lumber, box, and shaving teamsters of every yard, mill, and factory of the city will stop work.

This decision was informally agreed upon yesterday by members of the union, who held a meeting at Horan's hall. Hines represents the Lumbermen's association and is out of town. When he left without signing the scale the men protested, when he did not return they grew suspicious, and finally struck, but returned to work.

Hines telegraphed yesterday that he soon would come and sign the agreement, but the men want it done now.

The scale the men want Hines to sign is as follows: For single horse wagons, $11 a week; for donkey carts, $11 a week; for double horse wagons, $12 a week; for three horse wagons, $15 a week; 22½ cents an hour for overtime with all teams except the three horse, for which the driver is to get 25 cents an hour. The working day is to begin at 6 a. m., a rest of an hour for dinner, and stop at 6 p. m.

ADVISE AGAINST CAR LINE STRIKE

Officers of the Chicago Federation of Labor Plead for Arbitration.

PROGRAM FOR A WALKOUT

Radical Element Insists on Early Action and Crisis Will Come Tuesday.

Officers of the Chicago Federation of Labor met with employés of both the Union Traction and Chicago City railway companies yesterday afternoon and tried to persuade them to live up to their agreements and submit their grievances to arbitration. In spite of the pressure the men announced a program that may result in a general strike next Tuesday morning.

Until yesterday morning the labor leaders had not realized the seriousness of the situation. Then President Lighthall of the federation and his executive committee called a conference of the street car men, listened to their grievances, and counseled with them. Complaints of broken faith on the part of the companies, of imminent danger to the unions, and of low wages were made, but when all had been said the federation officials advised arbitration instead of a strike.

No definite action was taken by the joint conference, which will meet again on Saturday after the Union Traction company's board of directors has passed on the demands of its men. By that time President W. D. Mahon of the general union will be in Chicago ready to take charge of the situation.

This the Strike Program.

The refusal of the federation leaders to sanction a strike caused some bitterness, and the radical element of the union announced the following program:

Wednesday night, when the Chicago City railway men meet at 3856 State street a motion will be made to give the executive committee of the union full power to call a strike Tuesday morning.

Thursday night, should the board of directors of the Union Traction company refuse the demands of its men, a similar motion will be made at the meeting of the Union Traction employés.

Monday night the joint executive boards of both unions will meet to take action.

It was announced during the day that an attempt was made at the joint meeting of last Monday night to call a general strike on Friday of this week. The motion was made by Delegate Curran of the barnmen of the Chicago City railway company, and supported by many of the north and west side men. Only the influence of Organizer C. O. Pratt of the national union prevented action at that time.

The union men set to work last night to gather evidence to support their charges that the companies have broken faith with them. This they will submit to the officials of the federation in the belief that it will influence their consent to a strike.

Arguments of the Conservatives.

Every move of the strike program will be fought. At the joint meeting yesterday Organizer Pratt and his supporters argued that the Federation of Labor could not afford to sanction a breach of contract between union men and employers. They referred to the stand taken by the central body during the freight handlers' strike, and also called attention to the position of President Mitchell of the United Mineworkers' union. They said the men had nothing to lose by arbitration and would risk much by a strike.

Finally one of the conservatives announced that President D. G. Hamilton of the Chicago City railway company was willing to reopen the entire controversy with his men and again consider all of their demands. While the statement was accepted as true, the men said they would not consider it as an excuse for any further postponement of the crisis, as they considered it merely a bid for time. At last adjournment was taken till Saturday.

Both President Mahon of the car unions and President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor have promised to be in Chicago in time to attend the north side meeting. Rezin Orr, treasurer of the international union, also will be here.

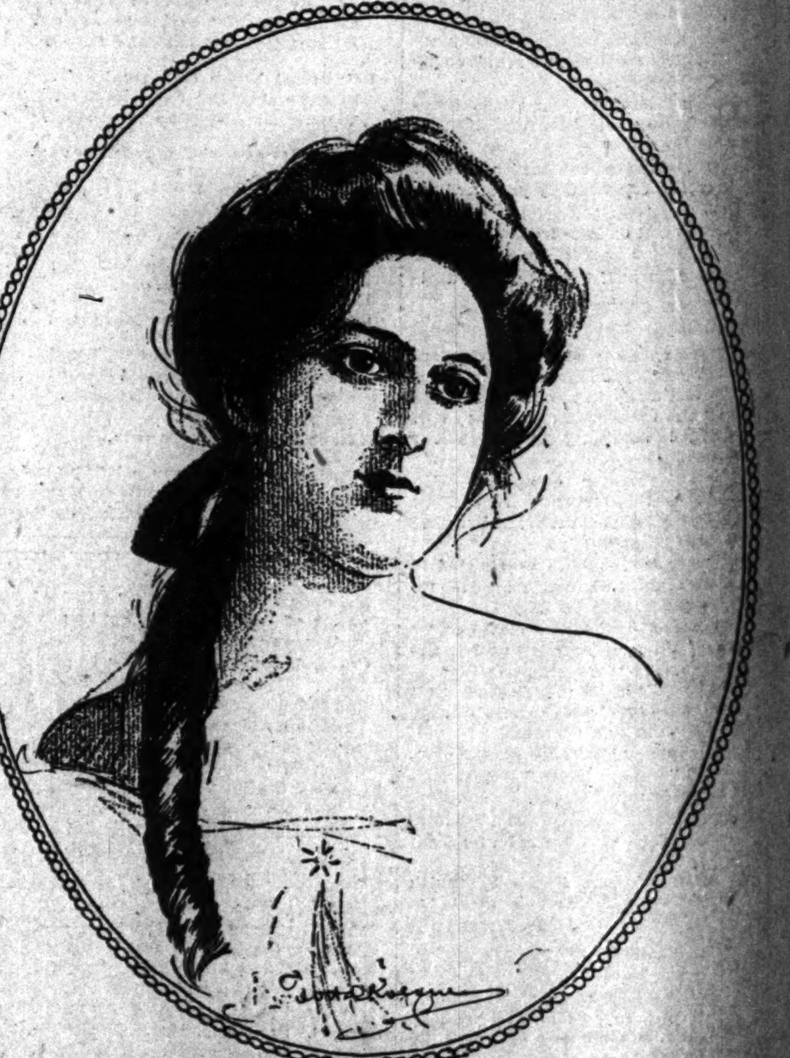
DRAMA IN A 17 YEAR OLD GIRL'S LIFE.



MRS. HARLEIGH HOLMES,
NEE CROCKER

Elopement—quarrel—criminal action for nonsupport of the wife—tears and reconciliation. This is the story of Harleigh Holmes and Elizabeth Crocker of Denver. The whole little drama has been enacted since February. The nonsupport case came one day and the next the wife, with misty eyes, on the arm of her husband, was seeking the dismissal of the case. The story began at Loretto convent in Denver in February when the 17 year old girl eloped with her 21 year old husband. They then went to live on Curtis street, Denver, where her guardian, summoned hastily from Chicago by the news of her secret marriage, found them. They left for the south and lived at Albuquerque, N. M., for a time. Their return to Denver and quarrel were recent. In reply to his wife's charge of nonsupport, Holmes averred that she was so indolent that she did not take care of the household as she should. He charged that her inattention to household duties made it impossible to live with her.

CITY IS SACKED BY REBEL ARMY.

American Consulate at Barcelona, Venezuela, Does Not Escape.

WARSHIPS ARE WANTED.

Six Days' Battle Ends in Surrender of Government Forces —Dead Number 167.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PORT OF SPAIN, Island of Trinidad, Aug. 12.—Surrendered by the government forces to the revolutionists after a six day battle, the city of Barcelona, Venezuela, has been pillaged, and a great part of it burned. The American, Italian, and Dutch consulates were sacked, and the consuls have asked for warships to protect life and property. The dead on both sides numbered 167.

Details of the fighting at Barcelona, received here by boat, show that the battle started on Sunday, Aug. 3, and that on the following Wednesday the revolutionists entered the city. They kept up a continuous firing day and night, destroying houses one by one to reach the center of the city.

Government Troops Surrender.

At midnight on Thursday two-thirds of the city was in the power of the revolutionists. On Friday the government strongholds were carried, and the last survivors of the government officers tried to escape by the river to the sea, but failing in this they made one last stand, after which, at noon on Friday, they surrendered to the revolutionist commanders, Gens. Francisco, Monagas, and Platero.

Among those taken prisoners are Martin Marcano, president of the state of Barcelona, and commander of the government troops, eight generals, and twenty-three colonels.

All Houses in City Pillaged.

All houses in the city were sacked, and in some instances inoffensive women and children were maltreated and killed. All stores were pillaged, especially those belonging to foreigners, and the French cable office was robbed.

United States Minister Bowen at Caracas has cabled the United States cruiser Cincinnati to go to Barcelona without delay and to take provisions. The Topeka is anchored at Porto Cabello, the Marietta is on the Orinoco, the German warship Falke is at Curacoa, and the Italian cruiser Giovanni Bausan and the British cruiser Pallas are at La Guayra.

Minister Asks for a Warship.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 12.—Minister Bowen has cabled the state department from Caracas that our consul at Barcelona has informed him by wire that Barcelona has been taken by the revolutionists; that they are sacking the town, and that in his judgment the protection of a vessel should be afforded him immediately. Mr. Bowen says he has cabled the Cincinnati to return without delay. He notes that the Topeka is at Porto Cabello and the Marietta up the Orinoco river.

After a conference between the state and navy department officials in regard to Minister Bowen's dispatch, the following instructions were prepared for the commander of the Topeka at Porto Cabello:

"Vessel needed immediately at Barcelona. If you sail before the Cincinnati arrives from Curacoa leave for it instructions cabled you yesterday."

One Vessel Now on the Way.

Before the instructions were sent the Cincinnati reported its arrival at Porto Cabello, whereupon the instructions were modified so as to direct that one of the ships proceed immediately to Barcelona. This leaves it discretionary with Capt. McLean of the Cincinnati, the senior officer present, to send the Topeka or go himself with the Cincinnati. The vessel which remains will be prepared to land blue jackets at Porto Cabello in case of necessity.

Germany Takes No Action.

BERLIN, Aug. 12.—At the foreign office it was said today that the German government knew nothing of the reported intention to land German marines at Porto Cabello, Venezuela, and if the United States had sent a vessel to land marines there it must be for other reasons than the reported German landing. Commanders of German war vessels in the Caribbean, it was added, would not go beyond their discretion, if they considered it necessary to land a force to protect German interests.

India to Build Persian Railway.

CALCUTTA, Aug. 12.—The survey of the proposed railway on the Persian frontier having been completed, the Indian government will proceed at once with the construction of the road. It is expected that this railway will revolutionize central Asian trade.

TELLS OF PRINCE'S LOVE.

PARIS PAPER DESCRIBES AMERICAN GIRL'S CONQUEST.

Claims Duchess of Marlborough Sympathizes with Miss Gladys Deacon in Her Dream of Becoming Empress of Germany—Emperor's Demand for Return of Ring Refused Many Times, Then Angry Young Woman Throws It at Diplomat.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, Aug. 12.—The Matin, continuing to publish details of the love affair between the German crown prince and Miss Gladys Deacon, says that the duchess of Marlborough is in entire sympathy with Miss Deacon in her dreams of becoming an empress. The duchess, the paper says, argues that she married a duke, and why; then, should not her protégé marry a prince of the empire?

The Matin says that the duke of Marlborough was at first ironical, but afterward fell in with the dreams of Miss Deacon and the duchess.

Emperor Demands Return of Ring.

Emperor William, viewing the affair in a different light, sent a messenger to Miss Deacon demanding the return of the ring given to her by the crown prince and saying that the ring was not the property of the crown prince, but was a gift of the Empress Frederick to the German nation.

Miss Deacon, backed by the duchess of Marlborough, indignantly refused to part with the precious love token. Messenger succeeded messenger, each of higher rank and each more diplomatic and caressing in his manner than the preceding one, until at last Miss Deacon, in a fit of anger and wounded love, threw the ring into the emperor's representative's face.

Crown Prince Kept in Room.

Meantime the crown prince was closely confined to his room, and his uncle, Prince Henry of Prussia, was sent to represent Emperor William at the coronation of King Edward.

TELLS HOW TEACHERS DIED.

Army Officer in Charge of Cebu Sends Details of the Massacre on June 10.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

MANILA, Aug. 12.—The army officer in charge in Cebu has sent in details of the assassination of the four American school teachers, John E. Wells of Providence, R. I.; his cousin, Louis A. Thoms of the same place; Ernest Heger of Cincinnati, O.; and Clyde A. France of Berea, O., last month. He says the four teachers were ambushed in the mountains. Two of them were killed at the first fire, and one was shot in the back while running. The fourth fled, but was captured. One of the teachers was buried alive, his wound not being fatal. Two of the bodies were buried deep. The others were disinterred and eaten by dogs.

The bodies of these teachers were found on July 24, after the teachers had been missing since June 10. The police killed the leader of the band of murderers and captured eight other alleged participants in the crime. One man escaped.

The cholera is increasing in Vigan. Eight soldiers and several civilians have died of the disease. Additional doctors have been sent to Vigan from headquarters here.

Maj. Gen. Chaffee left on the transport Ingalls today for a trip to the southern islands. He will be absent twenty days.

Maj. Gens. Willich and Gronau, commanding in the district, attended a farewell dinner, where Lieut. Hildebrandt and his conduct were toasted. The lieutenant was escorted to the railway station in a degree of state usually bestowed only on princely personages.

Lieut. Hildebrandt, who killed Lieut. Blaskowitz in a duel last November, and who was sentenced to two years' imprisonment in a fortress, was pardoned by Emperor William on July 31, after having served seven months of his sentence.

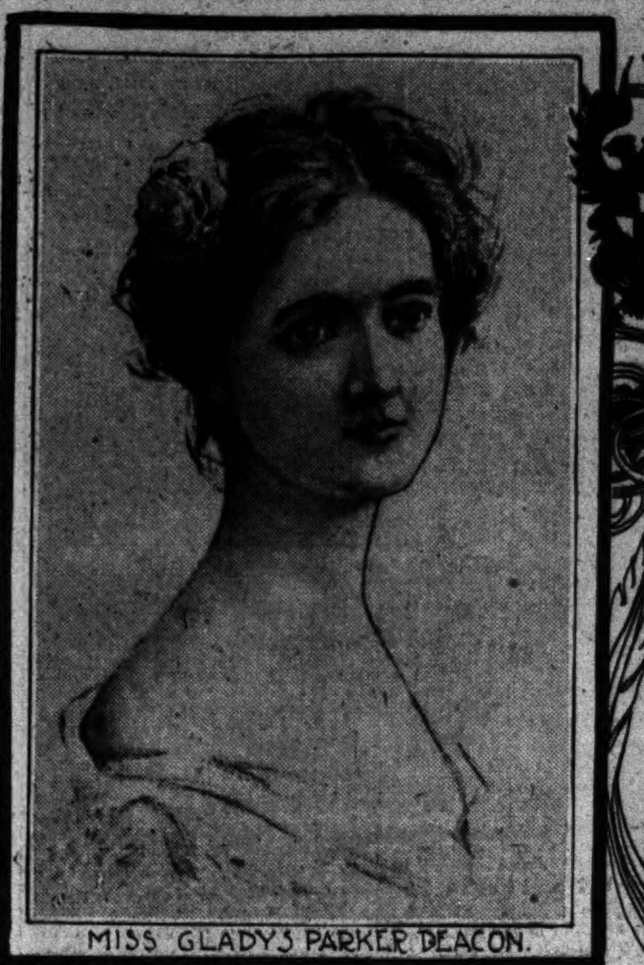
GIRL'S WEDDING SECRET IS CONFESSED AND "ALL IS FORGIVEN" BY PARENTS.

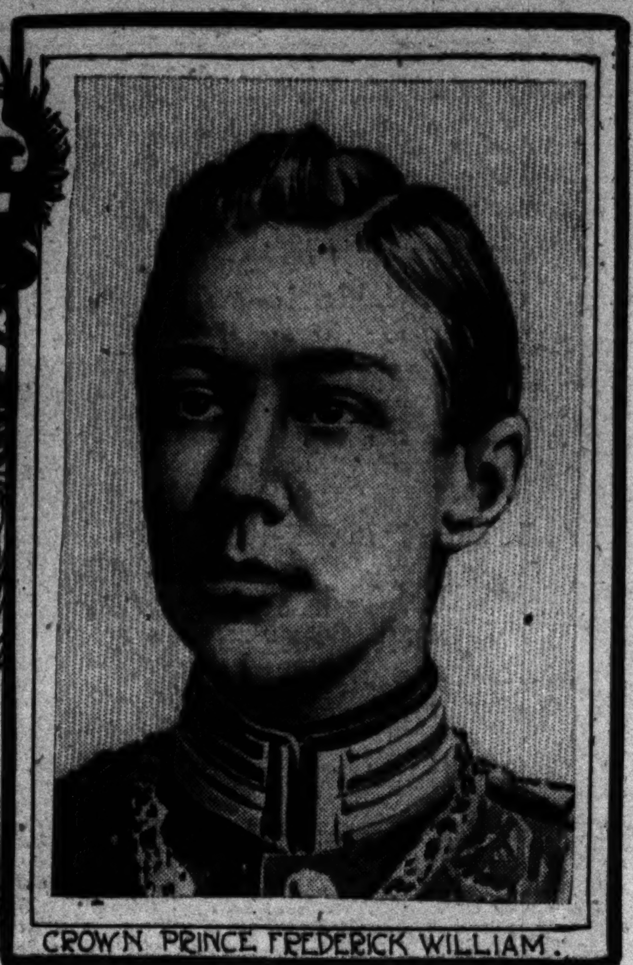
MRS. JOHN R. WILSON.

John R. Wilson and his wife Edith were surprised last night when informed that their marriage, which took place in Joliet, had become known in Chicago. Mr. Wilson was at his residence, 6201 Wentworth avenue, when shown a telegram divulging the fact that he and Miss Edith A. Graham, daughter of David M. Graham, 5900 La Salle street, had been married by the Rev. C. G. Reynolds, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Joliet. The young folks had gone away quietly last Saturday after business hours, and had returned to Chicago as husband and wife. They didn't tell, and they went to their respective homes. Last night Mr. Wilson went over and confessed to his new mother-in-law and received her blessing. Mr. Wilson is 21 years of age, and is a member of company F, in the First regiment, I. N. G. His wife is three years his junior, and a belle in the Englewood neighborhood.

AMERICAN GIRL FOR WHOM KAISER'S HEIR WOULD RENOUNCE THRONE



MISS GLADYS PARKER DEACON.



CROWN PRINCE FREDERICK WILLIAM.

Miss Deacon, whose refusal to marry the German crown prince morganatically led to a quarrel between Prince Frederick and his father, the prince declaring he would marry her and give up the throne, is the second daughter of the late Edward Parker Deacon of New York and Boston. She is 20 years old. She is tall and has a slender and graceful figure. Her features and head are pronounced absolutely beyond criticism by the artistic brotherhood, even when judged by the severest examples of classic beauty. Her eyes are large and of a deep gray and are tinged with violet, while her eyebrows are arched, delicately penciled, and several shades darker than her hair, which is of the purest and deepest golden. She speaks French and German. Her début was at the Vanderbilt-Marlborough wedding, at which she was a bridemaid. The crown prince met her at the duchess of Marlborough's in England. There the prince gave her a ring and a number of presents, and after his return to Germany is said to have written her a letter every day.

GEN. SMITH MAY CONTEST

RETIRED SOLDIER WILL SEEK VINDICATION FOR ACTS.

Brother-in-Law and Attorney for Man Punished for "Kill and Burn" Order in Samar Declares He Probably Will Make Effort to Force Reinstatement—Claims President Overstepped Power, and Army Officers Will Support Their Fellow.

Portsmouth, O., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Statements made here this afternoon by Judge James W. Bannon, brother-in-law of and attorney for Gen. Jacob Smith, indicate that the general will contest the action of President Roosevelt in retiring him as punishment for his "kill and burn" order in the Samar campaign.

Judge Bannon said: "Gen. Smith will remain in Portsmouth for about a month; during that time he will be engaged in formulating his official report to the war department. This report will contain a complete description of the conditions which confronted the American troops in the Philippines, the hardships they suffered, the atrocities of the natives, the circumstances leading to the giving of the now famous order, and will be a complete vindication of Gen. Smith's conduct.

"Gen. Smith will take no action until he consults manay of his friends among the officers of the regular army. He will be in attendance at the reunion in Washington, beginning Sept. 15, and will there map out his plan of action with them. The action of President Roosevelt concerns hundreds of officers in the army more than it does Gen. Smith. These are vitally interested in a contest which shall decide whether or not the president may retire any officer who may have chanced to displease him. On this account the general will have the moral and active support of many regular army officers.

"Whether or not the general will fight the case remains with him. He will depend largely upon the opinion of his army friends. I have advised and will continue to advise him to go into the contest with heart and soul. Under the circumstances his army friends can do no less; they are more vitally interested than he. Many of them are now importuning him to begin action at once."

Gen. Smith refuses to discuss his future action.

FRENCH YIELD POINT IN CHINA.

Government Consents to Restoration of Pekin-Shanghai Kwan Railway, but Russia Is Obdurate.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PEKIN, Aug. 12.—The consent of the French was given yesterday afternoon to the restoration of the Pekin-Shanghai Kwan railway to the Chinese, according to the terms of the present agreement, with reservations pertaining to the right of the French to construct the Tien-Tsin-Paoting-Fu line. This consent, however, does not insure the restoration of the Pekin-Shanghai Kwan line, as Russia has not yet agreed to relinquish a small section of the railway, from the Shanghai Kwan station to the great wall, which it declares is necessary to its operation of the Shanghai Kwan-New Chwang line. Russia says it is willing to relinquish this section when the English relinquish the part of the line held by them.

Yuan Shai Kai, governor of Pe Chi Li province, visited United States Minister Conger today and thanked him warmly for the efforts made by the United States to obtain the restoration of Tien Tsin to the Chinese on reasonable terms.

Yuan Shai Kai said the Chinese government realized and appreciated that the restoration of Tien Tsin was due chiefly to the friendly efforts of America.

Proposed Conference of Boer Leaders at Johannesburg Is Countermanded by Former President.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 12.—It is said that as a result of an interview with former President Steyn of the Orange Free state Mr. Kruger, former president of the Transvaal republic, has abandoned his political campaign and countermanded the proposed conference of Boer leaders at Johannesburg. It is unofficially announced that Gens. Botha and Delarey, who, together with Gen. Dewet, are expected to reach England from south Africa next Saturday will be appointed members of the new Transvaal legislative council.

NEW LINER TO BREAK RECORDS.

Kaiser Wilhelm II., Launched at Stettin, Is Expected to Prove the Fastest Liner Afloat.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

STETTIN, Aug. 12.—The steamship Kaiser Wilhelm II., the longest vessel in the world, was launched at the Vulcan shipyards today in the presense of the kaiser and a brilliant assemblage, which included the ministers of war, railways, and posts. Miss Elsie Wiegand, daughter of Dr. H. Wiegand, director general of the line, named the vessel. The steamer is expected to break present records.

A number of decorations were conferred on officers of the Vulcan company. Supt. Schluthow received the order of the crown and red eagle of the second class, Director Stahl the red eagle of the third class, and Engineers Hansen and Schwartz the red eagle of the fourth class.

The Kaiser Wilhelm II. is approximately 707 feet long, 71½ feet beam, depth 39 feet, and draft 29 feet. It is of 39,000 horsepower, 19,500 tons displacement, and will accommodate 1,000 cabin passengers. It is expected that the vessel will develop a speed of twenty-four knots an hour.

NATION TO AID CONTRACTORS.

Minister in Ecuador Will Seek Satisfaction for Company That Is Accused of Failing to Pay Employes.

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Aug. 12.—Archibald J. Sampson, United States minister to Ecuador, is at present here trying to effect an amicable settlement of a question which is now pending before a local court between the J. P. McDonald company, the American contractors engaged in the construction of the Guayaquil-Quito railroad, and a citizen of Ecuador named Darquea, who claims that the American company failed to pay him for work performed. Jackson Smith, manager of the J. P. McDonald company, was sued by Darquea for the money the latter alleged to be due. Smith, however, escaped from the country and sailed for the United States.

It was announced from Guayaquil Feb. 19 that Jackson Smith had been detained by a police court to answer in the lawsuit of a contractor who claimed several thousand dollars from the J. P. McDonald company, and as a result of which J. P. McDonald was ordered by a police court judge to pay the amount or go to jail.

BOLIVIA'S SIDE OF THE DISPUTE.

President Pando Explains Concession to Acre Syndicate, Refuting Brazil's Contention.

LAPAZ, Bolivia, Aug. 12.—Congress was opened here on Sunday. President Pando's message said Brazil opposed the proposed lease of territory to the Acre syndicate on the ground that it would be dangerous and would lead to losses. These contentions, however, said the message had not been proved. Bolivia had proceeded correctly, the syndicate had deposited $25,000, and had one year in which to form a company.

The syndicate which seeks to develop the territory under a concession from Bolivia is composed of American and British capitalists. Brazil objected to the concession and Bolivia appealed to the United States.

The efforts of the United States to bring about a settlement have not met with success.

HAYTIAN BLOCKADE IS FUTILE.

Commander of American Gunboat Declares Attempt of Rebels to Cut Off Coast City Ineffective.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 12.—The navy department today received two cablegrams from Commander McCrea of the gunboat Machias, dated Cape Haytian, Aug. 12, in which he reports that the attempted blockade of the port by the revolutionists is ineffective. In the first dispatch he said:

"Have decided blockade spasmodic, therefore ineffective. Notified consuls will protect innocent, neutral commerce."

In the second dispatch, which came later, he said:

"Consider blockade abandoned, American schooner reporting blockader absent."

DOES NOT KISS TOE OF POPE.

Lord Denbigh, Although a Roman Catholic, Does Not Comply with the Vatican Custom.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Aug. 12.—The Globe today rebukes the official organ of the Protestant alliance for publishing a picture of Lord Denbigh, lord in waiting to King Edward, in the act of kissing the pope's toe. The Globe explains that the earl of Denbigh was the king's special envoy to the pope. As a devout Roman Catholic he was personally willing to conform to the custom, but as the representative of a Protestant sovereign he declined to do so. The ceremony was accordingly not performed.

The society has ample funds and is well organized, and every member of it has sworn to give his life if required for the cause.

Anarchist Jumps Into Ocean.

ROME, Aug. 12.—The Italian steamer Citta di Milano, from New York July 22, which arrived at Genoa Aug. 9, reports that an anarchist named Sganza of New York committed suicide by jumping overboard while the vessel was off Gibraltar. It is alleged that Sganza had been commissioned to murder a European royal personage, and that he was on his way to Europe for this purpose, but weakened at the last moment and killed himself. Two of his companions disappeared upon the arrival of the Citta di Milano at Genoa.

BRAGG INCIDENT IS CLOSED.

United States to Take No Further Action Against Consul General at Havana Unless Requested.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Unless the Cuban government makes some further representations in the case of Gen. Bragg, the United States consul general at Havana, and indicates that he is not wanted there any more, the United States will not disturb its representative. The complaint of the Cuban minister of foreign affairs over Gen. Bragg's uncomplimentary remarks concerning the Cubans in a private letter to his wife, with Gen. Bragg's explanation that he had a right to say what he pleased to his better half, and that what he said wasn't anybody's business, was sent to President Roosevelt. That was the end of it as far as anybody here knows. President Palma has mentioned the Bragg incident once casually to Mr. Squiers, the United States minister in Havana, but he did not indicate that his government wanted to have Gen. Bragg recalled.

KING HONORS COLONIALS.

EDWARD VII. PRESENTS MEDALS TO THE PREMIERS.

Sovereign Pins Coronation Souvenirs on Breasts of His Subjects from Dependencies and Awards Victoria Cross to Sergeant Lawrence—Troops Pass in Brilliant Review Before the Royal Family at Buckingham Palace—Thanks Them for Services.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Aug. 12.—King Edward today rceived the colonial premiers, who have just completed their labors before the colonial review, and presented them with gold coronation medals.

The review of the colonial troops was brilliant with ceremony. It was a full dress state function and took place in the beautiful gardens of Buckingham palace. There was a large throng of members of the royal family, the prime ministers of the colonies, the Indian princes, and several of the nobility, the attendance embracing practically all the coronation guests.

The troops, numbering in all 1,900, arrived at the palace at 3 o'clock, having marched through streets which were crowded with enthusiastic onlookers. The king's guests assembled on the garden terrace attired in uniform or levee dress. At 4 o'clock the king, wearing the uniform of a field marshal, arrived, accompanied by the queen, who was leading her little granddaughter, Princess Victoria Alexandra of Wales. They were followed by the prince of Wales and two of his sons.

A military band played the national anthem and the king then took the salute. The troops afterward passed in single file by the tent, where the prince of Wales pinned to their tunics the medals, the conferring of which was part of the occasion for the ceremony. The first man to approach the tent was Sergeant Lawrence, who received the Victoria cross. This was affixed by the king. The king said:

"It has afforded me great pleasure to see you here today and to have the opportunity of expressing my high appreciation of your patriotism and the way you distinguished yourselves in south Africa. The services you have rendered the mother country will never be forgotten by me, and they will, I am sure, cement more firmly than ever the union of our distant colonies with the other parts of my great empire. God bless you all. I wish you a safe and pleasant return to your own countries."

At the conclusion of the ceremony the troops gave three cheers for the king and the queen. The royal family then watched the departure of the troops from the front of the balcony.

MEANS OF REDEEMING LAW FROM DISGRACE DISCUSSED.

Chicago Attorney Tells of the Disrepute Brought on the Profession by Some Dishonest Members.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Means of redeeming the law profession from the disrepute which has fallen upon it through the acts of some of its unscrupulous members were discussed by E. C. Ferguson of Chicago, president of the Law League of America, at today's session of the convention. He pointed out that much could be accomplished in this line by concerted action against the sharks who thrive on the dishonest proceeds of litigation. A certain class of commercial agencies in particular was scored.

In his annual report Mr. Ferguson pointed out that it was not the province of the league to take the initiative in securing legislation, but to aid other organizations which have such an object.

The bankruptcy law Mr. Ferguson characterized as a great protector of the middle classes. It is a protection of the small merchant against overgrasping creditors, he declared. It is also a protection to the small creditor, who thus secures a show of getting his fair share of the assets of a bankruptcy concern.

Laws against trusts were also discussed by the speaker. He made no recommendation for any specific legislation, but declared the courts of the country are the bulwarks which will protect the common people from the kings of finance.

OBJECT TO 'PHONE ASSESSMENT

Long Distance and Illinois Companies Ask Reviewers for Large Reductions.

The Long Distance and the Illinois Telephone and Telegraph companies had an inning before the board of review yesterday and pleaded for a heavy reduction. The assessors had placed a valuation of $183,000 on the property of the Long Distance company in Chicago, of which $100,000 is booked in the south town. The manager gave a list of his south town effects and made the value less than $10,000. He insisted that a mistake had been made somewhere, and the board agreed to look it up. Last year the reviewers put the figures for this company at $107,213. This year the total valuation in the county is $270,660.

Ald. Novak appeared as attorney for the Illinois company to protest against a valuation of $500,000. This sum, however, is equally divided between the telephone and telegraph company, and the Illinois Telephone and Telegraph Construction company.

Mr. Novak insisted that the former has nothing that anybody could assess, and $100,000 would be the right valuation for the latter. The board will investigate.

PLOT TO WRECK INFIRMARY.

Inmate of Adams County, Ind., Hospital Found in Possession of Large Quantity of Dynamite.

Decatur, Ind., Aug. 12.—A plot to destroy the Adams county infirmary and to kill the forty-four inmates was unearthed today.

A. W. Butler, secretary of the state board of charities, was making an inspection of the buildings, and in the room of Charles Echerman he found a pile of rubbish, which he ordered removed. There was found buried beneath the rubbish sixty pounds of dynamite, two two pound dynamite bombs, and 115 feet of fuse. Echerman has been an inmate of the infirmary over twelve years and was recently reprimanded, and since that time has been sulky.

When the discovery of the dynamite was made today Echerman disappeared, but was caught tonight at Chattanooga, O. He had a large dynamite bomb in his pocket.

SILVER MAY RUIN MEXICANS.

Depreciation of Metal and High Gold Premiums Cause Suspension of Many Contracts.

Mexico City, Aug. 12.—Owing to the depreciation of silver and the high gold premium various large contracts are held back and some have been suspended. Many houses that had contracted for machinery or other articles at an exchange 25 points lower than the present rate will lose money. Many business men feel that it is only a question of time when the country will go on a gold basis. No importer can make calculations regarding future prices, and this uncertainty prevents the fullest measure of business activity here.

Lewis of Western Maryland college, Westminster, Md., was selected by the trusteed of Adrian college today to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of President David Jones, who will enter active ministerial work. The new president, it is said, will continue to devote part of his time to Western Maryland college.

ANOTHER TO QUIT BALFOUR CABINET

Resignation of Duke of Devonshire Now Believed to Be Certain.

CHANGE IS IMPORTANT.

New Ministry May Carry Education Bill, but Is Looked Upon as Temporary.

[Copyright: 1902: By the New York Tribune.]
[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Aug. 13, 3 a. m.—The resignation of the duke of Devonshire from the council has not yet been announced, but it is expected with confidence by well informed politicians before October. The king may have urged him to retain the office at the special audience previous to the meeting of the council, but it has been understood in the inner circles of the government supporters for a fortnight that he was bent upon following Lord Salisbury and Sir Michael Hicks-Beach into retirement.

If this resignation comes, Balfour's cabinet will lose, with the exception of Joseph Chamberlain, almost the only member possessing great influence in the country.

The more closely the new cabinet is studied the more artificial and temporary it appears. The series of political compromises that effected it may succeed in carrying the education bill in October by a reduced majority, but it lacks the political authority required for retaining the confidence of the country.

Balfour Will Be Cautious.

There is little in the suggestion that Balfour is riding for a fall. The new prime minister is not likely to attempt to break off his career before it fairly has begun. There is no ground whatever for the suspicion that Joseph Chamberlain is disloyal to Balfour and seeking to take his place when the reputation of the present unstable cabinet is exhausted.

A shrewder forecast, which is made by one of the most promising and best informed men in parliament, is that Chamberlain will be prime minister within three years by virtue of the principle of the survival of the fittest, and the education bill, with which he is not identified, may bring about this result, even at an earlier period.

Colonial Assemblage Disperses.

The colonial assemblage, which has kept the Hotel Cecil in a hubbub since the middle of June, is breaking up. Sir Wilfrid Laurier will start with Sir Gilbert Parker today for the Channel islands and Paris, and will visit Rome before returning to London in September. He will not discuss the work of the imperial conference, but it is an open secret that he has exerted a decisive influence in keeping the colonies out of what he calls the vortex of European armaments.

There was, without a doubt, a vigorous effort on the part of Chamberlain to concentrate attention on this subject as the most available ground for common action, but there has been a complete failure to commit the colonies to the costly policy of a military and naval defense of the empire.

Subsidies Problem Sidetracked.

This question, apart from the increase in the Australian naval contribution, remains where it was, and the steamship subsidies have not been taken out of the hands of the colonial ministers interested in working out the plans for a fast mail service in the Atlantic and Pacific.

Preferential trade is remanded to the serious consideration of the British and colonial governments and taxpayers. It had been recommended tentatively within the bounds of the existing tariff arrangements.

DR. WILSON DENIES ARREST.

American Explains Part He Took in Expedition Against Nicaragua—Fighting in Colombian Army.

Columbus, O., Aug. 12.—In a letter written to a cousin in this city, Dr. Russell Wilson of Norwalk, O., who was reported to have been condemned to death by the Nicaraguan government for participating in the filibustering expedition, says he has never been arrested and never was in danger. The doctor says in substance:

"Several months ago I joined the Colombian regular army with the rank of major surgeon. Colombia and Nicaragua were at variance and I was placed on board the gunboat Gen. Pinzon as a surgeon to accompany the expedition. We tried to land at Bluefields at night, but, a high sea suddenly coming up, fifty men only were able to land, and at daybreak we were fired on from the forts and forced to retreat, leaving the fifty there. That may account for the story getting out that I was arrested.

"The expedition I was with was not a filibustering one, but one under the direction of the regular Colombian army."

LAW TO REGULATE FISH STORIES

Wisconsin Legislator Will Introduce Bill to Squelch Tellers of Yarns Regarding Their Catches.

La Crosse, Wis., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—W. T. Woodward, a La Crosse attorney who introduced into the last Wisconsin legislature a bill containing drastic restrictions against the marriage of people incapacitated by disease from bearing healthy children, has drafted a bill which he will present to the legislature this winter, the purpose of which is to prevent the telling of "fish stories." The bill provides that every fisherman must, under penalty of fine, register the weight of every fish taken exceeding one pound in weight. It provides for the appointment of a state officer with county deputies, with whom register shall be made, and whose duty it shall be to see that the law is enforced.

YE GARDENER'S CORNER

The rudbeckia, the canna, and the dahlia no weather can discourage or dishearten. Something can be done, even now, with cannas in pots.

"Patience, is a virtue" would seem to be the motto forced upon the gardener this season. Much patience is needed when it rains every day or night.

The hardy annuals are gathering strength for next season this summer. This knowledge should comfort the disappointed amateur longing for bloom.

The pot idea is worth noting for those flower lovers who do not care to put new earth in rented gardens, or who have begun too late. A few well selected pots of vivid bloom will transform a lawn or veranda.

Never be afraid to try transplanting, even when experienced plant workers say it cannot be done. If the nasturtiums in the back garden are especially fine take up in the dusk of the morning, shade all the first day, and cover bare spot.

Few people realize the value of the wild cucumber for bouquets, as well as a kindly and most beautiful cover-all. Its feathery white blossoms are admirable with almost every kind of flower and are sweet to see.

The sensitive plants grown from seed should be transplanted to the winter pots now. Place picked moss in the bottom of the pots, then a little good plant food, and fill up with good soil passed through a fine sieve. Shelter from the weather a little, and the delicate things will do well.

The portulaca—"rose moss" to our mothers—is proving its worth this rainy summer. Blooming as profusely as though the atmospheric conditions were perfect, it needs only a scanty smile of sunshine to show a small sea of color—white, golden, scarlet, crimson, purple, almost what you will.

Liquid fertilizers, made by diluting any good plant food, natural or commercial, with warm water, allowing it to cool, and dipping off or straining, will produce blossoms, often, when all else fails. Nature believes in a plentiful supply of nourishment, and it is difficult to offer her too much assistance of this kind.

KANKAKEE BOARD DIVERTS INQUIRY

Prosecution of Witness Causes Delay, but Some Testimony Is Heard.

H. H. Ball Acquitted and Rearrested—Unable to Get Lawyer in Small's County.

"The court finds there is not sufficient evidence to bind the defendant over."

State's Attorney Cooper had been used by Trustee Small to prosecute the case, and he and Trustees Small and Murphy at once went before Justice Hanna and swore out another warrant against Ball, charging the same offense of which Justice Nichols had just found him innocent. He was arrested shortly afterwards and taken before the second official, whose son holds a good position by favor of Senator Small.

By this time Mr. Orr had gone back to the asylum to attend the investigation there, and before he could be sent for Ball's case was set for 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, and he was sent to the jail for the night.

Citizens Fear to Sign Bail Bond.

An attempt was made to procure bail for him, but it proved useless, citizens freely acknowledging they did not care to incur Senator Small's ill will by interfering in the case, and there Ball will have to stay until morning. Then if Justice Hanna holds him over an application for a writ of habeas corpus will be sought from some judge in Chicago, and the case transferred to some place outside of this jurisdiction and the peculiar influences of Kankakee county.

Testimony at the Asylum.

In the meantime the investigation at the asylum had dragged. In the morning Attorney William H. Fitzgerald offered Dr. Dewey, the former superintendent, as a witness, and A. S. Wright, one of the members of the state board of charities, at once objected.

"He has not been at the asylum more than a couple of times for ten years," said Mr. Wright.

Dr. Glenn, another member of the board, also objected, saying he was opposed to the investigation being turned into an exploitation of a civil service law, and Ensley Moore, still another member of the board, and Col. J. Mack Tanner, its secretary, joined in the chorus.

"I propose to show by Dr. Dewey, who is recognized all over the country as an expert alienist," said Mr. Fitzgerald, "these things:

"The value of female physicians in women's wards of a hospital, it being acknowledged there are none in this one, although there once were; the character of attendants necessary to secure good results in an institution of this kind; the result of allowing the pathological laboratory to go into decay, as it is acknowledged the one here has; generally that the entire institution has deteriorated of late years and is not in so good a condition as it was before the present management took hold."

Four Overrule Judge Gibbons.

Judge Gibbons, however, was the only member of the board who was willing to listen to what Dr. Dewey had to say. The other four members voted against the admission of his testimony and it was ruled out.

Then Mr. Fitzgerald offered Dr. Stearns, now of Lake Geneva, but formerly the head of the medical staff here, to testify to the same things which Dr. Dewey was called for.

He was refused, as four members of the board declared that the question whether the hospital was in as good a condition now as formerly was not a proper matter for the state board of charities to inquire into. Dr. Glenn also made his speech about civil service reform over again.

Supt. Corbus Offers Witnesses.

During the afternoon session the early hours were taken up listening to testimony put in by Supt. Corbus. John Bowen of Chicago, whose wife is a patient, testified that he had visited the institution several times and never found anything wrong. He said he was well satisfied with the treatment his wife had received.

Ora McIntyre, Mary Barber, and Emma Cole, all nurses in the institution, were called and swore they had never seen any abuse of patients. Miss McIntyre and Miss Barber had had charge of Dr. May Weinberg while she was here and testified that she was a troublesome patient, exacting in her demands for attention, and subject to hallucinations. They specificially denied the charges Mrs. Weinberg made of ill treatment at their hands while she was here.

Corbus Takes the Stand.

Then Supt. Corbus was put on the stand, and acknowledging the truth of the charge made by James Hill the night before that he seldom visited the wards, claimed he could do better work by calling to his office patients he wished to see.

"I venture to say," said Dr. Corbus, "I know more patients by sight and name than any man who ever held my position."

"Have you ever collected political assessments from employés?" asked Mr. Fitzgerald.

"I have collected voluntary contributions," replied Dr. Corbus.

"Five per cent a month on each salary?"

"Yes."

"By whose direction?" persisted Mr. Fitzgerald.

"That of Senator Small."

"Whom did you pay the money over to?"

"The state central committee."

"Republican or democrat?" inquired Mr. Fitzgerald jocosely.

"Republican," answered Dr. Corbus solemnly.

Ex-Attendants' Formal Charges.

During the morning James H. Hill and J. C. McKee, two former attendants, filed the formal charges that had been required of them the night before, and Senator Small going on the stand denied the truth of all of the charges except the one that he had a horse on the farm belonging to the state. This horse he claimed he was entitled to use, as it conveyed him from the farm to the asylum.

The charges of Hill and McKee in detail were:

"First—That cruelty was inflicted within a year on a patient by three attendants and witnessed by A. E. Huber of Kankakee.

"Second—That political assessments have been made and all employés drawing $30 a month and over were compelled to pay 5 per cent of their salaries for that purpose. Witnesses, Dr. Hart and Dr. Foster.

"Third—That employés were discharged for failure to pay their political assessments. Witnesses, William McDonald, John Childs, and A. E. Huber.

"Fourth—That a carload of cheese was bought which was unfit for food. Witness, Charles Jewett, Bradley, Ill.

"Fifth—That an engineer of the institution was so drunk within the last year that he had to be put out of the engine room several times. Witness, Charles Jewett, Bradley, Ill.

"Sixth—That Trustee Small has been using a horse belonging to the state since oat sowing time last spring. He brought this horse back on Aug. 6. Witness, Farmer Enos and Engineer Clifford Vicroy.

"Seventh—That liquor has been stolen from the institution. Witnesses, George Chagnon and A. E. Huber.

"Eighth—That cruelty was inflicted on a patient within a year, the patient being kicked by an attendant. Witness, W. J. Elstone.

Employes Used for Politics.

"Ninth—That George Irwin, a stenographer in the employ of the institution, was taken from the institution to Chicago to do political work and drew pay from the state during such time. Witnesses, George Irwin, Senator Small, W. G. Stearns, and V. Podstata.

"Tenth—That political work was done by Attendants W. E. Estes and Mr. Schroeder, Mr. Ghents, Bert Sawyer, Mr. Saltsgiver, J. J. Foraker, and M. Pellitier, prior to the last republican state convention, which took them away from the institution for several days, during which time they drew pay from the state. Witnesses, the above.

"Eleventh—That political work for the benefit of Senator Small was done at the institution prior to the last republican state convention. Witnesses, Miss Lindsley, Charles Rayhorn.

"Twelfth—That Carpenter Munich worked seventeen days on a china closet for Mr. Buck while drawing state pay. Witnesses, Emil Sieffert, W. W. Elliott, James Tennis.

"Thirteenth—That water used for cooking purposes in kitchens is unreasonably dirty during spring and summer and should be and could be filtered at the institution. Witnesses, Trustee Powell and Charles Rayhorn.

"Fourteenth—That the May meat bill for the year 1902 was exorbitant and the money was not judiciously expended. Witnesses, Trustee Powell and Charles Rayhorn.

"Fifteenth—That Mr. Wagner (supervisor) had stated that Mr. Pellitier was useless to the institution, but that they were compelled to keep him because of the political influence behind him. Witnesses, Mr. Rogers and Harvey Sprague."

Supervisor Wagner's Drinks.

William Wagner, the supervisor of the attendants, was called to deny the story that he and Hill had been drunk together in the ward. He acknowledged that he and Hill had been in town together drinking, and on their return to duty had collected $1.25 from the attendants there at work and got more whisky with it, but claimed Hill was the instigator.

"You were Hill's superior officer, were you not?" asked Attorney Cassidy.

"Yes."

"Did you ever report the occurrence?"

"No."

"What did you do after you got back?"

"Went to bed. I was, however, in better shape to put Hill to bed than he was me."

"Kind of a case of horse and horse, was it not?" asked Mr. Cassidy, but there was no reply.

Patient Injured by Attendant.

At the evening session a former employé, W. J. Elstone, testified as to a case where an inexperienced attendant had temporarily crippled a patient named Arthur Babb by too tightly strapping his hands, and that an attendant, Edward Mills, had kicked a patient named James Alexander in the stomach. Mills, however, had been discharged for it.

Before the inquiry was adjourned until tomorrow a long list of nurses and other attendants were all called and asked such questions as:

"Did you ever notice any instances of cruelty to patients?"

"If such had occurred would you not have seen it?"

"Is the hospital conducted in a proper manner?"

To all of these the same answers, satisfactory to the management, were given. The witnesses were:

Mrs. Toler, Miss Carroll, Mrs. Gertie Bauer, Miss Fitzgerald, Miss O'Connor, Miss Josie Quinn, Miss Hoffman, Mrs. Osborne.

DESIRES A THOROUGH INQUIRY.

Former Woman Patient at Kankakee Suggests Reforms That Would Prove Beneficial There.

Alton Limited, En Route to St. Louis, Aug. 11.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Having formerly been a patient at the Eastern Illinois Hospital for the Insane at Kankakee, Ill., I am naturally desirous that the pending investigation of that institution should be thorough and to some purpose. Just at present, I am going to St. Louis, from there to Jefferson, O. T., where I have made my residence since March, although I still consider myself a citizen of Illinois, not intending a permanent residence in Oklahoma.

It would afford me great pleasure to be able to help in the smallest manner in a general upheaval at Kankakee, especially if, by any manner of means, Len Small's political power over officials and attendants alike could be broken. I have been committed to Kankakee twice, first in 1895, and again in 1898. Dr. Gapen was superintendent at first, and Dr. Stearns the second time. The latter appealed to me as the more conscientious superintendent.

Dr. Corbus is only known to me as one of the older physicians, who, as far as I know, is competent, were he allowed carte blanche. While no flagrant abuses came under my notice, and I was ill treated but once by an attendant, it would seem a much needed practice, to both patients and attendants, to have this investigation thorough, and strictly under the auspices of state societies that cannot be reached by political influence.

Trained nurses in every department would cost the state too much, probably, which might better be spent in suitable food and better sanitary arrangements, but some instruction should be insisted upon before the attendant enters upon the probationary month, unless she can show credentials of previous experience, or is a trained nurse, who has had the special training in nervous diseases. A strong, healthy minded, kindly person only needs tact to make an excellent attendant, but without kindness and tact a patient is better off under the care of any well disposed servant.

An illiterate attendant, with highly developed ideas of his or her personal attractions or superiority of position can work much harm with a refined or sensitive patient, especially those who have been accustomed to elegant surroundings, considerate attention, or to exercising much authority over others. Food and work should be more closely apportioned to individual needs by competent physicians. Mail and complaints of any kind should not have a censorship by attendants, but the supervisor should hear all complaints about work, food, or abuse, unless the doctor has plenty of time to attend to it.

In any case, all orders should be approved by the physician. Women physicians of irreproachable reputation and high order of intellect should have charge of certain cases among young people and older women, who should never be kept in the same wards or allowed to associate with other patients unless convalescent. A parole system might be devised by which patients might be watched, unknown to themselves while on parole, if they were assigned certain sections of the grounds for exercise, and a guard detailed for parole duty who had a previous knowledge about the patients expected in that quarter at that time.

The cottage system is admirable under correct management, but more competent nurses or matrons are needed in the cottages, who may superintend orderlies or manual laborers, who should attend to furnaces, scrub floors, or clean house. Such work is necessary for all, but I maintain that only those previously accustomed to manual labor should be compelled to perform it, and then only after a thorough physical examination by the physician appointed in their ward.

Men attendants should never be allowed on the women's side, either to visit or walk with patients, and never be allowed to accost women patients on parole. Dances and entertainments seem beneficial to patients in a fairly normal condition, but an attendant who will use ungentlemanly language to a patient with whom he is dancing is no more fit to be allowed admittance than an irrational patient. Words cannot describe the disgust aroused by an official, medical or otherwise, who so far lowers himself as to suggest improper things to a convalescent patient, whom he has reason to know needs moral restraint, not temptation. It will be easier to demand an investigation periodically if insane asylums and all institutions for treatment of nervous diseases were inspected by government officials who could testify before a higher court.

EMMA DYER.

YE CORNER FOR YE COOK

When a cake contains too much flour or has baked too fast it will sink from the edges or rise up sharply with a crack in the middle. If cake has a coarse grain it was not beaten enough or the oven was too slow.

If you desire nice lemon cakes, take a coffeecupful sugar, two-thirds teacupful butter, half teaspoonful soda dissolved in tablespoonful hot water, and flour enough to roll thin; flavor highly with grated lemon peel or extract.

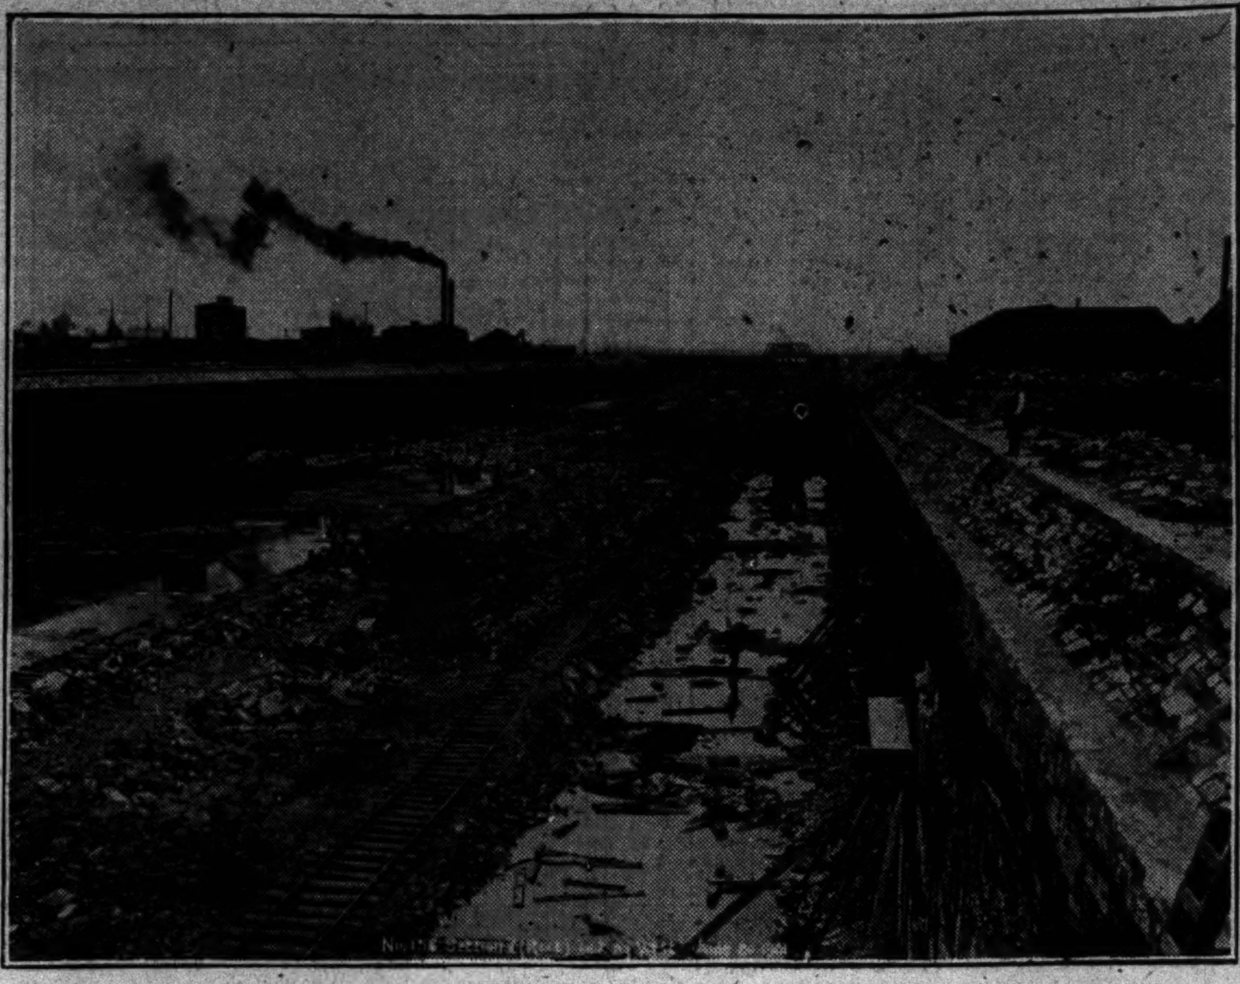
For a yellow cream sauce beat the yolks of three eggs until thick; add three tablespoonfuls milk and three-quarters cup sugar; cook in double boiler, stirring until boiling; remove from fire and add tablespoon vanilla.

Every one likes puffs. Mix a cupful of milk with two well beaten eggs, tablespoonful flour, four tablespoonfuls sugar, two of butter, and the grated rind of a lemon. Beat five minutes and bake quickly in well buttered saucers.

Fish which are best suited for broiling when split open are mackerel, bluefish, shad, young cod, trout, and whitefish. Smelts, perch, and small trout may be broiled whole, while halibut, salmon, and swordfish broil well in steaks. Cod, haddock, whitefish, shad, bass, small salmon, and bluefish may be baked whole, while the best fish for boiling are small whole cod, haddock, and thick pieces of salmon, halibut, and swordfish.

Baked omelette: Put one pint of milk in the double boiler; melt half a tablespoonful of butter, add half a level tablespoonful of flour; when the milk is scalding hot add the butter and flour and stir until boiling and the milk thickened a little; pour this into a dish and when quite cool add the yolks of two eggs beaten, then add the whites of the eggs beaten stiff and dry; bake in a moderate oven until firm in the center, about twenty minutes; serve as an egg dish or with broiled steak and chops.

WATER IS TURNED INTO POWER CANAL AT THE SOO.



Sault Ste. Marie, Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Water is flowing into the water power canal of the Michigan-Lake Superior Power company. At 10:30 o'clock last night, without a spectator save the workmen, the sluiceway was opened and water began to pour in. When the Soo awoke this morning it was to find the canal partly filled and the tide steadily rising. The filling at the present time is in the nature of a test. It is probable all the water will be pumped out again before it will be used to drive the turbine wheels.

The Michigan-Lake Superior company's water power canal is the largest private enterprise of its kind in the world. Between four and five years have been consumed in its construction, an army of workmen had been employed, and the cost approximates $5,000,000. The first excavation for the canal was made twelve years ago, but the project at that time was insufficiently financed and after expending about $200,000 the company which exploited the scheme failed and its holdings were taken over under foreclosure proceedings.

At the beginning of the present operations F. H. Clergus and his associates bonded the project for $3,500,000 and before a spadeful of earth was removed sold one-half of the power to be developed at a good figure, thus assuring investors a good income from the outset.

The canal is designed to produce 40,000 effective horsepower from dynamos operated by turbines. The fall secured by the building of the canal is nineteen feet, this being gained by the construction of a waterway two and a third miles long, cutting the city of Sault Ste. Marie into two parts, taking the water from a point above the famous Soo rapids and delivering it again to the river at a point a mile below the entrance to the government ship canals.

The canal is on an average twenty-two feet deep and 224 feet wide, deep enough and wide enough to float the biggest vessels that navigate the great lakes.

Of the total length of the canal, 4,100 feet is cut through solid rock. The remainder of the canal, traversing earth, has been lined with the best timber procurable in northern Michigan, the amount used for this purpose being 15,000,000 feet.

The greatest precautions have been taken to secure the canal from possible accident, as a giving way of any portion would mean a disaster of great proportions not only to the company but to the city as well.

The company which has conducted these immense operations was organized by F. H. Clergus and is comprised largely of eastern capitalists. The Michigan-Lake Superior company, the builders and owners of the canal, is a subcompany of the Consolidated Lake Superior company. The latter company has a capital of $117,000,000 and has for its purpose the development of the tremendous resources which are found in the vicinity of the two Soos.

It is the plan of the company to utilize the power developed by the new canal at once. If a sufficient number of plants are not forthcoming to make use of the power the company stands ready to construct plants with its own capital until every horsepower is working twenty-four hours a day 365 days in the year.

MISSOURI MOB LYNCHES TWO MEN WHO KILLED A FARMER.

Negro and White Man Taken from Lexington Jail by Masked Crowd and Hanged to Tree.

Lexington, Mo., Aug. 12.—Charles Salyers, white, and Harry Gates, negro, were taken from the county jail by a masked mob at 1:30 this morning and lynched. They were charged with killing George W. Johnson, a wealthy farmer, who surprised them at his henhouse a week ago. Salyers made a statement to the mob, saying Gates fired the shot that killed Johnson.

Salyers and Gates were arrested on the day following the shooting, after an exciting chase. Johnson was one of the wealthiest men in the community, and the feeling against the two men was intense. A mob gathered while they were being brought to town, but was quieted by the officers.

Last night armed men came to town by twos and threes, most of them masked. They massed in the court yard. The mob was orderly. A demand on the jailer for the prisoners meeting with refusal, the mob broke in the outer door, and made quickly for the cells of the men. It took thirty minutes to cut through the steel doors.

Salyers was taken out first, then Gates. The mob started for a point half a mile south of town. There Salyers was granted permission to make a statement. He said Gates had shot Johnson, and that when the last shot was fired Gates had hold of Johnson. Johnson exchanged shots with the men, and Gates was wounded. Salyers' statement finished, the men were strung up to a tree. There they were left hanging. Only one shot was fired, and that was to put out an incandescent light in front of a livery stable.

The latter gathered up their money and rushed out, only to be met by the robbers, who knocked them down and relieved them of their treasure. Twenty-two houses were burned.

ELKS TAKE STATE OF UTAH

SALT LAKE CITY GIVES ORDER A HEARTY WELCOME.

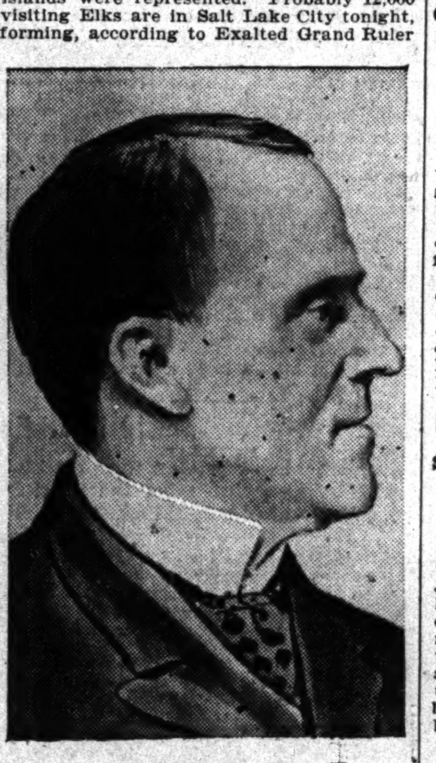
Twelve Thousand Strangers Gather in the Mormon Tabernacle to Hear the Annual Addresses and Reports—George P. Cronk of Omaha Elected Grand Exalted Ruler by Acclamation—Gov. Wells Speaks at the Annual Reunion—All Sections There.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Aug. 12.—Utah and Salt Lake City extended a hearty welcome to the hosts of visiting Elks at the Mormon tabernacle today. Facing many thousands of members of that fraternity, representatives of every section of the country, Judge O. W. Powers bade them welcome to the city and all it contained, while Gov. Heber M. Wells laid before them as their own the state of Utah and the riches thereof.

The meeting, which followed an immense military and civic parade, marked the formal opening of the annual reunion of the grand lodge of Elks and was attended by Elks in such numbers that even the capacity of the great hall of worship was taxed to the utmost.

All Sections Represented.

Elks were present from practically every state in the union, and even the Hawaiian islands were represented. Probably 12,000 visiting Elks are in Salt Lake City tonight, forming, according to Exalted Grand Ruler Pickett, one of the best and most representative gatherings of the fraternity he had ever seen.



GEORGE P. CRONK.

[New grand exalted ruler of the Elks.]

The meeting of the grand lodge was held in assembly hall this afternoon, and after the annual report of Grand Exalted Ruler Pickett had been delivered and other reports presented, the election of grand officers for the ensuing year was taken up. This resulted as follows:

Grand exalted ruler—George A. Cronk, Omaha.
Grand leading knight—W. B. Vrock, Lexington, Ky.
Grand loyal knight—Judge A. H. Pickens, Denver.
Grand lecturing knight—Joseph E. Henning, Anderson, Ind.
Grand secretary—George Reyonlds, Saginaw, Mich.
Grand treasurer—E. S. Orris, Meadville, Pa.
Grand tyler—Charles Kaufman, Hoboken, N. J.
Grand trustee—J. D. O'Shea, Boston.

Most of the elections were by acclamation, there being contests for only one or two of the minor offices.

Street Fairs Are Opposed.

Grand Exalted Ruler Pickett took strong grounds against the growing practice of holding street carnivals and fairs. These enterprises, he held, were more productive of harm than good to the order, and he recommended that they be either regulated or even altogether prohibited.

The report of the secretary showed the order to be in an exceedingly propsperous condition. An increase in membership of about 26,000 during the last year was shown, bringing the total up to about 125,000. The number of Elk lodges in the United States was reported at 805, an increase of eighty-five during the year. This without effort to increase either the membership or number of lodges. The treasurer's report showed the organization to be prosperous financially.

An adjourned session of the grand lodge was held this evening, at which a number of minor reports were heard and other routine business disposed of.

Contest for Next Meeting.

At tomorrow afternoon's meeting of the grand lodge the most interesting fight of the reunion will take place when the question of the next annual meeting place will be decided. Baltimore and Saratoga Springs are making a vigorous fight for the honor and the result cannot be forecasted.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 12.—The biennial convention of Knights of Pythias was formally opened today. Walker C. Graves of California delivered a welcoming speech. Gov. Henry T. Supreme Chancellor Fethers responded in a humorous speech to the welcome of the governor, assuring him that the knights would make the best of their stay in San Francisco. The first business was the conferring of the degree on twenty delegates who had never attended a supreme lodge. The committee on credentials reported the delegates all entitled to their seats. Supreme Chancellor Fethers, in his annual report, said that on Dec. 31, 1901, the order had 540,138 members.

YATES REBUKED; TURNER CHOSEN.

Republicans of Fortieth Senatorial District Nominate Vandalia Man.

REFUSE TO AID HOPKINS.

Delegates Take 402 Ballots Before Selecting Candidate, but Unite Against Governor.

Pana, Ill., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Judge George Turner of Vandalia, Fayette county, anti-Yates and anti-Hopkins to a bitter degree, was nominated for the legislature in the Fortieth senatorial district by the republican senatorial convention on the 402d ballot late tonight. The battle began at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon and ended at 11 o'clock tonight. Turner's nomination was accomplished by Shelby county's seventeen votes. The Hopkins and administration men in the convention, with the Christian and Cumberland delegations, fought to the last ditch and compelled the convention to vote down a resolution instructing for Hopkins.

C. E. Abrams of Taylorville moved that the nominee be instructed to use all honorable means to secure the election of Hopkins to the United States senate, and the combination that nominated Judge Turner defeated the resolution.

Turner Bitter Against Yates.

After Judge Turner's nomination a motion was made to reconsider the vote by which the convention decided against resolutions. The motion to reconsider was tabled by a vote of 32 to 27. It was after this that Abrams insisted upon humiliating his candidate. Judge Turner went through the preliminary county campaign making bitter attacks upon Gov. Yates and the state administration. Mr. Hopkins cannot expect, nor will he get anything from Turner.

The nominee is Judge Hamlin's candidate, and in the main will be guided by the wishes of the attorney general.

Deadlock Continues for Hours.

For a long time during the afternoon it seemed as if the convention was in a deadlock. There were four counties in the district and each had a candidate for minority member of the assembly, the new district being 2,400 democratic. At the county conventions each candidate was permitted to name his delegates to the senatorial convention. No one county had sufficient votes to nominate and each candidate named senatorial delegates.

For hours Christian county continued to cast its eighteen votes for Walter M. Provine of Taylorville. Cumberland county cast its nine votes for C. M. Connor, Fayette county its fifteen votes for Judge Turner, and Shelby county its seventeen votes for William H. Beem.

This was the vote without a single break for 148 ballots, when the convention adjourned for supper. The calling of the roll call was resumed when the convention convened after supper and the delegates again voted as they did throughout the afternoon.

George D. Chaffee, Shelbyville, was temporary chairman, Judge Grundy of Christian county and John P. Bingham of Lafayette secretaries. Later the temporary organization was made permanent.

Hopkins Has No Chance.

Before the convention began balloting all chances of instructions for Hopkins disappeared. John A. Bingham of Vandalia moved that there be no committees either on contests or resolutions, and that there be no resolutions. After a short fight the resolution was adopted by a vote of 36 to 23. Christian county, instructed for Hopkins, voted 18 votes against the motion. Of the 9 votes from Cumberland county instructed for Hopkins 4 voted for the motion and 5 against it.

Shelby and Fayette counties were not able to combine on a candidate, but they got together on the motion.

Hopkins' friends expected to nominate Provine of Christian county and get rousing instructions for Hopkins. The early action of the convention blasted their hopes.

David Niedbury, Senator Mason's cousin, arrived to get instructions for Mason, and the resolutions put him out of business with Hopkins.

Shelby and Fayette delegates were more bitterly opposed to Yates and the state administration than they were to Hopkins. Neither delegation was instructed.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—William R. Grace of New York was the only guest at Sagmore Hill at luncheon today. This was denied, and it was explained that Mr. Grace had written saying he was going to pass through Oyster Bay on a driving trip, and would like to pay his respects at Sagmore Hill. He was invited to come to luncheon.

EXTRA SESSION TO GIVE CUBA AID

Doubt as to President's Calling Senate Together Practically Removed.

TREATY NOW IS READY.

Treasury Officials Make Efforts to Meet Demand for Crop Moving Money.

WASHINGTON BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Washington, D. C., Aug. 12.

Practically all doubt has been dissipated as to President Roosevelt calling an extra session of the senate for the purpose of ratifying a commercial treaty with Cuba. Official intimations have been received here which indicate that the senate will be convened in November, although no definite conclusion has been reached. Before congress adjourned, and after it became apparent that no legislation for the relief of Cuba would be adopted, President Roosevelt announced that he would call an extra session for the purpose of considering this question.

Extra Session to Aid Cuba Thought Certain.

It was his original intention to convene congress immediately after adjournment, but as the situation became so involved the leaders advised the president that it would be impossible to secure action at that time, owing to the strong opposition to Cuban reciprocity. Col. Roosevelt deferred to the wishes of the leaders, but he is still determined that the question shall be presented to congress before the regular meeting time.

Rumors have been current here to the effect that the president would call the senate in session in September or October. After looking into the situation the president has come to the conclusion that until after the elections it will be impossible to secure the coöperation of the democrats, which is necessary to muster the two thirds vote necessary to ratify a treaty. Already a treaty with Cuba has been practically prepared, only the finishing touches and the signatures of the representatives of the two governments being necessary to put it in shape for presentation to the senate. It is intimated that the session will be called immediately after the elections, although this point has not been definitely decided.

Big Crops Create Great Demand for Money.

Grave consideration is being given by treasury officials to supplying the circulating medium necessary to moving to market more than 3,000,000,000 bushels corn and wheat. It is clear to them, in consideration of the last crop report, that the combined wheat and corn crops alone will exceed by nearly a billion bushels the crop of last year. Secretary Shaw said today that the treasury was making preparations to meet the demand from western banking centers for notes of small denominations to meet the expenses of the crop moving period.

Treasurer Roberts said the treasury was never so well equipped to meet these demands as now and that the outlook was most encouraging, with no sign of a distressing stringency in the money market. Two years ago, when the corn crop was large, the crop moving season was a period of great stringency in the money centers, and it was seen then that measures must be devised to avert a repetition of the stringent condition of money.

Last year, on account of the severe midsummer drought, the corn crop was light, and the season of moving crops passed without any severe tax upon the country's circulating medium. Now the prospect is that the corn crop will be a record breaker, while the wheat crop is certainly above the average. The treasury is better prepared to meet the situation, however, and the prospect is that the money stringency will be much less severe than it was two years ago.

◆

Notes of Small Denomination Circulated.

Elaborate preparations for this enormous crop movement have been in process for nearly a year. In anticipation of large crops, the treasury has had a number of notes of small denominations printed, and the increased output from the bureau of engraving and printing has gone on so steadily that the total volume of paper currency on hand is now $561,580,000, as against $526,296,000. The number of separate pieces of paper money on June 30, 1902, was 136,721,000, as against 87,111,000 a year ago, so the increase seems to be largely in notes of small denominations.

The increase represents in large proportion notes of $20 and under, a large number of fives and tens having been printed. Shipments of paper currency of small denominations are now being made from the treasury to Chicago and other money centers of the west adjacent to the crop areas.

During this calendar year the shipments of this kind have amounted to $5,845,000, as against $3,900,000 in the same period of last year. The volume of circulation throughout the country has increased during the last year by a large amount. On the first of last July the total circulation was $2,260,750,242, or nearly $200,000,000 more than it was at the end of the fiscal year of 1901. There is a slightly unfavorable sign, however, in the fact that the total circulation declined during the last two months by about $6,000,000. This is regarded as only a drop in the bucket, when the great volume of the country's paper currency is considered.

Banks Not Taking Money from Circulation.

It was thought at one time that the withdrawal of circulation by the national banks would have an adverse effect on the money market during the crop moving period. There were withdrawals during the last fiscal year amounting to more than $20,000,000, the cause being, as the secretary of the treasury believed, the advanced price of government bonds, which made it more profitable for the banks to withdraw their bonds from the treasury than to keep them there as security for their own circulating notes.

Within the last few months, however, there has been a great increase in the national bank circulation secured by lawful money in the treasury. The net increase in national bank notes has, in fact, kept pace with the increased volume of the general currency. Last week national banks withdrew from the treasury $350,000 worth of bonds, but there was deposited in the treasury in the same week $1,148,050 to secure circulation. The amount of bonds held by the treasury for the security of bank circulation June 30 was $317,088,580, as against $326,110,580 a year before, but much of the circulation for bonds withdrawn for that period is still outstanding against the cash paid into the treasury.

Incidentally this fact is cited as showing that Secretary Shaw's action in suspending the bond purchase inaugurated by his predecessor has not had the bad effect on national bank circulation that some critics said it had. The treasury officials are naturally hopeful that there will be no necessity for the treasury to come to the aid of the banks by extraordinary deposits of federal revenues, or by any other measure during the coming crop moving season. The increased deposits of federal money during the last few months ought to be of assistance, the officials believe, in relieving any danger of stringency. The deposits of this kind are now $110,002,515, as against $106,390,363 at the beginning of the present calendar year.

Game and Forests in Sequoia Park Protected.

Capt. Frank A. Barton, the army officer in charge of the Sequoia National Park in California, has advised the interior department that he intends to prevent depredations on that reservation. It has been charged that the soldiers who are on duty in that place are in the habit of shooting the deer. Capt. Barton has made a report to the interior department in which he says:

"Forest Ranger Britten reported to me that one camping party had endangered the giant forest by failing to extinguish its camp fire June 26 last. In this case, I believe, the publicity of a reprimand due to the prominence of the offending parties will meet the ends of justice. The tourist travel through the giant forest, which is really the Sequoia park, over the Old Colony mill road will increase from year to year as the road is improved and extended and the park becomes better known, and it seems to me that the first duty of a superintendent is to prevent the forest from destruction by fire, which can only be done by properly impressing on the tourist public the danger of a neglect of the regulations regarding fire.

"I might state here that I have received numerous written communications and have been spoken to by many civilians regarding the alleged killing of game by the soldiers on duty in the park during past seasons, and Forest Ranger Britten furnished me with such data in regard to the matter as he was in possession of, in compliance with instruction. With so many detachments from the main camp in charge of noncommissioned officers it is a difficult matter to prevent an occasional violation of the regulation regarding hunting in the park, but there is a way absolutely to prevent it, and I have adopted it, as I am determined that no such charge shall be made under my administration. I have required and shall continue to require every man leaving the supply camp here at Keweah to turn in his carbine and carbine ball ammunition before leaving, so that my men on detached service will be armed only with the revolver."

Tests for Army Vacancies Set for Sept. 1.

Arrangements are being made to examine the candidates from civil life for appointment to second lieutenancies in the army. The examinations will be held, beginning at 9 a. m., on Sept. 1, before boards which will be convened at Chicago, New York city, Leavenworth, St. Paul, Denver, Omaha, San Antonio, San Francisco, and Vancouver barracks, and any other points where it seems necessary to hold examinations.

The local board will be governed in this work by instructions which have been prepared by the central board in Washington and the questions to be submitted to candidates will be identical. These questions also have been prepared by the central board, and here the markings will be made. This central board is composed of Col. F. G. Smith of the artillery corps, Maj. E. B. Fuller, Tenth cavalry; Capt. C. C. Clark, Fifth infantry, representing the line; and Maj. L. A. Lagarde and Capt. F. P. Reynolds of the medical department.

The recorder of the board is Capt. C. W. Kutz of the corps of engineers. The medical officers attached to the local boards will, of course, conduct the physical examination and will make a report to the central board. The local boards will also determine the ratings on oral reading, the paragraph to be read being identical in all the examinations, and being designated by the central board. There need be, therefore, under this arrangement no fear that there will be distinctions or disadvantages by reason of these local examinations. The fact that the averages are determined by the board in Washington and that the examinations have also been outlined by that board, gives a uniformity in results which will be impartial.

Officers for New Battleships Are Scarce.

Naval officials are still in a quandary over the problem of providing officers for the ships which are shortly to be placed in commission. These vessels are the Maine, Arkansas, Marblehead, Adams, Baltimore, Newark, and Texas. There are few officers at present available for these billets and there are no ships which it seems to be possible to transfer from the active list. Of course, the officers who are brought back from the Asiatic station will take the places of officers on shore duty and thus furnish some of the personnel for the ships shortly to be commissioned, but even allowing for the officers thus available, it looks as if the department would have difficulty in furnishing vessels with a full complement of commissioned officers.

Weather Official Gets Wireless Patents.

Today's issue of the patent office Gazette contains record of thirteen patents on apparatus for the transmission of messages by wireless telegraphy, granted to Reginald H. Fessenden, an expert of the weather bureau in Washington. The patents include a device for signaling by magnetic waves, a current actuated wave responsive device, and a conductor for a wireless telegraphy apparatus. The apparatus for which patents have been granted to Mr. Fessenden was used by the government in the competitive tests of wireless systems held on the Carolina coast some time ago, in which the government apparatus proved to be superior to all other systems tried.

SUPREME BENCH REARRANGED.

Appointment of Judge Holmes Necessitates a Change in the Order of Seating Justices.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 12.—The retirement of Justice Gray and the appointment of Judge Holmes to the bench of the Supreme court will cause a rearrangement of the positions occupied by the members of the court when they meet in October. The associate justices are seated according to seniority, alternately on the right and left of the chief justice. Following this custom, when the court convenes, the present associate justices will move up one seat, with the exception of Justice Harlan, who as senior member of the court occupies the first seat to the right of Chief Justice Fuller. Judge Holmes will occupy the seat to the extreme left of the chief justice.

As now constituted the court will sit in the following order:

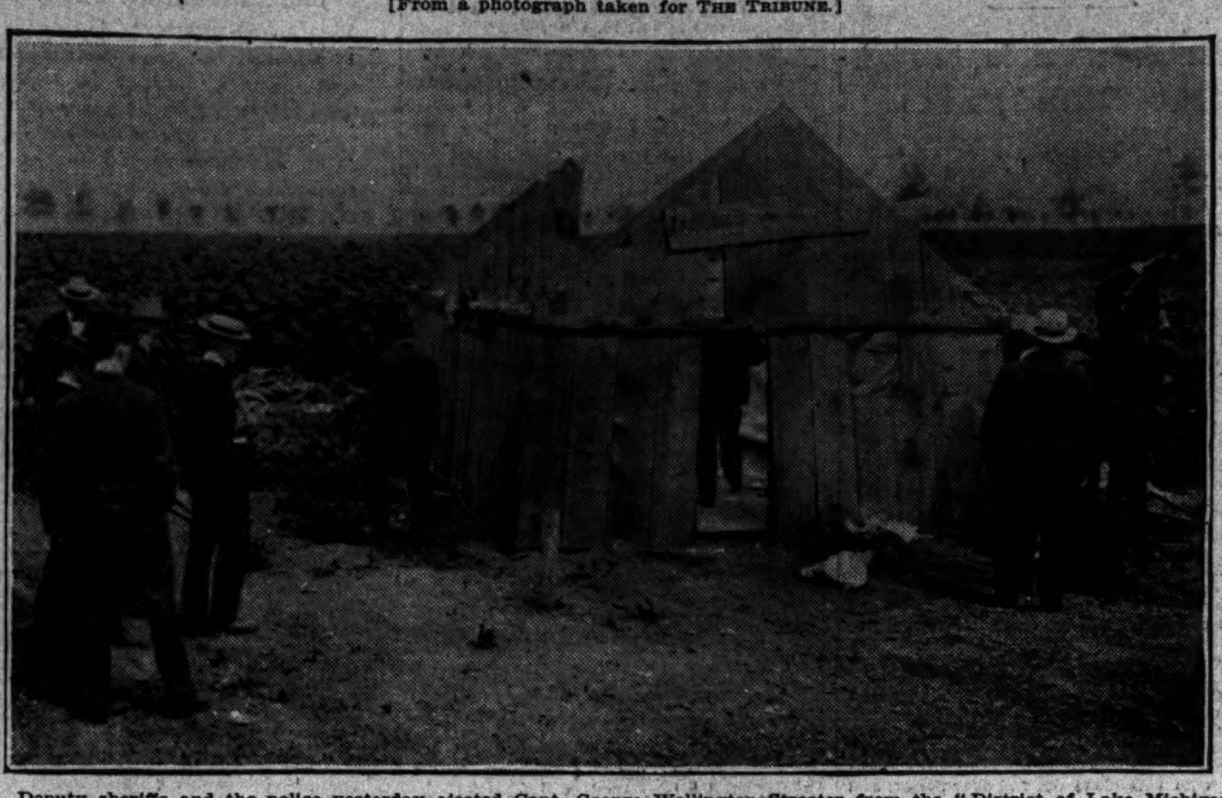
To the right of the chief justice, Justices Harlan, Brown, White, and McKenna.

To the left of the chief justice, Justices Brewer, Shiras, Peckham, and Holmes.

Judge Holmes was admitted to the Supreme court bar Jan. 16, 1879. His first and only case before the Supreme court was "United States vs. Amos et al.," Jan. 17, 1879, in which a decision was handed down in his favor.

DEPUTY SHERIFFS AND POLICE RAZE STREETER'S SHANTY: CAPTAIN IN SILK HAT "HIKING" TO THE TALL WEEDS.

[From a photograph taken for THE TRIBUNE.]



Deputy sheriffs and the police yesterday ejected Capt. George Wellington Streeter from the "District of Lake Michigan" and razed his shanty. The expected resistance by the captain did not materialize further than in a flow of words. The ejectment was in pursuance of a recent order by Judge Chytraus, who held that Streeter had no right on the land.

STREETER OUT, IN, OUT!

"CAPTAIN" IS EVICTED; RETURNS AT NIGHT AND IS LOCKED UP.

Deputy Sheriffs, Police, and an Ambulance Invade the "Deestrick of Lake Michigan," and the Old Warrior and His Following Land in the Street—Maria Gives Friendly Farewell—Her Husband Tries Another Invasion and Is Arrested.

"Captain" George Wellington Streeter and his following were evicted from the "deestrick" of Lake Michigan yesterday afternoon, but the "Cap'n" would not stay "evicted." At an early hour this morning he attempted another invasion, and as a result he is now locked up in the East Chicago avenue police station.

Three policemen guarded the disputed territory through the night. Streeter and two of his lieutenants were encamped in the driveway adjoining. Some time after midnight the officers heard sounds which seemed to demand investigation, and they found Streeter moving furniture from the street to the district.

As the policeman stepped out in sight Streeter reached to his pocket, where he had a revolver, but he was seized by the policeman and disarmed.

What the "captain" denounced as a "high-handed" outrage occurred in the afternoon, when the courts of Illinois again meddled in the affairs of a sovereign state. The result of the afternoon raid was that Streeter, his wife, and Mrs. James McManners and her baby found themselves sitting on the remains of their household effects in Chestnut street.

The "deestrick" was in ruins. The captain's shanty had been pulled down and torn to pieces. His lettuce and beets had been ruthlessly torn up by the roots. Even his woodpile had been carried off, and there was not one brick standing on another to mark the spot where the Streeters ruled, fought, and bled.

Deputy Sheriff Henry Spears, backed by five other deputies, and protected by Inspector Campbell, Lieut. Miller, a squad of policemen, and an ambulance, wrought the devastation on a writ of restitution issued in Judge Chytraus' court in favor of Mrs. Louisa Healy.

Language Fails the Captain.

The police brought the ambulance along to carry off the dead and wounded, but the captain proved docile. A correct report of what he said while the invaders demolished his truck garden would exhaust all the lower case "ds" in a printing shop, and if there were any left they could be used in what "Maria" said, but there were no hostilities.

"Capt." Streeter was found unexpectedly in Chief O'Neill's office when the invading force started, and he marched along at the head in his suit of green flannels and silk hat, nervously biting at a cigar. When the "deestrick" was reached 'Maria" stuck her head out of the door of the shanty.

"What they going to do now?" she asked.

"You jest git back in ther' an' behave yourself," was the ungallant response of her spouse, who asked for a truce while he gave a formal warning to the invaders that he considered their action illegal and several other things.

"That's all you wanted to say, wasn't it?" asked Deputy Spears. The "captain" admitted it was, and the deputies went at the house.

"Please don't hurt my baby," exclaimed the plaintive Mrs. McManners from the inside. She was reassured and appeared with her child in her arms. The warlike Maria also put in appearance, carrying a valise.

Farewell by Maria.

"Good-by, boys," she said. "I'm going to the brickhouse. I've had enough of that shanty anyway."

With that good natured parting she disappeared through the weeds, but presently came back, looking as if she had failed to find the "brickhouse." Meanwhile the shanty was coming down in pieces. The captain and his emaciated white dog trotted forlornly around the scene until a piece of the roof fell on George Wellington and nearly put his silk hat out of business.

The captain skipped skittishly off into the weeds and watched the rest of the destruction from afar. The deputies toiled wearily over the stoves, carrying them from the wrecked house to the street. They wanted the captain to help with the stoves.

"It's not my job," he said.

The ambulance began to look rather sickly standing out in Chestnut street while the peaceful eviction was being made.

Only a Wordy Warfare.

"The last time we were here there was bloodshed," explained Lieut. Miller. "Then we thought that Mrs. McManners might need it for her baby."

The last was palpably an after-thought. The redoubtable police believed there was going to be a pitched battle before the captain left his "deestrick." The only warfare he offered was a wordy one. Attorney Arthur B. Wells, representing Mrs. Healy, was called a "skate" and a few other things. Streeter thanked the deputies for their courteous behavior.

"You are the only gentlemen who have been in the 'deestrick' for a long time," he said.

Sympathy for Mrs. McManners.

A large gallery of fashionable spectators from the north side followed the play. The spectacle of Mrs. McManners and her baby, seemingly deprived of their only shelter, moved several women to pity. One sent her little daughter to offer her home to the evicted woman. Another slipped a banknote into Mrs. McManners' hand.

As soon as the place had been cleaned out carpenters began erecting a fence to inclose the property of Mrs. Healy. This occasioned a fresh outburst from the captain.

As the invaders moved away the Streeters and their allies were sitting on their household property. George Wellington loomed up dimly in a cloud of tobacco smoke, with his silk hat somewhat bunged. He was swearing vengeance, uttering warnings, and declaring that he would move back.

As stated, he did move back early this morning, but his stay was of brief duration, and he is now in a police cell.

BANKER HITS AT LAWYER.

TESTIMONY IN THE PETER POWER CASE IS CONTRADICTED.

Camille Weidenfeld Denounces Statements of Attorney Lamb as False—Says He Never Met Complainant, but Believed Him Wealthy and Honest in His Desire to Test Legality of Railroad Merger—Much Wanted Man to Appear Tuesday Next.

New York, Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Camille Weidenfeld, banker and broker at 45 Wall street, formerly Thomas W. Lawson's business associate in the firm of Lawson, Weidenfeld & Co. of New York and Boston, was the chief witness today at the hearing before Examiner R. A. Mabey in the famous suit of Peter Power against the Northern Pacific road.

Lawyer George A. Lamb had testified yesterday that Power was merely a dummy employed by Weidenfeld and Lawson. Today Weidenfeld swore point blank that Lamb's testimony to that effect was false. He had never met or seen Power, he said; had never paid or employed him, and was under the impression, conveyed to him by Lamb, that Peter Power was a wealthy man inspired by an honest desire to test the legality of the merger that resulted in the formation of the Northern Securities company.

Power to Appear Next Tuesday.

When the proceedings began Lawyer Lamb asked for an adjournment to enable him to take United States Marshal Henkel and show him Peter Power. Lawyer Guthrie refused to consent. Later on Lamb told Marshal Henkel that Power would appear in the federal building at 10 o'clock on Tuesday morning, Aug. 19.

Mr. Guthrie's examination of Lamb was largely devoted to questioning him as to his clients in the Power litigation. The names of C. Weidenfeld, H. Content, and Harry Stern were all brought up again, and Lamb would not make any admissions as to who the clients are. Lamb said $10,000 or $12,000 had been paid him since the Power suit began, but he declined to tell who paid him. He did say that not one of the brokers mentioned ever gave him a dollar.

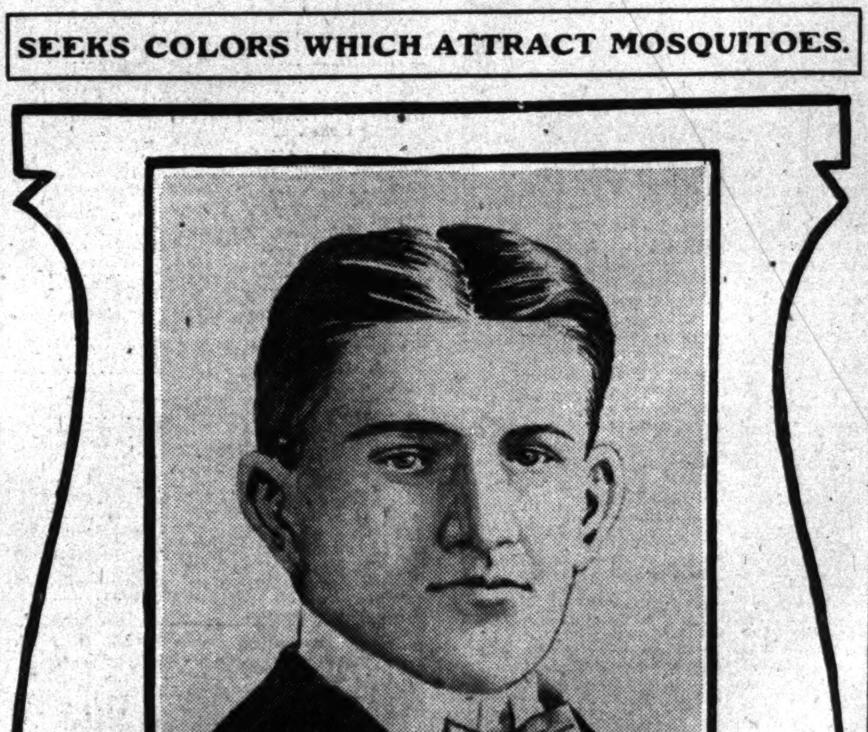
Wall Street Tips as Pay.

Lamb declared that he had paid Power nothing, that Power had needed no money; he had been "tipped off" to several good things in Wall street and had all the cash he needed.

"Did Mr. Weidenfeld ever tell you he wanted somebody punished for the panic of May 9?" asked Mr. Guthrie.

"He has expressed his indignation of the matter," said Mr. Lamb in reply. "He said they ought to be gotten after, but that they were too strong."

SEEKS COLORS WHICH ATTRACT MOSQUITOES.



W.G. SACKETT.

What color is most becoming to the mosquito? That is a problem that it being worked out in the laboratories of the University of Chicago by one of that school's young scientists, W. G. Sackett. The problem has a practical as well as a scientific value, for if it can be shown that some colors do not appeal to the mosquito's sense of the beautiful, a suggestion is at once given how to paint summer cottages, and what color clothes should be worn when the New Jersey pest is in evidence.

In a large glass cage containing mosquitoes Mr. Sackett has placed twelve cups covered with cloth of different colors—red, black, white, green, and various shades of blue and pink. At certain times of the day he counts the mosquitoes assembled on the various colors. So far the red and black have attracted the most.

Mr. Sackett goes next week to Raleigh, N. C., to become instructor in zoölogy in a school of mechanical arts. He will continue his investigations there. He says an eastern scientist has carried out a similar series of investigations and has prepared a table showing the number of mosquitoes alighting during a period of seventeen days on surfaces of fifteen different colors. They run in part as follows: Navy blue, 108; reddish brown, 81; scarlet, 59; slate gray, 31; leaf green, 17; pearl gray, 9; light blue, 3; white, 2; orange, 1; and yellow, none. He says the inference is obvious—wear yellow gowns and shirts and paint your houses the color of the Chinese flag.

DEADLY RECORD OF RAILS

TWO KILLED, FOUR INJURED, IN ONE DAY'S ACCIDENTS.

Steam Roads Claim Six Victims Within Twenty-four Hours at Hammond, Ind., a Series of Casualties Which Startles Citizens There—Contractor Makes Fatal Jump from a Fast Express—Farm Manager Attempts to Board Moving Train, Being Killed.

Within twenty-four hours a series of railroad accidents at Hammond, Ind., resulted in the death of two men and the injury of four others. The six were victims of five distinct accidents in the town, a record that has startled the citizens there.

The Dead.

CAHILL, JOHN, Hammond, Ind.
DAVIS, WARREN M., Sterling, Ill.

The Injured.

Muth, John, Lowell, Ind.; seriously injured by falling from train.
Stein, John, Crown Point, Ind.; skull fractured and injured internally.
Walker, Samuel M., Hammond; both legs taken off; taken to St. Margaret's hospital; may die.
Williams, Thomas, Hammond; skull fractured and body cut; taken to St. Margaret's hospital.

Fatal Jump from Express.

Cahill was a contractor for the Michigan Central railroad company. He was returning on the fast western express of that road from Niles, Mich., where he had attended the funeral of his father. The train does not stop in Hammond, and Cahill jumped while it was going at a high rate of speed. He was found by pedestrians unconscious near the tracks and expired before he could be moved.

Davis was a farm manager, formerly of Sterling, Ill. In going from Hammond to Highland, Ind., he attempted to board the Erie freight train, and slipped and fell under the wheels. He was beheaded and dismembered by the cars, which passed over him.

Falls from Moving Train.

Williams and Walker, on their way from Indiana Harbor, alighted from a Lake Shore train while it was in motion. Both were drawn under the wheels. Walker fell backwards and had both legs cut off. Williams saw his companion fall and jumped after him, also receiving serious injuries.

Stein is in the hospital at Crown Point in a serious condition. He was walking down the Erie track and sat down on the rail to rest. He evidently went to sleep and failed to hear the approach of the New York limited, westbound, which struck him and hurled him fifty feet.

Muth fell from an Erie flyer just inside the city limits at night, and his body was not discovered until the next morning. He will recover, and was sent home to Lowell.

Wreck Ties Up a Railway.

Warsaw, Ind., Aug. 12.—An expensive wreck on the Pennsylvania road between Winona and Warsaw happened late last night, smashing two locomotives and twenty freight cars, loaded with farming machinery and merchandise, entailing a loss of about $75,000.

The wreckage impeded all traffic until the tracks were cleared this foreman, the limited passenger east being compelled to make a detour around the wreck via Plymouth, Argos, South Whitley, and Columbia City over the Vandalia and Nickel Plate roads.

The wreck was caused by a broken axle on a westbound freight, which broke while the freight was passing the Winona passenger special standing on an adjoining track near Winona. Both engines were nearly demolished and the cars were thrown down an embankment into adjacent fields 200 feet away. No loss of life resulted.

BURGLAR AWED BY A WOMAN.

Mrs. L. W. Schwab, 449 Forty-third Street, Commands Intruder to Turn Pockets Inside Out and He Does.

Mrs. Leslie W. Schwab, wife of a south side physician, commanded a burglar who had entered her house to empty his pockets and he obeyed. Then she ordered him off the premises and made a report to the police.

The burglar, a negro, had entered the Schwab residence at 449 Forty-third street through a rear door. Mrs. Schwab was in the front part of the house. When she heard a noise in her bedroom she went back to investigate. The burglar started to run away. Mrs. Schwab commanded him to remain and he obeyed. Then she told him to empty his pockets.

He turned all his pockets wrong side out and there was nothing in any of them except a revolver. He explained that he was looking for work and was permitted to go. An attempt had been made to break Mrs. Schwab's jewel case open.

Midday burglars who entered C. J. Linden's house, 5210 Hulbert street, Morton Park, and then went to Clyde and ransacked the home of C. Vosberg, taking $5 in cash and a good bundle of clothing, are thought by the police to have made their way to Chicago.

DISAGREE OVER CAMPAIGN FUND.

County Committee Objects to Giving the State Body a Large Slice.

System of Making Chicago Furnish Most of Cash Declared Out of Date.

Whether the republican county committee shall divide its campaign fund with the state committee is the question. There was trouble over it yesterday between the two bodies. Representatives from both met at the Great Northern hotel and wrangled for more than an hour. The matter was left practically unsettled.

It seems that the county people could discover no good reason for giving the state organization any large part of the money collected in Chicago. The finance auxiliary of the state campaign committee started out on the proposition that it would be able to get practically all the funds it needs without going beyond the limits of Cook county. According to Secretary Hoy, the state committee will manage to get through with its end of the fight on $30,000 to $35,000, while the county campaign, it is estimated, will cost in the neighborhood of $100,000. Reports from the last off year battle in 1898 show that the state committee spent $26,000. It is claimed that there are many reasons for spending more money in this campaign.

County Leaders Want New System.

While the county leaders make no formal charges, at the same time some of them complain that the state committee has come to regard Chicago as its special prey, and never thinks of saddling portions of the campaign expenses upon other counties. They believe the system should be broken up and something better inaugurated in its place—some plan which will provide for an assessment equitably spread over the whole state. One of the complaints is that the several county committees keep all the money they collect for home consumption, and expect Cook to take care of the state committee and the debts it incurs. The demand, therefore, is for a radical change. A member of the county machine said:

"We have no objections to contributing our fair share and more, but we do not feel like carrying the whole load any longer. Since all the responsibility for conducting campaigns in Chicago and Cook county has been taken off the shoulders of the state committee and thrown upon the county committee, I cannot see why we should be called on to give the state committee a greater sum than other counties give.

"However, as we have two Chicago citizens candidates on the state ticket, it is our duty to vote liberal appropriations for the state campaign, but not half, nor 40 per cent, of all the money we collect by any means."

Session of the Committees.

Chairman E. S. Conway, Fred Wilkes, and Noble B. Judah comprised the delegation to take up this matter with the finance body of the state committee. As Mr. Conway could not attend the conference he designated W. H. Baldwin to represent him. So Baldwin, Wilke, and Judah met Chairman Fred Rowe, Randolph Smith, and William J. Moxley at state headquarters. The state people thought they should have half of the funds received by the county committee. The county people thought differently. Then there was talk to the effect that the state committee could get along with 40 per cent. This did not suit the local leaders any better than even division. Finally the basis of division was brought down to 25 per cent for the state on a certain sum to be agreed on later. There the problem was left.

The state committee will have to look elsewhere for contributions. It was suggested that enough money to supply the committee's wants could be raised through assessments of candidates and the best paid placeholders.

Col. Randolph Smith, head of the finance committee, stated last evening that assessments would be made on the candidates at once. The amounts would be $4,000 for candidate for clerk of the Supreme court and $2,000 for superintendent of public instruction.

BIG MEETING AT MASON PARK.

North Side Republicans Expect Senator Hanna or Attorney General Knox as the Star Speaker.

Republicans of the north side will open their campaign at Mason park on Sept. 20, with Senator Hanna or Attorney General Knox as the star speaker. Arrangements to this effect were made yesterday at a meeting of party leaders and candidates at county headquarters.

At this meeting were Congressman H. S. Boutell, Fred A. Busse, candidate for state treasurer; Carl Mueller, and Joseph Medill Patterson, candidates for the legislature in the Thirty-first district; Harry Oldham and E. J. Brundage, legislative nominees in the Sixth district; B. F. Clettingberg, in the Twenty-ninth district, and others.

Congressmen Boutell and Foss and Luther Laflin Mills will be the principal home talent orators at the park.

The county executive committee also met and fixed the following dates on which it will call the officers of the several ward and precinct clubs in conference, six wards to be disposed of at each sitting.

Aug. 18—Twenty-first, Twenty-second, Twenty-third, Twenty-fourth, Twenty-fifth, and Twenty-sixth wards.
Aug. 19—Thirteenth, Eighteenth, Nineteenth, Twentieth, Thirty-fourth, and Thirty-fifth wards.
Aug. 20—Fourteenth, Fifteenth, Sixteenth, Seventeenth, Twenty-seventh, and Twenty-eighth wards.
Aug. 21—First, Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Ninth, and Tenth wards.
Aug. 25—Eleventh, Twelfth, Twenty-ninth, Thirtieth, Thirty-first, and Thirty-second wards.
Aug. 26—Sixth, Seventh, Eighth, and Thirty-third wards.

The republican nominees were requested to unite with the democratic candidates in asking the supreme court to give an early decision on the application for a rehearing of the case in which the new law changing the time for electing judges was declared unconstitutional.

SAY FOWLER WILL HELP MASON.

Waukegan Republicans Think Alderman-Editor Plans to Oppose Hopkins' Candidacy.

Some of the republicans of Waukegan hurried to state headquarters yesterday with a story that Editor Frank T. Fowler would come out in his paper for Senator Mason. Mr. Whitney reported that he had evidence of Mr. Fowler's intention to declare war on Congressman Hopkins' candidacy for the senatorship and to fight for Mason's reelection. It was rumored also the Chicago alderman had purchased a Waukegan paper with a view to landing himself in congress as the successor of George E. Foss in 1905.

RIOT CLEARS WAY FOR CARS.

Blows Struck and Two Men Arrested When Wagon Blocks a Cable Train.

A small sized riot ensued at Forty-seventh and State streets last evening when a delivery wagon failed to move out of the tracks to allow a north bound cable train to pass. Edward Kruger, 3717 Dearborn street, was struck on the head with a brick, and L. D. Wiemiller and Alec Arhuthot were arrested. William Hary, gripman of the train, is the complainant and the prisoners are charged with disorderly conduct. Kruger, the injured man, was an onlooker. He was knocked down and dazed by the blow.

ROAD GETS HARBOR TERMINAL.

Western Maryland Secures 125 Acres of Land in South Baltimore and Will Make Big Improvements.

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 12.—The Western Maryland railroad company has purchased 125 acres of land in South Baltimore for deep harbor terminal purposes, and, it is said, work will be begun immediately on improving the property. It is understood that the price paid for the property was $600,000.

BASEBALL PEACE NOW IN SIGHT.

Ban Johnson Predicts Decisive Overthrow of the Brush Clique.

PET SCHEME IS FOILED.

Story of Consolidation on Twelve Club Circuit Basis Branded as Absurd.

"There is not the slightest chance of the Brush amalgamation scheme going through," said President Johnson of the American league yesterday. "On the contrary, there is every possibility that John T. Brush's baseball days are numbered and that the game will at last be rid of the man who has done more than any other two men to injure the sport."

In these words Ban Johnson disposed of the story, emanating from National league sources in Boston, to the effect that plans were on foot for the consolidation of the National and American leagues on a twelve club circuit basis, to include the present twelve cities in the two big circuits, and providing for the consolidation of the opposition clubs in Chicago, Boston, St. Louis, and Philadelphia.

"That has been the National league's plan," continued Johnson, "but it was another of Brush's dreams and has been thoroughly exploded. I cannot understand what object Hart had in giving it out—for it bears all the earmarks of Hart. It is plain that the old leaguers have abandoned it, for they would never have given away their hands in advance if they thought the plan feasible. It is true that the plan was started, and in at least two instances club owners of the American league were approached with a view to selling out to the old league, as was done in Baltimore. But Brush agents received a slap in the face and their plans effectually blocked. I was aware of them all the time.

Majority Now Against Brush.

"Brush is no longer a power in baseball, and with the surrender of the Cincinnati club by him to the new syndicate next Saturday he will lose the control of the old league, and one of the chief obstacles to a compromise between the two leagues will be removed. There will then be five votes against Brush in the league councils, and whatever seeming power he is allowed to exercise will be governed by the Brush-Freedman faction but by the old Spalding faction and the new Cincinnati syndicate, which is opposed to Brushism.

"What would the American league gain by amalgamation? The old league has nothing to offer us, and if we had wanted consolidation we had plenty of opportunity to amalgamate with either of the warring factions last winter. No, sir, there is room for two big leagues working in harmony, and there is no other outcome possible. When it will come I cannot, of course, say."

President Johnson disposed for all time of the report that the Boston club or any part of it was owned by Auten, one of the former Pittsburg magnates, or any National league sympathizer by the statement that four-fifths of the stock of the Boston club was in his own possession.

Auten Holds No Stock.

"Auten went to Comiskey at the time we were planning to go into St. Louis," said Ban, "and said he wanted to be interested in an American league club. He was promised a chance, and when we were ready to put the transfer through I sent word to Auten that he could have the franchise. He backed up at once and said the manager whom he had picked out had signed with another club, so he did not care to take hold. That is as near as Auten ever came to owning stock in any of our clubs."

President Johnson disposed of the story that the Boston National league club had signed Anderson of the St. Louis browns for next season by the statement that the player in question had signed with his present club. He supplemented it by the announcement that in nearly every club in the league the players whom the managers wished to retain had been resigned, and that it would be a matter of only a few days before the roster of the clubs for next year would be practically complete. He instanced the case of the Boston players who were signed for Collins' team next year in one day by Henry Killilea as showing the attitude of the majority of the players toward the American league.

Brings Out Attendance Book.

Regarding the National leaguers' efforts to convince the public that the American league is losing money, Mr. Johnson said seven of the eight clubs were making money in spite of the "enormous salaries" the old league talks about, and produced figures tabulated from the attendance reports of the eight cities on which 10 per cent of the receipts is paid into the league treasury. These show that the American league has drawn 189,079 more people up to and including last Friday's games than it drew up to the same time last year. This is in spite of increased prices of admission and the bad weather that has prevailed nearly everywhere. In Baltimore, where McGraw made the club a losing proposition, the attendance at thirty-four games this year has exceeded the attendance at the same number of games last year by 19,202.

Another interesting bit of information imparted by the American league executive was that there is every likelihood of a post season series between the champions of the National and American leagues. The American leaguers are a unit in favor of it, and Barney Dreyfuss has expressed a desire for the series, the only hitch possible being over the minor details."

Soden Enters a Denial.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 12.—A. H. Soden, president of the Boston club, when asked today about the proposed consolidation of the American and National leagues, said that there was absolutely no truth in the report. The meeting of the National league officials in Boston, he said, had no reference at all to any combination or consolidation with the American league.

FREEDMAN WILL HOLD STOCK.

New Yorker Asserts He Will Not Sell Out to Brush—Latter Will Be a Director.

New York, Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Following the story that there was a well defined rumor about that John T. Brush is after Freedman's stock in the New York baseball club came the news today that Brush will be made a director of the New York club. Freedman again declared, however, that he will continue to retain the controlling interest in the club. All Brush had to say on the subject today was that he would like to see a winner here. Freedman was quoted as saying: "I shall retain the controlling interest in the club, but Mr. Brush will be associated with me. I have the utmost faith in his knowledge of the game." It is surmised that Brush may represent the New York club at league meetings if made a director. There is also talk of his being the next president of the league.

New York, Aug. 12.—[Special.]—The Brooklyns should have defeated the Chicagos easily today, but they struck an error making fit in the fifth inning and Chicago took advantage of this to lessen Brooklyn's lead materially. In the next inning the visitors tied the score, but Brooklyn made one more run and won out.

Six hits bunched in the second and third innings, together with a sacrifice and an error, gave Brooklyn four runs. All was serene until the fifth when, after Tinker had been retired, Lowe and Kling hit safely. Then came a shower of misplays. Dahlen fumbled a grounder, Farrell made a wild throw, Ward muffed a fly, and Kitson fumbled Slagle's tap. When the Brooklyns returned to earth they were barely ahead.

Kitson won his own game in the eighth. Irwin drew four balls and Flood sacrificed. Farrell was thrown out at first, and Kitson split the air with a three bagger to center, scoring Irwin. Score:

Slap at Brooklyn Club.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 11.—The executive committee of the National league met here today and reaffirmed the ruling made at the spring meeting that the several clubs have an open field in signing any players in the American league, irrespective of reserves prior to 1902. This was deemed necessary on account of the protest made by the Brooklyn club against Joe Kelley's going to Cincinnati. It is in accordance with this decision that the Boston club opened negotiations with Anderson of St. Louis without recognizing the claims of the Brooklyn club.

PLAY FOR FARWELL CUP.

Six Women Compete at Glen View Golf Club in First Round, in Which Eight Could Qualify.

Judging from the entries for the Bartlett and Farwell cups there is not much enthusiasm at present among the women golfers of the Glen View club. On Aug. 4 only seven players took part in the qualifying round for the former trophy when eight could qualify. Yesterday only six competed in the qualifying round for the Farwell cup, for which eight could qualify. Those who played were: Miss Janet Hibbard, Miss M. Bokum, Mrs. J. N. Lapham, Mrs. Perkins, Miss E. Congdon, and Miss Mary Lewis. The first round at match play is scheduled for next Tuesday.

Mrs. G. E. Vanwoert won first prize in the nine hole handicap against bogey at the Midlothian Country club, finishing 1 up. The scores were as follows:

Mrs. G. E. Vanwoert, 1 up; Miss I. Taft, even; Mrs. C. L. Hunter, even; Miss Fitzgerald, Mrs. J. F. Mosser, and Mrs. E. S. Hunter, 1 down; Mrs. T. E. Donnelley, Mrs. F. H. Scott, Mrs. D. E. Hartwell, Mrs. F. A. Heimer, Mrs. J. L. Stack, Mrs. W. L. De Wolf, and Mrs. R. H. Donnelley, 2 down.

The approaching and putting contest was won by Mrs. F. H. Scott after a triple tie at 10 with Mrs. W. L. De Wolf and Mrs. E. S. Hunter. In the play off the winner scored 11, Mrs. De Wolf 13, and Mrs. Hunter withdrew.

Miss Ruth Steele won the approaching and putting contest at the Homewood Country club. Miss J. E. Hibbard and Mrs. Henry M. Bates tied for second prize, the former winning the play off. Mrs. F. W. Bently finished fourth and Mrs. L. Richardson fifth. Miss Mildred Wells finished first in the third day's play for the Wallace cup and qualified for the match play rounds.

Hoyt Fox won the boys' handicap at the Skokie club with a score of 123—50—73. Robert Alton was second with 115—40—75.

H. Chandler Egan and Miss Frances Everett defeated J. E. G. Ryan and Miss J. A. Carpenter in the playoff of their tie in the open mixed foursome handicap of July 24 by four strokes. The winners, who played from scratch, made the eighteen holes in 93, their opponents, who had an allowance of four strokes, getting 97. Miss Carpenter, in driving from the eighth tee, sprained her left wrist, the accident handicapping her enough to cause the loss of the match. She will be unable to play for some time.

Play for the men's midsummer handicap prize will be commenced this afternoon at the Homewood Country club.

Maroon Golf Tournament.

The second round of the university of Chicago golf tournament was played off yesterday on the links of the Auburn Park club. As a result four men are left in the semi-finals, which will be played this afternoon. The features of the match were the consistent playing of Prof. Stagg and the clever uphill work of Buck, the latter winning his match after his opponent had won the first three holes. Buck made both his rounds in 46; Stagg made his in 45 and 46. A close match between them is expected today. Results: Stagg [scratch] beat Thomas [3], 6 up and 5 to play; Buck [4] beat Miller [2], 4 up and 2 to play; Magee [2] beat Eastman [4], 6 up and 4 to play; Howe won from Gaud by default.

Declare Bets Off at Terre Haute.

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—The 2:25 trot today was won by Amarilis Belle in straight heats; Francis and Catherine R. second and third. Best time, 2:26. The last heat was trotted in 2:27½, which the judges thought too slow, and declared bets off. The Derby running race was won by Barrica, 6 to 2, going the mile and a quarter in 2:10½, but the judges thought Fair had not ridden Gold Standard, the 2 to 3 favorite, to win, and declared bets off. Gold Standard was second and Hub Prather third. Randolph Jr., the 2 to 3 favorite, won the two heats in the five-eighths mile. Best time, 1:01½.

He will retain his California establishment.

JOCKEY HURT AT HARLEM TRACK.

Three Horses Fall in the First Race—Meade Taken to Hospital.

FAVORITES ARE BEATEN.

Burnie Bunton, Bon Mot, and John Bright Bowled Over in Rapid Succession.

Jockey Tommy Meade on Senor, Helgesen on Goody Twoshoes, and Knight on Licorice went down in a jam near the half mile pole in the first race at Harlem yesterday. Meade was seriously injured, sustaining a fracture of the left colar bone, a dislocation of the right shoulder, and an ugly gash across the forehead.

The event was a five furlong dash for 2 year olds with an unwieldy field of fourteen. King's Lady, the favorite, was off first and had clear sailing. Meade, who was among the tail enders, tried to squeeze his mount through a small opening and in doing so stumbled and went down. Knight on Licorice, who was close up, fell over Senor, and Helgesen, going at top speed, also went down. Knight and Helgesen escaped injury, and immediately went to Meade's aid. The boy was unconscious and bleeding.

Boy Taken to Hospital.

A hasty examination disclosed injuries as stated. He was quickly removed to the Garfield Park sanitarium for treatment, and late last night was resting quietly. Flash of Lightning, a filly by Prince of Monaco—Palianthus got entangled in the mixup and broke a pastern.

King's Lady won all the way, and Galba, with a rare burst of speed in the stretch, was second. The Phantom, with Buchanan up, was left at the post, which completed the chapter of accidents and mishaps.

Three warm favorites, Burnie Bunton, Bon Mot, and John Bright, were bowled over in the three next events. Bunton looked all over a winner ten yards from the wire, and Coburn, evidently thinking he had the race won, overlooked Elsie L., which came like a shot out of a gun, and beat him out. Bon Mot ran second to Hoodwink, and at the end both were beaten out by Little Scout. John Bright might have won but for a bad cutoff at the far turn, which cost him at least six lengths. He came again, but could not stall off Felix Bard's determined rush in the last twenty yards. Linguist and Artena won the other events.

ALLAN BEATEN AND CLAIMED.

John A. Drake's Colt Runs Third at Saratoga and Is Secured by J. J. White for $1,600.

[BY T. J. GALLAGHER.]

Saratoga, N. Y., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Roxane, with 107 pounds in the saddle, won a mile handicap, the second race today, in 1:38 3-5, reducing the record made by Runnels yesterday by three-fifths of a second. She was an even money favorite. The 3 year old Cameron conceded her twelve pounds and was beaten only half a length. The Amazon, 95 up, was a close third. The time reflects the condition of the track.

John W. Schorr's John A. Scott, a 12 to 1 chance, won the first race, five and a half furlongs, selling, for 2 year olds. Athlana, the second choice, finished second, and John A. Drake's Allan third. Allan was favorite. Athlana cut out the work, with John A. Scott second and Allan third. In the stretch the Schorr colt caught and beat her a neck. Allan was about even with the winner, but was pocketed a furlong from the judges' stand. He weakened in the last sixteenth. Then he was claimed for $1,600 by J. J. White, owner of Athlana. Enoch Wishard would have retaliated by claiming Athlana had he been able to find John A. Drake and get his authority before the claiming time limit of fifteen minutes elapsed.

Paul Miles' Loone won the fourth race, a selling event of a mile. J. S. O'Brien's Hans Wagner, heavily backed, place and to show, by John W. Gates, looked a winner until half way down the stretch. Then he was passed by Fonsoluca, which was beaten on the post by Loone. George E. Smith, who had won largely on John A. Scott and Roxane, stood to win a big bet on Fonsoluca, which he backed three ways at 10, 4, and 2.

MEXICAN SELLS FOR $20,000.

R. T. Wilson Jr. Secures Futurity Candidate at Sale of the Mackay String—His Eminence Brings $9,000.

Saratoga, N. Y., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—The sale of the racing stable of Clarence H. Mackay, together with those of Newton Bennington, took place in the paddock before the races began this afternoon before a large crowd. The 2 year old Mexican, by imp. Mirthful—imp. Llandrince, who is thought to have a chance second to none of winning the Futurity, was, of course, the star, but the price was below expectations, as the last bid made was $20,000.

It was expected he would be sold for between $30,000 and $40,000, as $25,000 had been refused at private sale. It is thought the announcement made when Mexican, Aceful, and Skilful were sold, that John Madden held a claim of 30 per cent should any of the three win the Futurity, as it had been agreed when he sold them to Mackay, had a bad effect on the bidding in the case of these three horses.

His Eminence was the first sold for a big price, and he was knocked down to E. A. Crowninshield for $9,000.

The first bid made for Mexican was that of Will Fleischmann, who offered $10,000, and shortly afterward Green Morris said $15,000, and then Enoch Wishard, J. A. Drake's trainer, stepped in with a bid of $16,000. After a few moments' rest Harry Waterbury was heard to say $17,000, and for several moments it looked as if this was going to be the final price. But just when Waterbury appeared to have the colt Tom Healy, R. T. Wilson Jr.'s trainer, raised it to $20,000, and Waterbury walked away. No more bids were made, and Auctioneer Easton was compelled to knock the colt down to Wilson.

TENNIS ON LONG ISLAND.

ENGLISHMEN COMPETE FOR HONORS AT MEADOW CLUB.

R. F. Doherty Outplays the Columbia University Champion in Straight Sets, and Dr. Pim Disposes of Two Opponents in Early Rounds—W. A. Larned Wins First Two Matches from Waller and Watson Respectively—Weather Conditions Perfect.

Southampton, L. I., Aug. 12.—The Long Island championship tennis tournament was begun here today on the courts of the Meadow club. The weather conditions were perfect, with the exception of a strong wind across the outer courts. On the championship court were placed R. F. Doherty, former champion of England, and Lyle E. Mahan of Columbia university.

The Columbia player was outclassed from the start, and Doherty took the victory in straight sets. In the opening set Mahan worked his long drives and ground strokes to good advantage and made the score close in all of the games. The deep drives that the Englishman sent into Mahan's court, however, were too steady and accurate for the latter, and Doherty took the first set at 6—4.

In the second set the Englishman began to cut the lines of Mahan's court by superbly placed shots. He used his racquet without apparent effort, and despite the efforts of Mahan the visitor was at all times able to hold the leading position. At the close Doherty was cool and playing with the same graceful ease, while Mahan was exhausted. The summary of the day's play:

Championship singles, preliminary round—G. P. Dodge defeated Thomas Sturgis Jr., 10—8, 4—6, 6—3; R. P. Huntington defeated Robert Leroy, 6—2, 6—2.

First round—R. P. Huntington defeated G. P. Dodge, 6—3, 6—2; R. F. Doherty defeated L. E. Mahan, 6—4, 6—3; W. A. Larned defeated Stewart Waller, 6—4, 6—1; C. F. Watson Jr. defeated J. S. Rogers, 6—4, 6—3; Dr. Pim defeated A. C. McMaster, 6—1, 7—5; Richard Stevens defeated Harry Allen, 7—5, 6—3; H. L. Doherty defeated R. G. Hunt, 6—0, 6—2.

Second round—W. A. Larned defeated C. F. Watson Jr., 6—4, 6—2; Dr. Pim defeated Richard Stevens, 6—4, 8—6.

Mixed doubles, first round—Mrs. H. W. Hoadley and H. L. Doherty defeated Miss Middlebrook and Robert Leroy, 6—2, 6—2; Miss Russell and R. P. Huntington defeated Mrs. Harry McVickar and Thomas Sturgis Jr., 6—1, 6—4.

SURPRIZE IN AZTEC TOURNEY.

Wilbrenner and Peters Are Defeated in Tennis Doubles by Orchard and Morley—Playing Improves.

Much improved tennis was the rule in yesterday's matches in the Aztec tennis tournament. There were several surprises, the defeat of Wilbrenner and Peters by Orchard and Morley being unexpected. This match was the feature of the afternoon's play.

Orchard and Morley won the contest only after the hardest fought battle of the tournament. The score was 0—6, 6—2, 2—6, 6—0, 6—3. It was the superior net work and placing that finally won for Orchard and Morley, although they were outclassed in team work. While the scores of the sets are not large, most of the games went to deuce.

Charles Peters won the most important match in singles from Morley, the Aztec player. The first set was taken by Peters, 8—6, but the effort was too much for him, and he lost the second without much of a fight. E. E. Zimmerman and A. P. Nelson met in the third round, Zimmerman finally winning, 7—9, 11—9, 6—3. The contest was a strain on both players, but Zimmerman managed to last the longer.

Snow and Ashcraft captured their doubles match from Beach and Zimmerman. Snow had little trouble in winning from Orchard in the singles. Summaries:

Third round—Singles—Charles Peters defeated F. L. Morley, 8—6, 6—1; R. M. Hess defeated Edgar Lee, 6—0, 6—1; R. Wilbrenner defeated M. Hill, 6—1, 6—0; E. E. Zimmerman defeated A. P. Nelson, 7—9, 11—9, 6—3; A. C. Snow defeated R. Richards, 6—0, 6—1.

Fourth round—A. C. Snow defeated J. Orchard, 6—3, 6—2.

First round—Doubles—Beach and Zimmerman defeated Glanz and Partner, 6—4, 6—1, 6—4; Shiesinger and Corneau defeated Kennedy and Chappelle, 6—1, 6—1, 6—4; Hess and Johnson defeated Stroud and Redheffer, 6—0, 6—0.

Second round—Snow and Ashcraft defeated Beach and Zimmerman, 8—6, 6—1, 7—5; Hess and Johnson defeated Kellogg and Williams, 6—2, 6—2, 6—0; Orchard and Morley defeated Wilbrenner and Peters, 0—6, 6—2, 2—6, 6—0, 6—3.

DIRECT HAL IN FAST COMPANY

Geers' Crack Protege Wins Metropolitan Stake from a Strong Field.

MATCH RACE CALLED OFF

The Abbot-Lord Derby Contest Prevented by Former's Alleged Lameness.

[BY H. T. WHITE.]

New York, Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Direct Hal, the wonderful "green" pacer in Geers' stable, won his fifth consecutive grand circuit race here today, stepping the necessary three heats in 2:06½, 2:07, and 2:07. Greenline, who forced him out in the first and second heats, was distanced in the third. Incidentally the race was made the occasion of by far the heaviest betting seen on a trotting track this season, and, as usual, the opposing forces were E. E. Smathers and "Nick" Hubinger.

Smathers was for Direct Hal all the time, and started by paying $1,000 for that horse to $700 for the field. Twenty-four times did the big bettor do this, and the small fortune he had wagered came back with good interest before the afternoon was over. Hubinger's main hope was that one of the three pacers in the field—Greenline, Elderone, and his own Elastic Pointer—would be found ready to carry Geers' pacer a hot clip every mile. But this hope faded at the close of the first heat.

First Heat to Direct Hal.

Direct Hal drew the outside position in a field of ten, but hardly had the word been given when he began stepping to the front. By the time the first turn was reached Greenline had the pole, with Elderone second, and they had the track to themselves for three-quarters of a mile. When Direct Hal reached the backstretch he was a comfortable fourth, but it was not until later that Geers made his play for the lead. When he did there was some interference by Elderone, but the black horse got clear and passed after Greenline, who was being driven for all he was worth. He was half way down the homestretch before Direct Hal overhauled him, but after that it was fairly easy for the black horse, although Greenline kept going clear to the wire and was beaten only half a length.

Before placing the horses the judges called Rites, driver of Elderone, to the stand and announced that the horse had been distanced for foul driving.

Proves Gameness to Doubters.

With two of his most formidable competitors behind the flag and another pumped out by a hard heat, Direct Hal had fairly easy sailing in the next mile. Although Greenline led to the stretch, he surrendered quickly when challenged, and another mile, with Tertimin second, gave Direct Hal the victory. It was a grand performance and raised the colt in the estimation of some people who have doubted his gameness.

There were more than a dozen starters in the 2:24 trot, and yet so little were they thought of that an ordinary sort of trotter called Tiverton was made an even money favorite and won in straight heats.

The novelty race of the day was for 2:18 trotters, and, as usual, it was not interesting. Alliewood won the first heat in 2:12¼ and went to the barn. Prince of Orange took the second heat in 2:12¾ and also retired. The sole exciting feature of the event was in the third heat, when Alvander, who had been backed off the boards for this particular mile, won as he liked, after loafing along in the rear of the whole field for nearly the entire mile. The pacing division of the Horse Review stake, for 3 year olds, was a walkover for Ecstatic, a daughter of Oratorio. She jogged around the track in 2:28¾ and received $1,000 for the performance.

The Abbot's Suspicious Lameness.

It was announced that the race between The Abbot and Lord Derby, set for Thursday, had been declared off on account of The Abbot having gone lame. As he was in fine fettle yesterday, his withdrawal has caused some comment, the general opinion being that he was not good enough to beat Derby and that his people did not want to be beaten. In place of The Abbot-Derby race one has been arranged for Thursday between the pacers Prince Alert and Anaconda.

Dan Patch will also perform on Thursday instead of Saturday, and if the day and track are just to his liking he has a good chance to beat the 1:59¼ of Star Pointer. After considering the matter all night, the judges gave out a decision today that there would not be another heat in the 2:06 pace, which last night they decided to be unfinished when darkness came. CHEN ENDS VISIT; OFF FOR CANADA.

Goes Through Chinatown and Tells His Countrymen to Mix With the People.

AWED BY SKYSCRAPERS.

Cannot Understand Why They Do Not Fall Down—Thanks the Nation.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE, New York, Aug. 12.

Prince Chen Leaves for Montreal.

Prince Chen had a day of sightseeing in New York today, and after the busy whirl ended left at 7:30 in the evening for Montreal. The prince and his suite saw high buildings, bridges, aldermen, and other things, but all these were unimportant compared with the visit to Chinatown. That visit lasted about five minutes, but there had been days of preparation for it, and the scene was a remarkable spectacle while it lasted.

Among the strange features of the event was that while the prince proceeded through the block into which thousands of his own countrymen had packed themselves there was not a sound beyond the stately beating of the josshouse gong. The Chinese, lining the route, looked on in mute wonder. When the last carriage had gone by a string of firecrackers was set off from in front of the Merchants' association in Mott street, and the crackling of them could be heard by the prince's party until they were more than two blocks away.

Prince Chen, from the moment he entered Mott street, stopped talking to the members of his party in his own carriage and addressed himself to the Chinese on each side of the vehicle.

The prince remarked on the congested living quarters of the people. His advice to those he passed was:

"Move out of here and mix more with the people. Learn their language and their customs. Improve your industrial condition."

The prince several times remarked to his listeners that he regretted that Chinese laborers had not always lived in peace with their neighbors.

Chinatown was never more impressively or fantastically bedecked. From almost every window in the settlement there obtruded a yellow flag decorated with the Chinese dragon. There were lanterns of every description and all colors and all new. The people, too, had clothed themselves with bright, new garments.

The party, escorted by police, drove to the city hall in the afternoon. Acting Mayor Fornes received them and made a short speech, to which Prince Chen replied through Sir Liang. The party next visited the postoffice and the downtown office building section. The high buildings elicited the greatest amount of wonder.

"The prince shook his head time and again," said Sir Liang, "saying he could not understand why those buildings did not fall down. But I explained to him that they were made of steel, and that seemed to satisfy him."

He was also greatly impressed with the Brooklyn bridge.

Sir Liang said: "His highness has been writing a diary of his trip, and each week's account has been forwarded to Pekin. There it will be elaborately engrossed, so that by the time the prince arrives a copy may be presented to the emperor and another to the empress dowager."

Sir Liang, speaking for the prince, said:

"His highness desires me to tell you that it is with deep gratitude in his heart that he now bids farewell to the hospitality of the nation. He is sorry that his stay here has been so brief, and says that if it is possible he will visit this country during the St. Louis exposition. He desires me to thank you, gentlemen, personally, and the people of the United States and its noble chief executive, President Roosevelt, in general for their hospitality. He desires that you again express his gratitude and that of his government to President Roosevelt and Secretary Hay for the friendly feeling which this country has felt toward China."

Railway Man Disputes Hanna as to Unionism.

Senator Hanna's talk at Chautauqua last Saturday on the efficacy and desirability of arbitration brought a reply today from Walter W. Ross, counsel for the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railway.

Referring to the contests between labor unions and employers, Senator Hanna said: "The civic federation is trying to establish a condition of absolute confidence between employer and employé. That end is to be accomplished by arbitration."

To this Mr. Ross replies: "It has never been held that an individual is justified in demanding that an arbitration board shall decide whether his employer shall retain his services upon his own terms, nor is a union composed of a number of individuals justified in demanding that an arbitration board shall fix the terms and conditions of employment.

"When such a rule is enforced we will not have a free government. Enforce arbitration morally or legally and it goes hand in hand with the ratio of 16 to 1, and the American people will never stand for either.

"The tendency of unionism is to destroy individual development and to create class conditions, which is un-American."

Suit for Divorce Recalls a Romantic Marriage.

Esther Shepard, who was married twice in 1897 to Elliot Fitch Shepard, a grandson of W. H. Vanderbilt, has sued him for divorce. The two marriages of young Shepard to Mrs. Esther Potter, formerly Esther Wiggins, daughter of a grocer of Greenport, L. I., caused something of a stir in 1897. The bride was considerably more mature than the bridegroom.

Shepard had no money in his own right. He left Yale in his freshman year, owing to an escapade with some theatrical young women.

Young Shepard met Mrs. Potter in Philadelphia and at several places in this city where she lived. Shortly after their marriage they went to Paris. Reports reached this country that the young man had tried the liquor business and then the banking business in that city without success.

It is understood that the action is for absolute divorce. The defendant put in an answer through Lawyer James C. De la Mare denying the charges made against him. The lawyers on each side consented to a reference to prevent the publicity of a trial in open court. The parties to the suit have been living apart for a considerable time.

Suicide of Yacht Steward Causes Stir.

"Suicide," the Boston police say of the death at Marblehead of Gilbert G. Taillandier, chief steward of the steam yacht Anita of the New York Yacht club. Anita is chartered to William B. Leeds, the tinplate millionaire. Mrs. Leeds was ill on the yacht at Marblehead, and, to conceal the manner of the steward's death from her, the case was described at Marblehead as one of heart disease. When the body got here from Marblehead with bullet wounds in it the police and the coroner's office were much stirred up.

The Boston police say the steward went ashore to buy supplies, went to a hotel, and killed himself. The family of the man received so many conflicting reports they did not know what to think.

American Trust Is After British Shipyards.

Private advices of an authoritative nature from Washington state that one of the largest shipbuilding concerns in Great Britain is about to be absorbed by American interests. It is said that the shipbuilding trust formed by Lewis Nixon, which yesterday acquired the Hallan & Hollingsworth company of Wilmington and Crescent iron works at Elizabethport, has been and is now trying to get control of Vickers, Maxim & Vickers. Negotiations are said to be progressing so favorably that definite announcement of their consummation may be expected.

At Mr. Nixon's office an attempt was made to verify the report, but it was said that he was out of town, and none of the other officers of the company would confirm or deny the rumor. An effort was made by the Cramps to obtain control of the Vickers, Maxim & Vickers company years ago. Its acquisition by the Nixon interests would greatly increase the importance of the new shipbuilding combination.

The youths of that district threw themselves at her feet.

Three or four days each week she went to summer resorts and picnic grounds, and the round of pleasure, pursued as she was by so many ardent wooers, turned her head. She imagined she was married to every one she knew, and thought they were killing her with violent kisses. Fearing that some harm might come to the girl, her sister called a policeman.

It is easy enough to take the eyes out of a pineapple. Slice the fruit, cut off the skin, and that is about all there is of it.

If the skin of a beetroot has got broken sear the part with a redhot iron before cooking it. This will prevent the beet from bleeding.

A company of young housekeepers is taking a course in domestic science by indicating the course as it proceeds, the teacher arranging each course according to the decision made at the preceding one. By this means the class gets the practical knowledge its members are conscious of needing in their inexperience.

The juice of an ordinary lemon is about a tablespoonful. A breakfast cupful of breadcrumbs well pressed in equals about four ounces. Finely chopped suet slightly heaped up weighs about the same. A heaped breakfast cupful of brown sugar represents half a pound, and stoned raisins well pressed in weigh about the same.

Any clever woman can easily have an exceedingly handsome portiere next winter by making it her piece of summer fancy work. Get the required length of velour or taffeta in the desired shade and have stamped on it a dragoon or the royal arms of Turkey or Persia. Then outline this in narrow gold braid and you will have duplicated an exceedingly expensive curtain at about one-third the price. Of course, it will have to be lined afterward.

MERCHANTS AND TRAVELERS HEAR OF KANSAS VS. TEXAS.

Banquet at Auditorium Enlivened by Claims of Two Speakers of Supremacy for Their Respective States.

A Kansan and a Texan claimed agricultural and industrial supremacy for their states at the fall meeting of the National Association of Merchants and Travelers, held at the Auditorium hotel last evening. Their claims were received with applause by the 500 members of the association, who listened to their addresses on "The Great Southwest."

"Floods and cyclones and simoons may devastate our crops," said James A. Troutman, the Kansan, "but the faithful cow and the loyal hen will be found doing business in spite of the fury of the elements. Kansas has a greater diffusion of education and a smaller percentage of illiteracy and crime than any political division of its size on the face of the earth."

"Texas holds one-fourth of the shore line of the Gulf of Mexico, which is destined to become the Mediterranean of the new world, and monopolize its best outlets to the Atlantic," said Louis J. Wortham, the Texan. "Of all the states it alone is a miniature of the United States, producing nearly every variety of agricultural and fruit and mineral product known to the western hemisphere, and an infinitely wider diversity of raw material than any of its rivals.

"Texas as an individual state comprises more of the potential area of the southwest than any other. It is the most stupendous agricultural area with an adequate seacoast in all the world. More miles of its area confront a mighty waterway to the markets of the world and of the far east. Russia for centuries has devoted the force of its superb diplomacy to the acquisition of a coast no longer than that of Texas on the Gulf of Mexico. The resources of Texas yet undeveloped are even now the marvel of the age. In a single year Texas exported cattle, sheep, and hogs to the value of $79,133,327."

Mr. Wortham then gave some statistics of the products of the state.

MAKE WAR ON DEAD TRACKS.

Lawndale Residents Organize to Remove Old Rails and Cedar Blocks from the Streets.

Encouraged by the success of Ald. John E. Scully in removing dead car tracks and improving streets, residents of Lawndale will begin a similar crusade. Their efforts will be directed against the tracks of the Chicago General railway in Lawndale avenue. They also will give attention to the cedar blocks in Millard avenue, which are said to make the street impassable.

Two hundred of these residents met last night on the lawn at 1141 South Millard avenue to put their plans in shape. They organized the Lawndale Improvement club and elected these officers:

President—J. J. Petit.
Vice President—L. J. Colburn.
Secretary—S. P. Brannan.
Treasurer—H. H. Piddetts.

MANY BUSINESS HOUSES BURN.

Fire Destroys Large Section in Princeton, Ky., and Causes the Loss of One Life.

Princeton, Ky., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—A large part of the business section of this city was burned today, causing the loss of one life and $100,000 worth of property. The fire was caused by the explosion of gasoline in the Terry & Frayer drug store. Dr. W. B. Terry was so badly burned that he died tonight. Besides the drug store, the Urey block, the opera house, the dry goods store of A. Cash & Bro., the Henry & Butler dry goods store, the telephone exchange, and the Postal Telegraph office were destroyed. For a time it seemed as if the whole town was in danger and aid was secured from the Paducah fire department.

MINERS APPEAL TO QUAY.

URGE SENATOR AND COLLEAGUE TO SECURE STRIKE SETTLEMENT.

Thousands of Letters, Through an Endless Chain System, Are Poured In Upon the Politicians—Strikers Offer to Return to Work if Small Concessions Are Given and Support for Legislative Measures Promised—Men Accused of Contempt Released.

Pottsville, Pa., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Senators Quay and Penrose have been besieged for ten days by republican politicians in the anthracite region, urging them to use their influence to secure some small concessions to the miners which would be sufficient to end the strike. More than 200,000 letters are now on their way to the senators making the same request. These have been written by business men and manufacturers, as well as by organized miners, who have used the endless chain system.

A proposition has been made to Senator Quay that the miners will return to work upon the granting of certain small concessions, if the senator will promise to secure the passage by the next legislature of four bills, which have been drafted by William Wilhelm, a lawyer of Pottsville. The measures, if they become laws, will practically secure to the miners all they have been demanding during the strike, it is said.

Will Appeal to Senators.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—George J. Llewellyn, a politician of this city, returned today from Philadelphia, where he made arrangements for Senators Penrose and Quay, through the former, to receive a committee of twenty-four business men of this region next Saturday or Monday. They are to ask the senators to use their best endeavors to have the strike settled by arbitration. The plan is engineered by the People's alliance.

While it is thought by all who know strike conditions that the efforts cannot succeed, far more powerful influence having failed, the effort will be carried through, and there is not the least doubt here that Senators Penrose and Quay, in the interest of the republican party of the state, will make as much of it as they can. The committee will probably be headed by State Senator Drury, who has a large grocery business.

Several Miners Are Set Free.

Parkersburg, W. Va., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Thomas Haggerty and six other members of the United Mineworkers, who were serving sentences of from sixty to ninety days for contempt of court, were released by Judge Jackson this morning.

The prisoners filed a petition for release, alleging that they had not known they were violating the injunction when they did so, and promising not to do so again. Attorneys for the coal companies opposed their release, but it was granted subject to rearrest to complete the original sentence if the injunction again is violated.

Contempt Trial in Progress.

Charleston, W. Va., Aug. 12.—The case of John Richards and others charged with contempt for violating an injunction issued from Federal Judge Keller's court, was argued today by counsel and will be decided by Judge Keller tomorrow.

National Secretary W. B. Wilson of the Mineworkers of America, who is here, stated today that the object of his visit was to direct the movement of the strikers, and that he would observe the injunction order of the court so far as he believed the court had a right to go. If it became necessary to violate the court order to carry on the business of the strike he would do so, he declared.

PRINTERS HEAR PEACE TALK.

Commissioner of the American Newspaper Publishers' Union Urges Arbitration and Is Applauded.

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 12.—Frederick Driscoll, commissioner of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, delivered an address on arbitration, contracts, and the relations between publishers and the printers' unions at the International Typographical convention today. Mr. Driscoll asked for the enactment of several amendments to the general laws of the union, which would promote the best interests of the publishers as well as members of the union.

It was decided that the Typographical Journal should hereafter be published monthly, instead of semi-monthly, so as to make the official organ self-supporting.

The committee on laws reported unfavorably on the plan of limiting machine men to six days per week, and other restrictions, so as to give better opportunities to substitutes, but the convention reversed this action, and the law committee was instructed to construct a new law on restriction in compliance with the action of the convention.

The international convention of Stereotypers and Electrotypers' union, also in session here, today appointed its committees.

HARD COAL FAMINE IS FELT.

Supply of Anthracite in Omaha Is Almost Exhausted and in New York Prices Are Advanced.

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 12.—The visible supply of anthracite coal in this city and in most of the smaller towns which depend on Omaha for a supply is practically exhausted. At the coal exchange it was given out that there was less than 25 per cent of the amount usually on hand at this time, and dealers ar booking no orders. It is feared prices will go upward before a sufficient supply can be secured.

Price Advanced in New York.

New York, Aug. 12.—The price of domestic sizes of anthracite coal was today advanced to $9 a ton, an increase of $1 above the price of yesterday. The sizes affected are stove, egg, nut, and broken coal.

WILDCAT "RISKS" FLOOD COUNTRY.

Paper Capital Being Put Into Insurance Companies by the Promoters.

MAY RESULT IN A CRASH.

Withdrawal of Many Fire Concerns Leaves Open Field for the Schemers.

A great deal of paper capital is being put into insurance companies. Fire insurance seems to be the favorite among the promoters, owing to the unusual demand for indemnity created by the retirement and reinsurance of so many prominent companies during the last year, and the reduction of lines on the part of those that have remained in the field.

Owners of large lines have not been able to get as much insurance as they needed, after exhausting all legitimate resources, and their willingness to "take chances" has given the insurance schemer his opportunity.

Since the first of the year thirty-seven fire insurance companies have been projected, not counting the numerous Lloyds which have sprung up, of which Chicago alone is responsible for a dozen, with still others in process of organization. But life insurance, too, is prosperous, although it has not the excuse that the demand exceeds the supply. Fourteen life insurance companies have reached various stages of promotion since the first of the year.

In addition there are four fraternal orders based on legal reserve plans, four surety companies, and as many casualty companies. Beside these there have been scores of fraternal orders with high sounding names, and other variations of the assessment idea.

Many Concerns "on Paper."

Practically all these fire insurance companies are still on paper, and most of them will never get to the stage of actually putting up more money than may be required for organization purposes. Most of them owe their origin to the increases in fire insurance rates that have been made so generally by the stock companies this year.

The favorite argument of the men who are making a fight against what they regard as an unjustifiable increase in rates is that they will start a company of their own, carry their own risks, and "keep the profits at home." The insurance men cheerfully advise them to go ahead.

There are a number of "specialty" insurance companies which are pronounced all right, among which are the Grain Dealers' National Mutual Fire, organized in this city last week by elevator owners, who insist that their rates are too high, and which has secured one of the most expert grain insurance men in the west for its manager; the Lumber Fire and Marine of New York, organized by the lumbermen; the Southern Manufacturers' Mutual of South Carolina, floated by the cotton mill men; and the company which the independent cotton seed oil men of the south are organizing this week.

Big Business; Small Capital.

But the great majority of the new fire insurance concerns, some of them already doing a large business, has little back of them. Insurance men are viewing the multiplication of Lloyds with alarm, and predict a crash when once they start to collapsing which will recall the similar Lloyds craze of ten years ago, which led to the prohibition of any more charters to such institutions by New York state.

In Illinois such companies are absolutely without restriction. All that is necessary is for a few men to allow the use of their names as "underwriters," and with a manager with power of attorney to sign for the underwriters, and a stock of policies, the Lloyds is ready for business. The state throws rigid restriction around stock insurance companies, but the constitution guarantees to every individual the right to insure property if he wants to and can find any one who will take his guarantee.

The Lloyds contend they are merely an aggregation of individuals, and that there is no law that can touch them. The Illinois insurance department has gone over the question carefully, and admits that its hands are tied. There have been so many complaints, however, that it realizes the necessity for some measure of regulation for such concerns, and the department is preparing a bill to be presented to the legislature this winter which will give it such power.

There are a few Lloyds that have good men back of them, that are well managed, and take in enough to pay their losses and expenses, with a little profit for the underwriters. But this is true of only a few concerns.

Where the "Profit" Comes.

If they ever pay any losses it is only because they hope to get enough advertising out of it to get it all back, and much more besides, in extra premiums. One was started here a few months ago with ten underwriters, of whom three had taken advantage of the bankruptcy act in the last few years, while several of the others were judgment-proof.

Another which began business a fortnight ago never has given out its list of underwriters, and the manager says he does not know who they are, and does not care, so long as he can sell policies without them, on the name of the concern. He admitted that it had begun issuing policies when his concern had only three anonymous underwriters, the ultimate number to be fifteen or twenty.

And yet such concerns are able to sell their policies, and some of them are taking in thousands of dollars a month. They work largely by mail, spreading their circulars in sections where there have been rate increases, and offering to write business which the regular companies fight shy of, and at reduced rates.

There are plenty of people who will buy anything, so long as it is cheap, and from these the bogus Lloyds reap a rich harvest. If the insured ever has a loss, and the manager cannot figure out that it would be to his advantage to pay it, the property owner finds, if he is not shut out by the manifold clauses of a cunningly devised policy, that to get anything he must sue each of the underwriters individually, only to find in the end that they are judgment-proof.

The National Association of Insurance Commissioners has sent out blanks to all the states, and intends to prepare an authorized list of the wildcats, to be sent out from its annual convention at Columbus, O., next month.

NEWS OF THE INSURANCE FIELD.

Companies Whose Devices Are Not Approved Promise to Fight the Underwriters.

The fire insurance companies maintain a testing laboratory in Chicago, in which all devices likely to affect the fire hazard are tested and, if found satisfactory, are put on the approved list. If not, a charge is added to the insurance rate for their use.

For instance, in rating a frame row at Wheaton last week five gasoline lamps of an unapproved pattern were found, and as the risks all communicated the charge of 25 cents for each made a tax of $1.25 on each hundred dollars of insurance carried on the row.

Some of the companies whose devices are not approved are disposed to fight, and one has just begun suit at Covington, Ky., against the insurance companies and the secretary of the local board, charging that it has been blacklisted and asking for damages.

Col. J. W. Patterson, for four years collector of internal revenue for the district of northern Iowa, retired this month, and has gone with the Equitable Life, with headquarters at Dubuque.

Judge Amidon in the United States court at St. Paul has decided in favor of the Minnesota Mutual Life in the suit brought against it by former policy holders. He rules that the company was being persecuted and lays costs upon the plaintiffs.

A new "floater" policy is being issued on automobiles, specially for the touring cars, covering against damage by fire anywhere in the United States, at 3 per cent for gasoline machine and 2½ per cent for electrics.

◆

Unless the firebug arrested in Peoria turns out to be the only one operating there, further reductions in lines there are assured. The city is having trouble with the water company, and as there is but one main connecting with the source of supply there would be serious danger of a conflagration should anything happen to this while a fire was burning. Last week all the water had to be shut off for several hours while a break was being repaired.

Louis Becker, who was credited with an intention to organize a stock plate glass insurance company in Chicago, denies the report absolutely.

LESSON IN THE TYPHOID DEATHS

Health Department Finds Contaminated Foodstuffs Largely Responsible.

LITTLE BLAME ON WATER

Districts Where the Supply Is the Best Are Having the Greatest Mortality.

Do not eat raw and unclean vegetables; do not buy cheap dairy products; sterilize the milk.

The foregoing injunctions, if observed by the public, will contribute as much toward the prevention of the spread of typhoid fever, according to city health officials, as the boiling of the city water.

Charts compiled by the health department showing the distribution of the water supply reveal the fact that the majority of the deaths resulting from typhoid during the first eleven days of August occurred in the district supplied by the most sanitary of the tunnels, and hence receiving the purest water.

Not a death is recorded in the district supplied from the notoriously bad Lake View tunnel, and only two mortalities occurred in the Hyde Park district, the water supply of which never has been good.

Best Tunnels, Largest Mortality.

The largest mortality is recorded in the district supplied jointly by the three best tunnels in the city, the Carter H. Harrison, the Chicago avenue, and the four mile tunnels. In this district occurred twenty-seven of the forty-five deaths by the fever recorded up to noon yesterday.

Five deaths occurred in the district supplied jointly by the Carter Harrison and the Chicago avenue cribs, although none was recorded east of Clark street.

Three mortalities are recorded in the district supplied by the four mile crib, which includes the downtown and levee districts. None of these deaths occurred in the best residence section of the district, and only one of them in the territory lying east of State street.

Blame Vegetables and Milk.

From these statistics the health officials have concluded that the water is only partly blamable for the large mortality from typhoid, and hence it is reasoned that contaminated vegetables and dairy products share in the responsibility.

In the ghetto district, where the largest mortality has been recorded, large amounts of raw vegetables are consumed daily and the dairy products are in many cases unwholesome. Raw cabbage and celery is eaten without being washed, and the milk is kept in foul ice boxes.

In the rural districts outside of Chicago, where many of the vegetables consumed in Chicago are grown, the recent rains have spread contamination from barnyards to the fields. Thus the greenstuffs which are sold in the Chicago market come in contact with germs before they reach the consumer. The chart made by the health department shows conclusively that the greatest number of deaths have occurred in the districts supplied by the cheapest and most unsanitary farm products.

Deaths occurring in the hospitals are not marked on the chart in the district of the hospital, but in the area where the disease originated, and this fact precludes the possibility of a wrong deduction so far as the water distribution is concerned.

Health Commissioner Reynolds made a personal inspection of the conditions in the ghetto district yesterday afternoon, after which he sent thirty department inspectors to instruct the residents as to the precautions necessary to prevent typhoid fever. They will be shown the proper way to clean vegetables for consumption and also how to sterilize milk.

Typhoid in the Hospitals.

Thirteen additional typhoid fever patients were reported at the county hospital last evening. They brought the total up to 296. At the Mary Thompson hospital eight patients were turned away because of lack of room. The report of various hospitals follows:

	Monday.	Yes'day.
Alexian Brothers	30	25
Chicago Baptist	3	3
Cook County	283	296
German-American	6	6
Hahnemann	4	3
Mercy	25	27
Presbyterian	39	39
St. Luke's	18	19
Michael Reese	69	74
Provident	8	7
Passavant Memorial	0	6
Mary Thompson	19	21

Death Rate for August.

Following is the August typhoid mortality up to noon yesterday:

Aug. 1	8	Aug. 7	8
Aug. 2	0	Aug. 8	3
Aug. 3	7	Aug. 9	3
Aug. 4	5	Aug. 10	4
Aug. 5	5	Aug. 11	10
Aug. 6	2

Now that the malady in many instances has reached the critical stage it is expected that the mortality rate will grow larger.

TELLS HOW TO FALL IN LOVE.

Dr. Andrews Advises Students to Be Deliberate About It and Not to Marry in Haste.

"It is better not to marry," said Dr. E. Benjamin Andrews yesterday while his audience waited in suspense, "until 25 or perhaps a little after. Mature and proper marriages are made at that age."

This statement was made during a lecture at the University of Chicago on "Foes of the Family."

Prof. Andrews, in discussing the foes that work harm, laid most of the blame upon hasty marriages. "People rush into marriage," he said, "without knowledge of each other's tastes or characteristics. Soon they wonder why misunderstandings arise, and then away they rush, often hand in hand, to the divorce court."

Hasty courtships were denounced by Dr. Andrews in as strong terms as early marriages. Ocean voyage courtships and summer flirtations came in for their full share of condemnation. "One year of courtship," he said, "is better than three months, and two years are still better than one. If you think that young people will become sick of each other, I say that it is better to become sick of one another before marriage than after. Take plenty of time before falling in love."

While Prof. Andrews' afternoon lecture was devoted to telling how the marriage relation should be entered into, his morning talk was concerned with an unqualified disapproval of "single blessedness." According to the chancellor's views the bachelor man or the bachelor maid amounts to next to nothing.

TEST FOR GOVERNMENT PLACES.

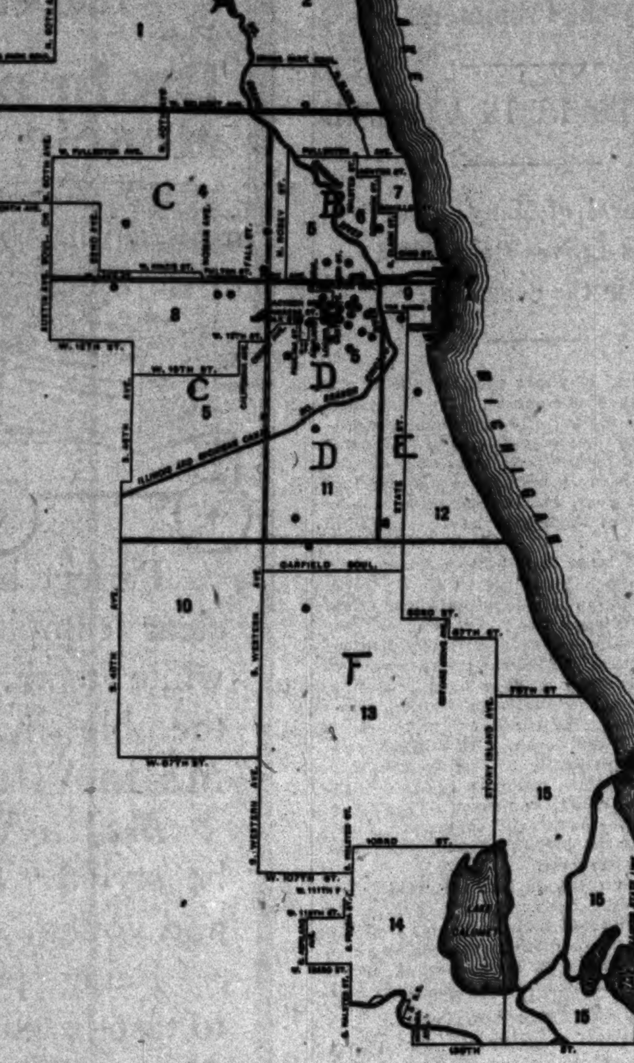
Civil Service Examination Held for a Number of Positions on Uncle Sam's Pay Roll.

Examinations were held yesterday for clerks and custodians in the Chicago subtreasury, for teachers in the Indian service, for midshipmen at the naval academy, for interpreters, and for nautical experts by Peter Newton, secretary of the United States civil service board, assisted by John T. McGrath. Vacancies in the subtreasury pay $1,200 a year for the clerical and banking positions, while positions in the custodian's service pay from $600 to $720 a year. Teachers in the Indian service secure not less than $600 a year and the other positions are worth more.

Titled Woman an Honorary Nurse.

The Chicago Hospital Training School for Nurses has just conferred its first honorary degree on La Vicomtesse Baudoin de Jonghe of Brussels. The degree is in appreciation of the active interest the vicomtesse took in a patient two years ago when the founder of the hospital and training school, Dr. J. T. Brinkley, was spending the summer in Italy. The patient was a servant.

WHERE THE TYPHOID IS FINDING VICTIMS.



The accompanying chart, showing the typhoid mortality up to noon yesterday, reveals that the greatest number of deaths have occurred in cases which originated in districts where the water supply is the best. From this the health department officials reason that contaminated vegetables and milk have much to do with the prevalence of the fever.

The water supply distribution is given by the health department as follows: A, from Lake View tunnel; B, mixed from Chicago avenue and Carter H. Harrison tunnels; C, from Carter H. Harrison tunnel; D, mixed from C. H. Harrison, Chicago avenue, and four mile tunnels; E, from four mile tunnel; F, from Hyde Park tunnel.

It is explained that the boundaries of these areas fluctuate three or four blocks in either direction from the dotted lines, according to the varying pressure from the pumping stations.

TWO HELD TO GRAND JURY IN THE BABY FARM CASE.

Mrs. Campbell Charged with Criminal Negligence and Mary Dietrich Accused as Accessory.

Mrs. Nellie Campbell was held to the grand jury yesterday afternoon for criminal negligence, and Mary Dietrich, woman doctor, 695 Wells street, was held as accessory. Thus Inspector John Wheeler began his efforts to avenge the death of the infant child Louisa, who died from supposed starvation while under the care of Mrs. Campbell. The inquest was held at the undertaking rooms of John Conboy, 621 Grand avenue. There was a crowd, both outside and inside the place.

The police had expected to convince the jury that Mrs. Campbell was guilty of murder, but the jury decided that criminal negligence was a more proper charge. Mrs. Campbell gazed in silence at the coroner when he read the verdict. She did not appear to be greatly affected, and Mrs. Dietrich seemed less concerned. Neither woman spoke.

Inspector John Wheeler recited the story of the alleged baby farm. The girl Viola repeated the story she had told to the police. She said that the babies brought into the house by Mrs. Campbell not only had suffered from lack of food but that they had been mistreated.

Mrs. Dietrich, as a witness, said she conducted a hospital, and swore that Dr. Hunter of the city health department had told her that she did not need a license.

"The mother of the baby told me she was from St. Louis," testified the witness, "but she refused to give me her name. I told her it was absolutely necessary that I keep some record. Then she said her name was Hall. I was not at home when Mrs. Campbell called and requested an infant. The baby was given to her by the mother personally. While the child was in my care I fed it with prepared food and milk. I did not give the mother any medicine.

Mrs. Campbell, however, had said the infant was given to her by Mrs. Dietrich herself.

Dr. Leininger testified that he found a fracture of the baby's skull, but gave it as his opinion that the infant died from starvation.

The jury recommended that both women be held without bail, and they were taken away to jail in a patrol wagon.

Mrs. Dietrich has been in trouble before and on several occasions has attracted attention. The state board of health has prosecuted her on several occasions for alleged violations of the state laws.

WARRANT FOR A CONDUCTOR WHO EJECTED CAR BAITER.

H. W. Phelps Complains Against Employe Who Forced Him to Leave Cable for Refusing to Pay Second Fare.

As a result of a conductor's ejection of H. W. Phelps of Rogers Park from a North Clark street cable car, Mr. Phelps yesterday appeared before Justice R. M. Scholes and swore out a warrant for the arrest of "Conductor No. 255" on the charge of assault and battery. The warrant was given to Constable H. W. Laudenheimer for service and he is looking for No. 255, whose name is not known.

On the morning of Aug. 6 Mr. Phelps, coming into the city on the electric line north of the car barns, boarded a North Clark street cable car armed with a home made "Rogers Park, Edgewater, and Argyle" transfer. The conductor demanded another fare. Mr. Phelps presented his transfer and refused to pay. Thereupon the conductor made him leave the car.

A number of persons rode to the city yesterday from Rogers Park and paid only one fare.

The S. & M. leadership in the fashion world was never better exemplified than in our 1902 showing of new fall suits.

All the jaunty effects of the season are here, and they are such as appeal to the critical tastes of fashionable women.

Nothing makes a more pleasing picture than our new Norfolk suit, which has been received with popular acclaim and quite outrivals anything else to be seen in Chicago. It evinces a distinctive style touch, a daring originality that attracts unstinted admiration.

We also invite attention to our new and jaunty styles in "Rough Riders" traveling suits, walking suits, etc.—all in the most stylish effects—see the S. & M. Norfolk suit as illustrated—pretty combinations of modish colors and white—in the new "coronation" and snowflake materials—a splendid suit for— $17.50

This Norfolk suit, 17.50.

Swell new autumn street hats.

THE TRIBUNE—ALWAYS RELIABLE.

MANDEL BROTHER'S
DAILY STORE NEWS.

Our ladies' tailoring section is now prepared to take orders for fall suits. We are showing new models and new materials. Special prices during August.

The new Norfolk suits.

For your fall tailored suit get a Norfolk—that's what the fashion editors all say—all over America women are eager to get a first glimpse of the new effects that are going to set the standard of fashion.

And where, but to Mandel's, should Chicago people turn for their first view of the smartest of these new costumes?

New Norfolk suits with new shaped skirt and jacket, the snowflake effect beautifully brought out in black and white, green and white, blue and white and brown and white. The price—remarkably low for this ultra-modish suit—$15.

Handsome blouse suits in the new shaped blouse and skirt—both trimmed with stitched velvet, fancy revers, postilion back. Extremely stylish—32.50.

A charming assortment of fancy suits in blouse, Norfolk and fitted shapes—all the various materials in mixtures and plain—skirts effectively trimmed or plain—prices range from 17.50 to $65.

An extensive showing of the new silk skirts—all the new tucked, corded, braided and hemstitched effects in peau de soie or taffeta—some with handsome taffeta drop skirt—$10 to $30.

Exclusive autumn dress goods.

The choice of the world's factories was ours. Months ago, across the water, we selected designs we knew fashion's most captious arbiters would approve for autumn wear.

Yards upon yards of soft and elegant woolens were turned out for us by the busy looms—a peerless exposition of this season's fashions in dress goods.

The new mirror zibelines—the handsomest of the new fall dress goods—heavy weight, shaggy materials with highly polished surface—beautiful shading—new castors, tans, emeralds, royal blues, cadets, navies, beavers and golden browns—54 inch wide zibelines—per yard, 1.50, $2, 2.50 and upward to as high as $4.

The new Scotch tweeds in exclusive patterns—new heather mixtures—the season's fad for fashionable skirts and suits. The new boucles, Bannockburns, Kilmarnocks and Inveraries — swell black and white, brown and white, navy and white and green and white mixtures—54 inches wide—per yard, 4.50, $4, 3.50, $3, $2 and 1.50.

August sale "mended" kid gloves, 50c.

There's not another glove sale like this the whole year 'round—for 50c you can get a pair of dress or street gloves that it would take very close examination to tell from perfect, new $1, 1.50 and $2 goods.

A stitch or two missed in the making, or some other little imperfection equally insignificant, brought them back to us—our skilled repairers remedied the difficulty.

All these, together with several thousand pairs of mended gloves secured from the manufacturers, are now on sale at one price—men's and women's gloves in all styles—glace, suede, mocha, etc., many with 2-clasp wrists, your unrestricted choosing, 50c.

"Le Negri" toothpicks

An entirely new creation, and exclusive with us, as they have just reached us from our Paris house.

Antiseptic and sterilized toothpicks—these two qualities are surely recommendation enough.

The "Le Negri" toothpicks are absolutely clean—each toothpick is put up in a sealed envelope and the points blackened with permanganate of potash.

Price, per dozen picks	10c
Package of 10 picks	10c
Package of 50 picks	40c

Package of 1,000 picks	4.50

Gold lockets at 4.75.

When we started our new jewelry store we had some pretty clearly defined notions about how to build up a snug business in lockets.

We now have three sizes of ladies' solid gold lockets in the rich, dull Roman gold finish, whose pricing gives the key to our success.

Plain, 4.75; diamond center, 8.75.
Plain, $6; diamond center, $15.
Plain, 13.50; diamond center, $25.

Final clearance imported wash goods and linen suitings.

Main floor, Wabash-av.

The greatest valves ever offered in imported wash goods.

We'll have plenty of summer dress weather yet, and if you lay in a supply for next summer you'll save more than half.

10c All the ends of printed Irish dimities, French corded lawns in handsome two and three toned effects—Scotch madras, tissues, zephyrs, mercerized ginghams, percales, plain colored lawns, lace stripe chambrays, etc., worth to 60c per yard at 10c & 15c. 15c

All the ends of linen suitings and piques 2 to 7 yards in length, to be closed out at a fraction of their real worth—suitable goods for fall wear that formerly sold at $1 per yard reduced to 25c.

400 remnants of white cotton damask, fancy white madras, plain and fancy Panama weaves, mercerized striped cheviots, fancy lace stripes in heavy weight lawns, etc.—to close at about half price.

Silk waist clearance, 2.85.

Because there are only a few of a style and size, we are offering some of our finest and most stylish silk waists at less than one-third.

It won't do for us to have our waist section full of odds and ends, you know.

A great many women are going to get big bargains in these the next day or two.

These are odd lots of our very best silk waists, in latest modes—during the season just passed we sold waists just like them for as high as $12, but we will close them out now at 2.85.

All the white waists in our stock that have sold as high as $7, including all the choicest creations of the season, will be closed out now at 1.95.

Colored shirt waists that have sold during the season as high as 4.50 are now marked at 95c.

DEATHS.

Marriage or death notices will be cabled, in condensed form, without extra charge, for publication in the Paris edition of the New York Herald, if advertisers so request, by writing on their notices, when handing them in, "Cable to the New York Herald European edition."

SHORT STORY OF THE DAY.

THAT HEAVENLY WOMAN.

BY KATHARINE TYNAN.

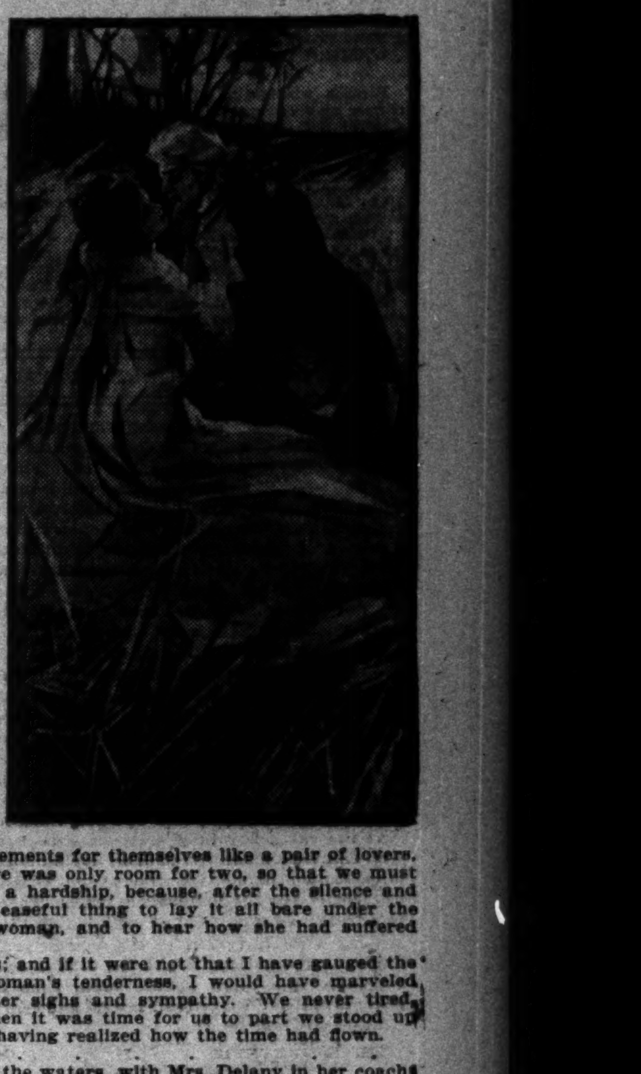
I LOOKED on at that rout like a man in a dream—so strange did it all seem to me, who had been long absent from such festivities. It was five years since my adored Georgiana had left me, taking with her the little fruit of our love, and for so long I had not revisited the glimpses of the moon. Indeed, I had not been here now but that the rout was for the new hospital, and my friend Dean Delany had persuaded me to it, saying that it was something that my angel would have exacted of me, and that she would not have me lay down the duties of my station because the Lord had taken her from me.

I knew the dean thought that my seclusion had lasted long enough; yet never was snail torn so painfully from his shell as I from my house.

I caught sight of myself in a mirror of the ballroom, and marveled that the anguish of that time, the loneliness of the years, had not made a more enduring mark upon me.

I was dressed finely—like a bridegroom, I mocked at myself. My rascal Patrick had seen to that, and had had the tailor to me and the perruquier; and there I was, in pearl gray silk from head to foot, and my wig curled finely, and a hint of essences about me—I, whose heart was as dead as any man's might be while his body lived.

Suddenly my attention was arrested by the vision of a lady who sat in a gilded chair immediately facing me across the ballroom.



I thought I had seen her before, yet surely she was different. I remembered a being of an innocent and bewitching milkmaid beauty who had been like her, yet unlike. If you could imagine a veil of the evening drawn over the morning you would have my lady as her saddened beauty appeared by that memory of milk and roses.

Some one stepped into the window by my side. It was the dean.

"Still here, my Lord Raheny," he began.

"Who is that lady?" I asked, indicating the face that had arrested me.

He did not look at me curiously, as another might.

"That heavenly woman," he answered. "Why, she is Mrs. Bathurst. Don't you remember that she was Caroline Dillon, little Caro? She married Harvey Bathurst, who was killed in a duel with Buck Standish the year of your marriage."

I remembered the bright thing then, and my heart smote me. It was not so long from her calamity to mine; and I had forgotten hers.

"She was fond of her husband?" I asked.

"She worshiped him. The manner of his death, too. He fought the Buck for a girl's honor—a mad, generous thing to do. But it enthroned him in his wife's affections, whence perhaps life might have dispossessed him."

"He was a charming fellow," said I.

"I have only known one man good enough for Caro," replied the dean. "But, come, she is looking our way. Like yourself, she is lonely at this feast. I dragged her from her retirement. You must know this heavenly woman."

In the days and weeks that followed I came to understand why the dean so designated her.

. . . .

When we made our parties of four it seemed the naturalest thing in the world that Mrs. Bathurst and I should be left together. For the dean was so hugely in love with his wife that they must be making little retirements for themselves like a pair of lovers, and would find walks and corners where there was only room for two, so that we must needs leave them. Nor can I say I found it a hardship, because, after the silence and despair of those years, it seemed the most easeful thing to lay it all bare under the deep, compassionate eyes of that heavenly woman, and to hear how she had suffered as I had done.

We had been friends now for some months; and if it were not that I have gauged the great soul, the deep calling to deep, of a woman's tenderness, I would have marveled at how she gave me with both hands of her sighs and sympathy. We never tired, indeed, of each other's society; and often when it was time for us to part we stood up and looked in each other's eyes blankly, not having realized how the time had flown.

. . . .

One day we were to ride to Lucan, to take the waters, with Mrs. Delany in her coach; but when I had come to Delville neither Mrs. Bathurst nor the dean were present.

"Come, come," said Mrs. Delany, rallying me, "your countenance is too candid, sir. You must bear with me for the journey."

I assured her that I was most flattered to be her squire; and indeed it was true, for my old friend's wife is a charming creature—one of the elect company of women who make a little heaven on earth.

Our day was a happy one, and to my amazement I found myself laughing heartily at the play of the two young daughters of the house, who, while we regaled ourselves with strawberries and cream under a chestnut on the lawn, took to flinging rose leaves upon each other, and even entered into their play, flinging my handful of fragrance so they knew not whence it came.

But as we drove back to town in the afternoon Mrs. Delany let fall a speech that seemed to thrust me into the cold and darkness from which I had but lately emerged.

"'Tis a pity to make a nun of her," she said.

"Of whom?" I asked, staring.

"Why, of that heavenly woman. I fear she has it in her mind. She is at the convent oftener than I like. She has not confided in me, but I fear she soon will."

I turned cold with apprehension. A world without that heavenly woman! It was unthinkable. Then a blind rage seized me, and I felt that I could break all the bars in the world that divided me from her. I felt that my eyes were suddenly inflamed—like my heart. I glanced at Mrs. Delany and saw that her red lips smiled. I could scarcely trust myself to speak, and when the words came I knew my voice was husky.

"'Twould be too great a sacrifice," said I.

"If we could make her feel that she had a work to do in the world," Mrs. Delany responded. "I confess the dean and I would be in despair at the loss of that heavenly woman. But we are a selfish couple. She does not feel herself necessary to us. If she could feel that there was some one who could not do without her!"

"There is some one," I said, half under my breath.

"Ah!" Her eyes were dewy, but still the soft scarlet of her lips smiled. "Do you know what your friends are saying? That you are to miserable to do without each other. But remember"—she laid her hand on mine—"once she passes the postern of the Poor Clares 'twill not be easy to dislodge her. She is a thing with a will and a purpose."

"She shall not pass them," I said.

After supper Mrs. Bathurst and I found ourselves, as usual, alone. Those two lovers, the dean and his lady, had been separated the length of the day. They had much to talk of, and we saw them take their way to that little seat cut in the ivy which only held them two.

The sky was in long streaks of rose and amber, with quiet water spaces of green between. A young moon climbed slowly up the sky. At the moment it was tangled in the boughs of an ancient apple tree. We went down the terraces through the kitchen garden to the hayfield, where the long swathes were drying in rows. I heaped some for a seat for her, and when she had taken it I stood looking at her where she glimmered white in the dark. I spoke then as I had not intended.

"So you would slip from me into a convent?" I said, and I knew there was a fury in my voice.

"I have had thoughts that way," she said, "in the days of my unhappiness. The nuns would be good to me. I am so alone."

"That you are not," said I; and suddenly I took her sweet young form in my arms and felt her heart flutter against mine. Why, what had happened to mine, which I had thought to be dead, that it was sprouting and germinating with green life and hope?

"Because we are so miserable," she said, her lips yet warm from my kisses, "we belong to each other."

"Because God gives us a second chance," said I, "and would not shipwreck us again."

"They will not grudge us that second chance," she whispered.

"Nay," said I. "She bade me on her deathbed be happy without her, else she could not be happy."

"He, too, would have wished it," she said.

"And there is no more of the convent," said I.

"I thought you would not love me," said she. "I would have carried a broken heart to the healer of such."

"You heavenly woman!" I said.

BLIND PIG OWNER IS KILLED.

Raider at Edmore, S. D., Is Mortally Wounded by Man He Seeks to Arrest—Many Shots Fired.

Devils Lake, N. D., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Frank Pelke, proprietor of a "blind pig," was killed in a raid on his place and Carl Okelson, one of the raiders, was wounded mortally at Edmore, a small town in the northeast part of this county.

Okelson, with three other men from Walsh county, went to the "blind pig" run by Pelke, and when Pelke opened the door he shot Okelson in the face, the bullet lodging in the back of the neck. Deputy Sheriff George Hanson and Constable John Johnson, with a warrant, went to arrest Pelke. Hanson ordered Pelke to throw up his hands and Pelke drew a gun. Hanson was too quick and shot Pelke in the left side. Pelke died one hour later. Okelson was alive this morning, but is not expected to live.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 13, 1902.

Vacation Puddings. The establishment of a school of domestic arts for the benefit of the unoccupied country children at Lake Geneva by Mrs. Samuel Allerton is a beneficent act that it is to be hoped will be imitated. Compulsory vacation is to some children as great an evil as compulsory education is in the eyes of others, and it is not uncommon to hear the former class declare vindictively that they "just hate vacations." It is not because these are model, precocious scholars who love learning better than leisure, and lessons better than laziness, but simply because they long unconsciously for the social advantages that schools afford and for the opportunities for self-expression that even a juvenile soul delights in. A school of domestic arts answers these needs, and one can imagine that the small boy in Mrs. Allerton's school who created a masterpiece of a pudding must have known some of the keen delight that is experienced by the composer of poems. There is a tremendous amount of vacation vitality which, without forfeiting its normal privileges of recreation, might be turned into puddings and bring at the same time to parents satisfaction to their hearts and gratification to their palates.

FIGHTING STANDARD OIL.

The Standard Oil company is called on now to do battle with "a foeman worthy of its steel." That foeman is the German government, which does not approve of the efforts of the great American company, working through the Deutsche-Amerikanische Petroleum Gesellschaft, to drive out rival Russian companies and obtain a monopoly of the German market. The German-American company, which has reached a commanding position through much the same tactics as those which built up the Standard Oil company, is an extremely profitable concern. On a capitalization of $12,000,000 it declares dividends which have been as high as 45 per cent in one year.

The German government wishes to aid the independent domestic companies in their fight. For this reason the minister of public works has issued orders discountenancing the use of the Standard Oil company's products and directing the use of Russian, Austrian, and Roumanian petroleum. In this country the Standard Oil company was aided greatly by the favoritism of the railroad companies. It is suggested in Germany that the railway systems should discriminate in rates in favor of the Russian and Austrian oil exporters and that the roads shall refuse the German-American company permission to establish any more oil tanks on their lines. It is believed that measures of this kind will deal the objectionable company a severe blow.

The tariff commission of the reichstag has been asked to impose higher duties on refined than on raw petroleum, so that an independent German oil refining industry may be built up. If this were done the consequences might be as disagreeable as they were in France, where such legislation created a domestic monopoly which was worse for consumers than the Standard Oil company monopoly it displaced.

No complaint is made that German consumers of petroleum are overcharged by the Standard Oil company. It is admitted that its oil is of better quality than that imported from Russia. It does not appear, therefore, that the interests of German consumers are harmed by the supremacy of the German branch of the Standard Oil company. It has shown itself more alert and enterprising than its rivals.

Americans have no great affection for the Standard Oil company. But if it is forced out of Germany the shipment of an important American product to that country will be interfered with. American trade will be injured. That is undesirable. So if the Standard Oil company shall get the better of the German government Americans will not grieve. When it becomes a question whether Germans shall use American or Russian oil it is best they should get their supply from this country.

THE QUALITY OF PUBLIC MEN

In an address before the Phi Beta Kappa society of Hobart college Mr. D. W. Hackett, a member of the Washington bar of considerable distinction, who has wide acquaintance with public men, gave it as his opinion that the government is served by men of singular merit. Mr. Hackett says that when he went to Washington forty years ago it was with the impression that politicians, federal, as well as local, were dishonest and self-seeking. He has been compelled to change his opinion. Mr. Procter of the civil service commission and Secretary Wilson, who, though they are in public life, are not in politics, agree with him.

Five years ago Senator Hoar wrote that in his opinion—

> As many good and wholesome laws are enacted today as have been at any other period of our history. . . . I believe the people, as a whole, are better, happier, and more prosperous than ever before, and I believe that the two houses of congress represent what is best in the character of the people now, as much as they ever did.

It has been the fashion to include all public men in the class that usually controls the great municipalities. The press of the country is so busily engaged in exposing political corruption that it has not time to print, and the public has no inclination to read, the records of the many capable officials who serve the government for much less than similar servants of corporations are paid. This applies particularly to the higher officials of the government. During the last twenty, and, indeed, during the last ten, years the quality of public servants in congress and in the departments has perceptibly improved. The change has been gradual, but certain, and still continues.

THE NEW SUPREME JUSTICE.

The appointment of Chief Justice O. W. Holmes of Massachusetts to the seat upon the National Supreme bench made vacant by the resignation of Justice Gray undoubtedly will give general satisfaction. His promotion to this responsible and honorable position has been fairly earned by his legal services to his native state as well as by his high personal and professional character. There can be no doubt that he will secure the same profound esteem in Washington that he has enjoyed in Massachusetts.

Judge Holmes is the eminent son of an eminent father—an intellectual relationship which does not always exist between father and son. His father chose the professions of medicine and literature, and shone conspicuously in both. Possessing his father's studious disposition, scholarly habit, and scientific turn of mind, the son devoted himself to the law, and after years of successful practice as well as judicial success he has reaped a noble reward. As Gov. Crane says of him: "His high qualities are well known wherever good law is known." His wounds at Ball's Bluff, at Antietam, and Fredericksburg would testify to his soldierly courage and patriotism had his own father not recorded these qualities in the narrative of his search for his captain. The legal works which he has published testify to his attainments in the theory and details of the law, and the decisions which he has handed down from the bench testify to his fine judicial qualities, his acumen, and his strong common sense. Only in one direction have his colleagues differed from him, and even then not so much in the construing of law perhaps as in the liberal tone he has manifested when issues have been made between employers and employés or when settlements of labor controversies have been involved. It is probable, therefore, that the labor interests may assume they have a special advocate upon the Supreme bench of the country. His record, however, shows that he will never go outside the limitations of absolute justice in dealing with these questions, and never infringe upon the rights of either party.

While the country will greet the new justice most cordially, it will sincerely regret that Justice Gray has been compelled to retire by reason of age and impaired health after having served longer than any of his present associates except Justice Harlan. He has served the country with great ability and he retires with distinguished honor. Geographically the appointment of Judge Holmes is eminently fit. While Massachusetts loses the honorable representation Justice Gray has given his state and New England it gains a jurist who takes up the work in the prime of his life and apparently has many years of useful service before him.

ASSASSINATION INSURANCE.

The New York Evening Post states that advices have been received in that city to the effect that the first assassination policy has been taken out on the life of Prince Henry of Prussia, who recently visited this country. The amount of the policy is $900,000, payable, of course, only in the event of the prince's assassination—an event considered so unlikely in view of the prince's popularity that the German companies regard it as a first class risk. They receive a large premium every year with little probability that they may ever be called upon to settle. If they should be, however, and it is the unexpected which often happens, the payment of this extraordinary consideration might seriously cripple some of them.

An American insurance expert, discussing the policy, says it is something new and aptly characterizes it as "freak insurance," though he concedes it is legitimate. It certainly is as legitimate as insuring the life of King Edward or of J. Pierpont Morgan and not a whit more risky, as Prince Henry's chances of living are much better than either, as he is younger and stronger, and apparently is not likely to be assassinated. And yet, remembering what has occurred three times in our own history, in each case without any sufficient cause, it is difficult to say what constitutes a risk. Physical hazards may be reckoned with by physicians and actuaries. No one has the skill to reckon with the moral hazards unless it may be in some such country as Russia, where assassination only lacks the opportunity. That this form of insurance has not been introduced in this country is due, as this expert says, to the fact that "conditions here are different from those obtaining abroad," and that we are doing business on the old familiar lines. And yet the insurance business of this country, fire, life, marine, accident, and other forms, is branching out in many directions which half a century ago would have been considered extraordinary, if not freakish.

PALM OIL UNDER THE BAN.

The commissioner of internal revenue is more than a match for the oleomargarine manufacturers. He has blasted their hopes of putting on the market a yellow product which will not have to pay the prohibitory tax of 10 cents a pound. Palm oil is a vegetable oil employed extensively in the manufacture of soap and not in that of oleomargarine. As the product when palm oil is one of the ingredients will have a yellowish tinge, the manufacturers decided to use it if allowed to do so. They may have thought they had the commissioner of internal revenue on the hip—that if he refused to let them use a trifling quantity of the oil on the ground that it was used solely to impart a yellow color to the oleomargarine he would be obliged to let them use it in considerable quantities. The manufacturers were prepared to contend that palm oil is a harmless vegetable oil, quite as unobjectionable as the cotton seed oil, which is used without protest in the making of the cheaper grades of oleomargarine.

The commissioner decides against the manufacturers whether they use much or little palm oil. He says correctly where a minute quantity is used to make the product look like butter it cannot be considered that the oil is used with the purpose of being a bona fide constituent, but only to give a yellow color to the oleomargarine—which must pay the 10 cents tax. If palm oil were used in large quantities "it would," says the commissioner, "undoubtedly cause a condition under which this office would rule that the oleomargarine contained an ingredient deleterious to public health and offensive in taste and odor." The law empowers the commissioner to decide whether imitation butter contains any ingredients deleterious to the public health, but there is an appeal from his decision to a board made up of the surgeon general of the army, the surgeon general of the navy, and the secretary of agriculture. Perhaps the manufacturers may think it worth their while to take an appeal.

The manufacturers dislike to give up a profitable home market for their product, but they will have to do so unless by ransacking the earth they can discover some vegetable oil which will make oleomargarine yellow, and which when used in large quantities will not make the product "deleterious to public health." The law does not say specifically that all oleomargarine which has a yellow hue, no matter how or by what the hue is imparted to it, shall pay a tax of 10 cents a pound, but that was the purpose of the framers of the law and the commissioner of internal revenue will so construe it.

Apparently nothing remains but for the oleomargarine manufacturers to find abroad a market for a harmless, useful product which they are forbidden to sell at home.

THE KANKAKEE INVESTIGATION.

The testimony given by Dr. Podstata before the state board of charities is quite sufficient to justify the "full investigation" promised by the president of the board. The statements which it listened to on Monday do not emanate from the diseased brain of a patient. They are made by a physician who was connected with the hospital for seven years, and who was at one time chief of the medical staff. Testimony coming from such a source is entitled to respect. Even if Dr. Podstata shall prove to be mistaken in some of his charges enough will remain to make it the duty of the board of charities to report to the governor that conditions at Kankakee under the Small régime are unsatisfactory.

It may be that the failure of the legislature to appropriate for sufficient fire escapes is responsible for the fact that sixty inmates in the incapable ward are at any moment in danger of death by fire. Perhaps if the trustees had laid great stress on the fire hazards the general assembly would have consented to the use for fire protection of a larger part of the $110,000 appropriated for other than ordinary expenses at the institution. It may be that if more money had been appropriated laboratory and scientific work would not have been neglected. But, granting that the general assembly has not done all it should have done, it appears, if Dr. Podstata's testimony is correct, that abuses existed for which the legislature is not directly responsible. It is alleged that a politician, not an alienist, manages the Kankakee hospital—that Trustee Len Small is everything and the superintendent is nothing, the latter being obliged to take such employés as are sent him, and to give patients with political influence back of them better treatment than other patients. Apparently all men are not equal in a political insane asylum. The one with the strongest pull fares best. It is alleged also by Dr. Podstata that he paid a 5 per cent political assessment regularly, and that two years ago the women attendants were organized into a political marching club.

The members of the board announced when they began work on Monday that the question of civil service in state institutions was not relevant to their investigation, which related only to abuses in the hospital, and that it was for a committee of the legislature to take testimony as to the advisability of adopting the merit system. If the testimony of Dr. Podstata remains unimpeached the state board may feel that it comes within its province to condemn the political system of managing state institutions, and beg the governor and general assembly to coöperate in the introduction of a better system. A worse system cannot well be imagined than one which puts an insane asylum in the hands of a layman and he a picayune politician.

THE CUBAN LOAN QUESTION.

A Washington dispatch says the secretary of the treasury has reached the conclusion, after giving some study to the matter of the proposed Cuban loan of $35,000,000, that the treasury department is not the one to decide whether such a loan will clash with the Platt amendment. One of the sections of the amendment is that the Cuban government shall contract no public debt "to pay the interest upon which and to make reasonable sinking fund provision for the ultimate discharge of which the ordinary revenues of the island, after defraying the current expenses of government, shall be inadequate."

Secretary Shaw cannot well say whether the ordinary revenues of the island will take care of a debt until he knows what is meant by "ordinary revenues," how large such revenues are likely to be, and what are to be the current expenses of government. The secretary lacks information which he should have if he is to decide whether the proposed Cuban loan cannot safely be made.

The Platt amendment has been made a part of the Cuban constitution. At the first blush the question of the validity of the act of a Cuban congress should be decided by the Cuban Supreme court. But the Platt amendment is a contract entered into by Cuba with the United States and the party of the second part has a right to protest against or veto action in violation of the contract. Congress did not provide, when it enacted the Cuban legislation in question, who should have authority to notify the Cuban government that it was not living up to its agreement. Congress did not say who should decide interesting questions of fact which may arise. Is the president or congress to determine whether a treaty made by Cuba with a foreign power will tend to impair the independence of Cuba or whether an attempt is being made to contract an excessive public debt?

Presumably, the right of official remonstrance or of veto was reserved to itself by congress. But while congress is not in session if the president sees the Cuban government about to commit an act which seems to him violative of its obligations to this country, a private, unofficial word of warning from him to the government of the island doubtless will be effectual.

MANUFACTURING AT THE SAULT.

The water power and ship canal which has been building at Sault Ste. Marie for four years is now completed at a cost of $5,000,000. Its promoters expect to see rise around the factories along its banks a metropolis of the central north. With an inexhaustible supply of power, with a channel between Lake Superior and the lakes to the east twenty-two feet deep and 240 feet wide, Sault Ste. Marie would seem to have all the advantages which go to make a great center of distribution and supply. Straight through the city the current flows at the even rate of a mile and an half an hour. The water that will light the city, propel its trolleys, and drive its mills will carry the barges and ships to the factory doors. West of the city is the territory tributary to Lake Superior and Lake Michigan, and to the east the ports of Buffalo, Detroit, and Cleveland.

No man can foretell the future of the central north. Above and below the Canadian line the natural resources of the country are only partially developed. Perhaps the citizens of Sault Ste. Marie are too sanguine, but more marvelous things have happened on the American continent than the growth of a great city at a locality so blessed with facilities for transportation and manufacture as the city on the Soo.

He jauntily swung down the gay thoroughfare,
And he gave
To his trousers

A shirt waisted dandy of species not rare,
And he met the shy glances of maids bright and fair,
As he gave
To his trousers
A hitch.
He thought on his faultless attire with a smile,
And gently he murmured, "I'm just in the style,"
So he gave
To his trousers
A hitch.
He paused for a moment to light a cigar,
And he gave
To his trousers
A hitch.
He saw his best girl stepping down from a car,
He started to greet her, but e'er he got far,
He gave
To his trousers
A hitch.
He said to himself, "For once I am in it,

And he gave
To his trousers
A hitch.
But sad to relate, she his offer declined,
And he gave
To his trousers
A hitch.
He whistled and said, "O, well, never mind,"
And he sauntered away some solace to find,
As he gave
To his trousers
A hitch.

No hitch.)
But e'er he could cry, "You are mine evermore!"
His hands wildly clutched at his belt as of yore,
And he gave
To his trousers
A hitch.

When Is a Man Wise?

[Washington Correspondence New York Evening Post.]

What age brings with it of wisdom on the one hand or irresponsibility on the other depends largely on the point of view. The recent unfortunate slip of Gen. Bragg's pen regarding the Cubans was under discussion the other day, in the presence of your correspondent, between two men, both of whom had seen, in their time, a good deal of public life.

"I am sorry for Bragg," remarked one of them, "but he is far too old to be placed in a position of the delicacy of that of consul general in Cuba at this stage."

"I am not so sure of that," answered the other. "I was once, as a youngster, with President Lincoln and Secretary Seward when the latter was urging that a certain diplomatic mission requiring the ripest and soundest judgment should be given to a certain man he had selected. Mr. Lincoln inquired how old the candidate was, and was told that he was past middle life. The president shook his head.

"'He won't do,' said he; 'he's too old for such a post. I should be too old for it; you would be too old for it, Seward.'

"'No,' answered Seward, equally earnestly, 'the trouble is just the other way. I am not old enough to fill it properly; I never shall be old enough.'"

Cheer Up.

[From the Baltimore American.]

Cheer up! The rose is redder
Than the ones we saw last year;
The mockbird's song is sweeter
And happier to hear;
The grass is getting brighter,
And fairer yet to see—
The world is growing better
Than it ever used to be.

Cheer up! The sky is bluer
Than it was a year ago;
The very smiles are gladder
And have a richer glow;
The raining and the sunshine
Are helping you and me—
The world is growing better
Than it ever used to be.

Cheer up! The rose is sweeter,
The birds have newer songs;
We find more things to please us,
And dream of fewer wrongs.
There's always lots of honey,
So let's be like the bee—
The world is growing better
For folks like you and me.

No Rest for Roosevelt.

[From the New York Times.]

"What can I do for you?" asked President Roosevelt, when he was intercepted on a walk at Oyster Bay by some reporters.

"Your subjects crave an audience," said one of the newspaper men, seeking to be facetious.

"Subjects!" exclaimed the president, with a trace of annoyance in his voice. "I seem to be the subject. You boys go on your vacations, and even that mighty potentate, the managing editor, can't reach you, but the president of the United States knows no such immunity. He is at all times a subject for interviewers, for photographers, and for office seekers."

"But," added the president, his mood changing, "I seem to thrive on it. Now, fire away."

THE WIT OF BARRYMORE.

Maurice Barrymore, actor, who is dying slowly of paresis, is a man who never slept so long as there were entertaining companions ready to talk and listen, a man who was never at a loss for an answer. If his witticisms were collected they would fill a book and lose half their charm. Probably he never uttered many of the clever things attributed to him, but there never was an epigram too brilliant for Barrymore to have made it. Some were bitter as gall and a few had no more sting in them than a butterfly. But all of them showed that he possessed a remarkable mind.

He was essentially a combatant and a chivalrous man. He loved a fight, intellectual or physical, for its own sake. Once, when he was livid with rage over a reflection cast upon a woman he knew, a friend asked him why he restrained himself.

"Every blow struck in defense of a woman is a dent in her reputation," was Barrymore's reply.

He could be severe with women, too. Once he was playing with a "star" whose life was notorious. He quietly reproached her during a scene for flirting with a man in a box.

"Mr. Barrymore," she demanded, furiously, "have you never known what it is to be associated with ladies?"

"Yes," said Barrymore, easily. "I was born and I am married."

"I said ladies, sir! ladies!"

Barrymore grew white with anger, but the quick mind brought the bitterest retort he ever made.

"O, dear me, yes," he said. "I understand. You mean demi-monde. Yes, I know them also."

He was once at a table with a young woman who wanted to taste absinthe. She wrinkled her brows for a few moments and then said:

"It is like something I had when I was a child. I mean it's just like paregoric."

"You are quite right," remarked Barrymore. "Absinthe is the paregoric of second childhood."

Many were the passages he had with his wife, Georgie Drew Barrymore, whose wit was as keen as his. She was a convert to the Catholic church. One morning, when he was coming home from an all night session, he met her at the door starting forth for early mass.

"Just getting in, Mrs. Barrymore?" he inquired, politely.

"No; I am going to church, while you, sir, are going to the devil."

He once had a dispute with a boastful bully in the St. James café, who declared:

"If I had you in Texas I'd blow your head off."

"Then your courage is a matter of longitude," observed Barrymore, sweetly.

He was once on his way to the Catskills for a holiday when he fell in with three other men.

"I am an actor, broken down by overwork, seeking health and rest," he said.

"I am a business man, going to the mountains for the same reason," explained one of his new acquaintances.

"And I am an engineer, also broken down by work," said the second.

"And you, sir, are in the same boat with us?" was asked the third.

"No, I am not. I am going to the hills for pleasure. I don't work. I am a gentleman."

"And plainly on a vacation," added Barrymore.

At one time "Barry" became interested in Christian Science. A physician said to him:

"I suppose, 'Barry,' you would throw physic to the dogs?"

"Not good dogs," he returned, gravely.

There was a painting called "Summer" in the Players' club that had been severely criticised. One evening Barrymore was listening to a discussion on the prodigality of actors and the nearness of the idle season.

"Why don't you save your money like me? But cheer up, boys; summer is not half as bad as it is painted."

When Steele Mackaye told Barrymore that he would never become a great actor until he experienced a great sorrow or a thrilling experience, the retort came in a flash:

"Write a play for me, Steele, and I shall get both."

"Don't Get Rich, Papa."

A baby in a palace
Went pattering here and there,
And the nurse was paid to heed her
And to keep her in her care.
But she was not paid—'twere folly—
To love the baby, too.
So the baby in the palace
Missed—what she hardly knew.

A baby in a cottage,
A tiny blossom, grew.
The warmth of mother kisses,
A father's love, she knew.
The sunshine of affection
Was o'er her in her play;
So the baby in the cottage
Was happy all the day.

For the baby in the cottage
Wealth set a snare one day,
Saying softly: "Here's a palace;
In it you may live and play."
But the baby missed the kisses
And the old time loving way;
So she gravely urged her father:
"P'ease don't oo get rich, I say."

O, babies in the palaces,
With all, save love, to bless;
O, babies in the cottages,
Who smile to love's caress,
I wonder, O, I wonder,
If you could speak today,
Would you not teach us higher lore,
And, "Don't get rich," would say?

CHICAGO WEDDING IN EAST

MRS. RICHARDSON MARRIED TO MR. LOCKWOOD HONORE.

Ceremony Takes Place at Nickerson Residence on Cape Cod—Couple Start for Boston and Find Chairs in Car Decorated with Gaudy Ribbons, While Engineer Keeps Whistle Shrieking as the Train Leaves—Only a Dozen Guests Present.

East Brewster, Mass., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Mr. Lockwood Honoré and Mrs. Nettie Crosby Richardson of Chicago were married at noon today at the Pines, the summer home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel M. Nickerson. The ceremony took place in the reception room of the Nickerson house, which was the home of Mrs. Richardson's father, Isaac Crosby. The Rev. Mr. Dawes, the aged pastor of the Brewster Unitarian church, performed the ceremony. Only a dozen guests were present. They were Mrs. Addie Crosby, mother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel M. Nickerson, Mr. and Mrs. Roland C. Nickerson, the bride's cousins, with their children, Samuel and Helen Nickerson, who are summering at Brewster; Mrs. U. H. Crosby of Brewster and Mr. Osborne Nickerson of Chatham; Mr. Adrian Honoré of Chicago, a brother of the groom; Mrs. Fred Grant of Chicago, his sister; Mr. Potter Palmer Jr. of Chicago; Mrs. William Washburn of Greenfield, Mass., a cousin of the bride; and Mr. Mason of Boston, who played the wedding march.

An elaborate breakfast was served. The couple left for Boston on the afternoon train. The bride's cousin, Roland C. Nickerson, arranged with the porter of the drawing room car to decorate the chairs reserved for the bride and groom with a mass of gaudy ribbon, and his arrangements were carried out to the letter. The engineer was asked to use his steam whistle to its utmost power, and he made the quiet East Brewster pines ring as the train pulled through the town's limits.

ERECT MONUMENT TO EXPLORER

Members of a Kansas Historical Society Commemorate the Coronado Expedition from Mexico.

Junction City, Kas., Aug. 12.—A monument was unveiled today for the Quivira Historical society in honor of Coronado's expedition in 1541. The location, a mile from this city, was decided upon several years ago by a number of leading archæologists of the United States as being the approximate center of Quivira, the territory which Coronado visited in his march from Mexico in search of gold. The monument, which is eighteen feet high, was erected by Capt. Robert Henderson on his farm. A national salute was fired by a battery from Fort Riley, and addresses were delivered by Warren Upham of St. Paul, Minn.; F. W. Hodge of the Smithsonian Institution; E. E. Blackman, Lincoln, Neb.; Col. D. R. Anthony, Leavenworth, Kas.; and others.

Fails to Get Out of Reformatory.

The petition for a writ of habeas corpus filed in Judge Kavanagh's court by James Mortimore was refused yesterday. The case is considered important, as it stops the run on the reformatory that was started on the same grounds as in the penitentiary cases. Mortimore was sent up in 1896 for burglary and was paroled in 1898 and in 1899. He claimed that the reformatory officials made no declaration of delinquency. The record of the reformatory was produced and it showed that such a declaration had been made.

YE FASHION CORNER

The sandal fad is spreading.

Lustrous duchesse satins, brocades, and filmy laces conjure up lovely gowns for June brides.

The ultra fashionable thing in coachmen's summer headgear is the approved winter hat duplicated in straw, white, black, or brown.

The acme of luxury and elegance in white dress fabrics is reached in the sheer muslin inset, with wide bands of Valenciennes lace embroidered with wreaths.

The stylish attractions of the various kinds of grass lawn, striped, embroidered, and with narrow silk stripes, as though ribbon-run, are now alluringly set forth.

Paris is wearing the bird-of-paradise feather, but it does not wave above the hat as heretofore. One chapeau is a fine white straw with a black paradise feather sweeping around the crown at the left. Black chiffon is gracefully folded around the right side, and a fold encircles the underband, the back of which a black velvet bow falls over

FORMER GREAT TRAGEDIENNE BELIEVED DYING

MME. FRANCESCA JANAUSCHEK.

Mme. Janauschek, who was stricken with paralysis three years ago, is critically ill in a boarding house at Saratoga, N. Y., where she was taken in 1899 from her home in Brooklyn, and her friends have small hopes of a rally from the latest attack. The once "Queen of Tragedy" is now 72 years old. It is fifty-two years since she made her début in Germany as Iphigenia. Born in Bohemia and educated in Germany, where she won her first triumphs, Mme. Janauschek turned next to Russia, where she made a distinguished success, and at Moscow played before the emperor himself, who presented her with valuable diamonds. She was 37 years old before she thought of learning English and coming to this country, which since 1867 has practically been her home. For the first four years of her stay in this country she played in German, and then, at the age of 41, she seriously began the study of the English language with the idea of making her home here. In 1874 she made a tour of England and Germany, which added to her laurels, returning later to the United States. In private life Mme. Janauschek is known as Mrs. Frederick Pilot.

LETTER OF THE MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

[Copyright, 1902, by the Marquise de Fontenoy.]

EMPEROR WILLIAM'S forthcoming visit to the Polish provinces of his dominions for the purpose of attending the military maneuvers there will be characterized by features which will invest it with the appearance of the entry of a victorious general into a conquered country. For he has curtly declined any official welcome on the part of the municipal authorities, who will, therefore, be conspicuous by their absence.

The emperor's reception will be exclusively military, and he will ride at the head of his troops into the city of Posen, which is the capital of the province, and where the police have received peremptory orders not to allow any window to remain open or any balcony to be occupied along the route which he traverses.

This is, of course, a measure of precaution, as feeling amongst the Polish nationalists of high and low degree against him is so bitter at the present moment that there is the danger that some fanatic or crank might fire a pistol or a rifle or else hurl a bomb at him from either open window or balcony as he passes by in the streets below on horseback.

Still, at the same time the adoption of such precautions do not suggest much mutual confidence between the sovereign and his lieges and smack of Russian terrorism or of Japan in its unregenerate days, when it meant death for any one to gaze at the mikado from above—that is to say, from either window or balcony.

◆

Another feature of Emperor William's visit to Poland is that none of the local magnates and territorial nobility will be at their châteaux to do the honors to the royal personages, the generals, and the officers quartered beneath their roof during the great military maneuvers.

As a general rule the presence of military guests thus quartered upon one by the law of the land during the annual maneuvers constitutes a pretext for lavish hospitality, patriotic festivities, and much entertainment. The owner of the establishment, be it a magnificent country seat, a small villa, or a mere cottage, is only too delighted to act the part of host.

But this year in Poland it will be quite different. True, the châteaux will be opened to receive the royalties and military dignitaries quartered there by the quartermaster general's department. But, as in France in 1870 at the time of the German invasion, there will be none but servants to welcome the unwelcome guests and to attend to their wants, and only menials will be left to do the honors.

The authorities at Berlin and likewise the members of the imperial family are uneasy about this Polish trip of the kaiser, and have brought every kind of pressure to bear in order to induce him to abandon it, fearing that some attempt may be made to assassinate him. But thir arguments have been in vain and have only had the effect of rendering William more determined than ever to show himself in his Polish provinces.

In view of the termination of the trial of the Arab assassins of the Marquis de Mores at Susa, it may be well to draw attention to the fact that the proceedings in court have demonstrated the complete falsity of the charges openly made at Paris that the murder of De Mores was instigated by political adversaries among his fellow countrymen.

De Mores had rendered himself conspicuous by his almost fanatic hostility towards the Jews, and by his opposition to the government of the day. He posed as the champion of the church, and of what is known in France as the nationalist cause, with so much success that today wide belief is accorded to the stories circulated by his political associates and by the foes of the government to the effect that he was purposely put out of the way by the latter through the agency of some Arab tribesmen, who merely acted in obedience to orders.

As a proof of this ridiculous assertion, it is pointed out that the government officials, especially in Tunis and in Algeria, placed every obstacle in the way of the execution of his hare brained project of making his way from Tunis across the Sahara in order to join the now defunct mahdi at Omdurman on the Nile, and thus to strike a blow at British interests there.

It is perfectly true that the French authorities did endeavor to prevent him from embarking on such a foolhardy expedition, for which he was completely unfitted, having no knowledge whatsoever of Arab character or of desert life. Indeed, the French military authorities in northern Africa did everything in that line short of locking him up. It is a pity that they did not resort to this extreme measure. For in that event De Mores probably would still be alive and his American wife would not be mourning his death as a widow.

The French officials in Algeria and Tunis were thoroughly aware of the perils by which De Mores would be confronted and of the certainty of his being overtaken by disaster. What they did was merely to preserve him from the fate which they were convinced awaited him.

That is what the evidence produced at the trial of his assassins went to show, and it is to be hoped that henceforth the insinuations which have been current concerning the causes of his death will be dropped.

◆

The French authorities in northern Africa merely acted in the same way that English were wont to do in Egypt or in the Sudan before the overthrow of the mahdi. The Anglo-Egyptian forces on the upper Nile had a certain line of outposts, and beyond that line no white man was allowed to go, not even at his own risk. If he attempted to do so he was promptly arrested and sent down the river to Cairo under strong escort. For Lord Kitchener and his subordinates well knew that if any white man straying beyond the British lines were to fall into the hands of the mahdi and be killed it would be they who would be charged with the responsibility of his death.

They had before them the case of that former leader of the Paris cummune, Olivier Pain, who endeavored away back in 1884 to reach the mahdi from Cairo for the purpose of helping him against the English. Twice Pain was turned back by the Anglo-Egyptian outposts, sent back to Cairo under arrest, and warned that his project entailed certain death. The third time he managed to elude the English frontier guard, and, reaching one of the dervish strongholds, was promptly put to death there by the mahdist leader as a spy, his story of his wish to help the insurgents against the English being discredited and ridiculed.

Yet for years afterwards, even the most respectable organs of the French press, were accustomed to assert freely that Olivier Pain had been put to death through the agency of the English, who were alarmed as to what he might be able to do against them at Omdurman.

There is a certain timeliness in drawing attention to this just now. . . . For the fact that people's lives are not entirely their own to risk, has been conclusively shown in the case of Miss Stone, the American missionary, for whose release from the captivity in which she was held by Macedonian brigands so large a ransom had to be paid. She had been warned by the Turkish authorities not to venture into certain districts, known to be infested at the time by Macedonians bandits. Yet she persisted in going her way. If the Turkish government arrested her for disregarding not only its warnings but also its commands, it would have been perfectly justified, according to French practice in northern Africa and English custom in Egypt, and it would have spared itself all sorts of obloquy and trouble, as well as charges of misgovernment, and of financial responsibility for the ransom paid for her release. When persons insist on embarking upon foolhardy enterprises calculated to endanger life, the government has the right to treat them as lunatics and to place them under restraint to the extent at any rate of preventing them from putting their projects into execution. It is well enough for the individuals in question to claim as they do that they are prepared to assume themselves the risk of their lives and to renounce all claim upon the government for protection. Popular sentiment will not allow this, and declines to absolve the authorities from responsibility in the matter.

No one, save those immediately concerned, can realize the immense pressure brought to bear upon the governments of the United States and of the sublime porte at the time of Miss Stone's captivity, it being held that it was the duty of both governments to secure her release no matter at what cost. And the money actually paid for her ransom represents only a fraction of the cost actually entailed by her disregard of warnings from Ottoman and United States consular authorities.

◆

An extraordinary case of military despotism, which may lead to international complication, has just taken place in Bavaria. Nearly twenty years ago Adolf Weber emigrated from Augsburg to the United States a few months before attaining the age at which he would have become liable for military service.

After spending some time in New York and Chicago engaged in journalism, he drifted down to Mexico, where he quickly acquired both wealth and position, so much so that last winter he was appointed by the Mexican government to be its consul at Munich. It seems that some of his relatives or former friends notified the military authorities of his having left the country as a lad without fulfilling his military duty, and in consequence thereof he was arrested in the Mexican consulate at Munich as a deserter from the Bavarian army, and despite his protests and plea for clemency was sentenced to seven months' imprisonment at hard labor to be followed by the several years' service in the German army, which he would have been obliged to perform had he not left the country as a youth.

Consuls, it must be remembered, do not enjoy the same exterritorial immunities as diplomats, and are liable to arrest whenever they are guilty of an infraction of the laws of the land in which they are stationed.

AMONG THE NEW BOOKS.

MR. KIPLING goes about perpetually, it would seem, with a chip on his shoulder. He built a house in Vermont, it may be remembered, and then quarreled with his brother-in-law, moved away after a short time, and put the property on the market, where, by the way, it still is. During the brief time he lived there he succeeded, so it was reported, in making himself so disagreeable to his neighbors that they all felt relieved when he left for good. Now, again, he has engaged in a feud with his neighbors at Rottingdean, his English home, and left in high dudgeon. He quarreled with his aunt, the widow of Sir Edward Burne-Jones, who is a violent pro-Boer, but when a mob attacked her place because Barbara Frietchie-like she displayed a south African flag, he gallantly came to her rescue. The villagers, however, forgot his jingo feelings and visited their wrath on him. He therefore pulled out of Rottingdean and bought a place near Tunbridge Wells. He should live in a van. It would be less expensive.

Another American author has announced his intention of going into politics. THE TRIBUNE'S telegraph columns of July 25 contained an account of a reception to his fellow townsmen given by Winston Churchill at his home in Cornish, N. H. Mr. Churchill aspires modestly to the state legislature, an honor once enjoyed by the late Charles H. Hoyt, the farce writer, who also lived in New Hampshire. Mr. Churchill regaled his fellow citizens at a lawn fête or something of the sort, and the announcement of his candidacy made then by a friend was received with great enthusiasm. The local "boss" says there is no doubt of the author's nomination and election, and he added that an election to congress would then be in order. We have no means of knowing Mr. Churchill's qualifications to enter politics, but the infusion of the literary element into congress or even a state legislature might not be a bad thing. It was said some time ago that Booth Tarkington had similar aspirations, but they seem to have gone glimmering, although it was alleged that no less a person than the president himself favored Mr. Tarkington as a statesman. American authors have not been prone to leave the study for the forum, few of them ever taking active part in public affairs. Congressman Everett of Massachusetts was the last of any note, and he was more of a pedagogue than an author. Senator Lodge was an author even before he entered congress, and there have been other bookish lawmakers at Washington, but there has never been anything like the proportion of such men as is to be found in the English parliament.

The death of his aged helpmeet last week leaves the blind poet, Richard Henry Stoddard, in a pitiable plight. His sight is practically gone, he is so infirm from rheumatism and other bodily ailments that he needs constant attention and aid, and, it is not indelicate to add, that he is not overprovided with this world's goods, although he has friends who will see that he does not want for the comforts of life. The home life of the Stoddards was one of the greatest happiness and congeniality, although Mr. Stoddard was harnessed to book work for the greater part of his manhood. They had hosts of friends, and their parlors were always a popular meeting place. One of Eugene Field's most characteristic poems dealt with the delight of a visit to the Stoddards' on a Sunday night. The death of their talented son within the last year was almost the first sorrow that had come to the old couple. The long life of Mr. Stoddard has been passed in literary drudgery, and so great was the necessity for labor that he had little chance to exploit his own creative work in verse and essay form. Had he had the leisure, his delicate, poetic fancy would surely have given him a higher place as a poet than will now be assigned to him. His wife in her earlier years wrote three novels, which were recently reprinted in the east. She assisted her husband in much of his literary work.

The editor of the Los Angeles Express has sent to this office a marked editorial article headed "Queer Literary Coincidences." It relates to the fact that the July Century, 1902, the San Francisco Argonaut of July 21, 1902, and the Black Cat of November, 1901, each had a story by different authors, but all dealing with the same incident. The coincidence is remarkable enough, but it is scarcely worth the attention the Los Angeles editor gives it and hardly justifies his insinuations. Magazine editors are only human, and it is strange that they are not imposed upon oftener. Not that there was necessarily any imposition in this case. But why shouldn't three magazines publish stories on the same theme? What's the harm?

An advertisement in a German magazine contains this description of a gentleman: "A gentleman does not use eau-de-cologne and read greasy volumes from a circulating library. A gentleman does not borrow good works which he is in a position to buy. A gentleman does not talk about the latest literature when he is acquainted only with what is said of it by the reviewers. A gentleman does not cut books with his fingers, even after having washed his hands. A gentleman does not buy only sixpenny cheap editions."

It is pleasant in these days to come upon a writer of bounding optimism. Such a man is the author of an article in the August Book News, who finds that "there are many signs of promise in American fiction. The best contemporary novelists are devoting themselves to the study of American life from a new standpoint—a view free from the trammels of European literary dogma—and this departure from the conventional methods which prevailed in the recent past is developing among us a fiction marked by a vigor and freshness which in some stories newly published attains excellence. The short story, too, has flourished exceedingly in America, and has arrived at a degree of finished art which makes it a notable division of our literature."

There certainly have been signs of promise in our fiction in the last few years, although the curse of the old European novels is still strong on our writers. The author of the Book News article continues:

"But America is moving swiftly into an epoch when we shall be ripe in experience—when to our eyes the world will take on a different aspect than it has had hitherto. That this new time means much for literature must be obvious enough to any one who considers the question. What the character of that literature will be we cannot now determine. We may feel sure, however, that no matter what is hidden from us at present, the magnificent energy of the American race, with its gift of humor and its love for what is great and free, will at some time find expression in books which, by their beauty and charm and truth, will win a permanent place in literature. Such a consummation, one thinks, must be devoutly hoped for by all who seek to advance the dignity of American letters."

It will be strange if out of the new era of national and commercial life which we are just entering there does not come something strong in every department of life.

In the Cornhill for July an anonymous writer has considerable fun with Stephen Phillips, under the title of "New Dialogue of the Dead." Aristotle has shown a copy of Phillips' book to Odysseus, who on seeing it says:

"Ulysses"—why Ulysses?
'Twas by that name that Cicero used to call me,
Until I asked him how he'd like it if I were to call him Markos Toullios.
Well, let that pass. . . .

He begins reading the drama, but the poets' attributing Odysseus' achievements to heavenly intervention makes him angry, and the following colloquy between him and Aristotle occurs:

Aristotle: . . . Poetic license, as you'll soon remark,
Shows how you shot the suitors—in the dark;
Or how, for instance—
Odysseus: Does your rule apply
To the exalted phraseology
Which Mr. Phillips suffers me to use?
As when I talk of perils by the sea
(An element I never really liked).
As of "The white leap and the dance of doom,"
Or call the beach "The glorying shingle"—eh?
This may be beautiful, I don't deny—
Aristotle: But, you would add, 'tis pitched a trifle high.
As M. Zola isn't here as yet
I may presume the maxim to recall
That truth and beauty are identical.
What! aren't you pleased with this—"Upon this isle
Set in the glassy ocean's azure swoon?"
Odysseus: Great Aristarchus! what's an azure swoon?
Can swoons be azure?
Aristotle: Ay—as moons are blue.
Be sure the beautiful is still the true.
Take then Penelope's appeal to you:
"Come, come, Ulysses! Burn back through the world!
Come, take the broad seas in one mighty leap!"
Odysseus: Moving, no doubt; but most improbable.
No; I can answer, positive and flat,
Penelope would never have said that;
Penelope, whate'er her faults might be,
Was always eminently sensible.
This high toned style, these phrases picturesque,
They savor something of the writing desk.
Now, e'en in Homer (and you've heard me state
That Homer sometimes was inaccurate)
When we'd a plain, unvarnished thing to say
We said it in a plain, unvarnished way.
Aristotle: That was in epic; this is in a play.
I've said, when making in a bygone age
Critiques (since published) of th' Athenian stage,
That when a man a tragedy would write
Pity and terror he must still excite;
Some do this by the plot, and some prefer
To do it by the play of character;
While others entertain the firm conviction
Terror and pity should be roused by diction.
This latter, I'm informed, is now the fashion—
And, on the whole, it does arouse compassion.

LITERARY NOTES.

Houghton, Mifflin & Co. announce the following fiction for publication during September: "A Sea Turn," a new collection of short stories, by Thomas Bailey Aldrich; "The Diary of a Saint," by Arlo Bates; "A Downrenter's Son," a story of New York sixty years ago, by Ruth Hall; a new and complete edition of Maria S. Cummins' ever popular novel, "The Lamplighter," and the following juvenile fiction: "The Champion," by Charles Egbert Craddock; "The Flag on the Hilltop," by Mary Tracy Earle; and "Lois Mallet's Dangerous Gift," by Mary Catherine Lee. In the department of history, biography, and essays, they will publish next month John Fiske's last work, "New France and New England"; Lockhart's "Life of Scott," in a fine new edition of five volumes; "Nathaniel Hawthorne," by Prof. George E. Woodberry; "American Navigation," by William W. Bates; and "Eternalism," by Orlando J. Smith.

◆

Archer Butler Hulbert, author of "The Queen of Queiparte," which Little, Brown & Co. will publish in September, is enjoying a bicycle trip abroad, accompanied by Mrs. Hulbert. The material for this romance of the far east was obtained by the author when in Corea, in 1897 to 1898, as editor of the Corean Independent and correspondent of several important American newspapers, and a great deal of the romance is founded upon fact.

◆

John Goldworth Alger, author of "Glimpses of the French Revolution," has just written a new book, entitled "Paris—1789-1794." Nearly twenty years' study, not merely of the latest publications on the subject, but of a mass of manuscripts, mostly uncalendared in the national archives, enables the author to throw new light on the French revolution. The book will be published in England and America, and the American publishers will be James Pott & Co.

◆

Timothy Cole, "greatest of wood engravers," is to have another volume of his engravings issued in the autumn, with text from his own notes and by Prof. John C. Van Dyke. The new book is called "Old English Masters," and it will contain Mr. Cole's engravings of the work of the English school, including Hogarth, Reynolds, Gainsborough, Turner, and Landseer. For eighteen years Mr. Cole has been engaged in reproducing upon wood, for the Century Magazine and his books, the work of the great masters of the world. He has already covered the art of Italy, Holland, Flanders, and England, and is now working upon the Spanish school.

◆

John Bach McMaster, author of one of the best known histories of the United States and a professor at the University of Pennsylvania, will soon issue his biography of Daniel Webster, some of which has already appeared in the Century Magazine.

An important work to be issued in the fall by Dodd, Mead & Co. is "The Uganda Protectorate," by Sir Harry Johnston, G. C. M. G., K. C. B. The portion of east central Africa described contains, within an area of some 150,000 square miles, nearly all the wonders, most of the extremes and signal beauties, and some of the horrors of the dark continent. There are to be found the most remarkable known forms among the African mammals, birds, fish, butterflies, etc., besides specimens of nearly all the most marked types of African man. Cannibalism lingers in the western corners, while the natives of other parts are importing canned apricots, or are printing and publishing in their own languages summaries of their past history.

Kate Douglas Wiggin always goes to Europe in the spring and stays until midsummer, but she never fails to spend part of the year at her Maine country home, "Quillcote," on the Saco river. She has identified herself thoroughly with the little village where she passed her childhood and has done a great deal for the community. She plays the organ in the old church and sings in the choir. She teaches in the Sunday school, lends her house for church and social festivities, and gives help with open hands wherever it is needed. A village improvement society is one of her pet hobbies, and each year she gives an entertainment whose proceeds go toward beautifying the village. She reads from the manuscript of her newest unpublished book, and she presses into service the talents of any friends who happen to be in her house party. The evenings would find favor even in New York. Saco river considers them record breaking and buys tickets lavishly, with a comfortable inner knowledge that the bread will return in the shape of park benches and river terraces, and clean streets and other village improvements. Mrs. Wiggin's latest book, "The Diary of a Goose Girl," is proving acceptable summer reading. This autumn her "Penelope's Irish Experiences" will be published in a holiday edition with charming illustrations by the English artist Charles E. Brock.

Among the many wise sayings in Mrs. Nancy Huston Banks' novel, "Oldfield: A Kentucky Tale of the Last Century," which the London Spectator reviews favorably at much length, the English reviewer calls attention to one which the Spectator offers as a bone of contention to its readers. It is that "no really sweet woman has a sense of humor." Many prophecies have been made about this book by critical journals who have welcomed it as a distinct addition to the significant types in American fiction. Mr. Hamilton W. Mabie in the Outlook is of the opinion that it is a story which is likely to survive and hold its place in American literature. It is already in its second edition.

Ugly Women must blame themselves in many instances. If they would use Munyon's Witch-Hazel Soap they would discover to their gratification that their pimples, blackheads, eruptions or other skin disfigurements would disappear; that their skin would glow with a youthful freshness; that they would gain a permanently beautiful complexion; and that, used as a shampoo, the soap would cure dandruff and all scalp disorders, leaving their hair rich, soft and glossy. It is every woman's duty to look her best. Price 15c everywhere.

I want every woman desirous of a beautiful complexion to try my Witch-Hazel Soap. It preserves the creamiest skin and makes harsh skin soft and fresh. I want every person afflicted with skin disfigurements, pimples, blackheads, eruptions, or with hard, scaly scalps to try it. It will cure any skin disorder, and it is a shampoo without an equal. If you have indigestion and dyspepsia, preventing proper assimilation of food and causing consequent paleness and that "worn-out" look, take my stomach cure. You can then eat all you like, of what you like, when you like—and your skin will glow with youthful freshness.—MUNYON. Munyon's Doctors give advice by mail free. 1505 Arch-st., Philadelphia.

NEWS OF THE THEATERS.

Last Days of Pompeii.

It is a question as to where was the larger crowd of spectators at Pain's "Last Days of Pompeii" last night—inside the American league ball park or out. Not that the crowd inside the inclosure was by no means a small one, for its numbers were many, but outside the gates the small boy was much in evidence, and early in the evening bill boards, roofs, sheds, and telegraph poles put forth a remarkable crop of what seemed a strange mixture of dangling bare legs, odds and ends of arms, and bright, wide open eyes, the whole being endowed with a high pitched voice of rare carrying powers and tireless energy. No threat of rain, no fear of live wires daunted these eager viewers of Pompeii, and not one of the Pain triumphs in pyrotechnics failed to find appreciation at their hands.

Inside the park the audience was good natured, waiting patiently during the delay caused at the beginning by the failure of the electric lights on the "stage" to work, accepting with good grace the shortening of the performance owing to the rain, and receiving with applause the brilliant fireworks exhibition which brought the evening to a close. The electric lights refused for some reason to shine, and recourse had to be had to red bengal and calcium lights. The effect was not displeasing, however, and the procession, dances, and specialties which make up the preliminary spectacle showed to good advantage in the colored glow. The scenic background is similar to that seen here the last time the "Last Days" was presented, and the general plan of the show is the same—the people are seen in Pompeii's streets, Nydia appears, the processions of priests, soldiers, and dignitaries march across the scene, and the Olympian sports are being held when the eruption of Vesuvius occurs. The costumes and trappings are showy and effective, some 300 people take part in the action, and a number of attractive specialties are introduced, the Sistine Brothers in Græco-Roman statue poses, the three Droles in grotesque dances, Aronson and Ashton in acrobatic feats, and the three Geromes proving capable and enjoyable last night. The specialties had to be curtailed, however, owing to the coming of rain—the "fire ballet" being omitted among others—but the eruption of Vesuvius with its terrific detonations and abundance of flame and smoke, and the gorgeous and really beautiful display of fireworks that followed sent every one home satisfied. Mayor Harrison's portrait was among the "set pieces" in the display, and numerous geometrical designs and a movable figure of an acrobat on a turning pole were among the "fire wonders" shown.

Gaylor to Succeed Slavin.

Bobby Gaylor was engaged yesterday by Manager Hamlin to succeed John Slavin in the titular rôle in "The Wizard of Oz," the current extravaganza at the Grand opera house. Mr. Slavin is under contract to Klaw & Erlanger, the New York managers, who have an option on his services for their new production of Mark Tawin's "Huckleberry Finn." He will remain with "The Wizard" for another week, when Mr. Gaylor will make his appearance as the potentate of the mysterious land of Oz. Mr. Gaylor, who has long been a favorite as an Irish comedian in vaudeville, will of course give the rôle of the Wizard a Hibernian personality that ought to increase the gayety of the entertainment.

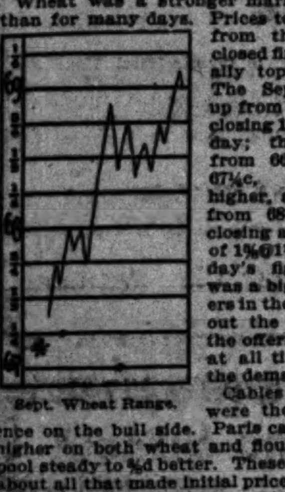
THE TRIBUNE—ALWAYS RELIABLE.

SHARP BULGE IN GRAIN.

EVERYTHING SELLS HIGHER AND CLOSES STRONG AT THE TOP.

Shorts Start the Buying and the Export and Milling Demand Does the Rest—Government Report Not Much of a Factor—Stocks of Cash Wheat Getting Scarce—Corn Receipts Light and Fears of Frost and Other Damage Are Felt.

Wheat was a stronger market yesterday than for many days. Prices tended upward from the start and closed firm at practically top for the day. The September sold up from 67⅝c to 69⅛c, closing 1⅛c over Monday; the December from 66⅝c to 67⅛@67¼c, closing 1⅛c higher, and the May from 68⅝c to 69⅝c, closing at an advance of 1⅜@1½c over Monday's figure. There was a big line of buyers in the pit throughout the session, and the offerings were not at all times equal to the demand.



Sept. Wheat Range.

Cables and shorts were the early influence on the bull side. Paris came in 10@15c higher on both wheat and flour, and Liverpool steady to ⅛d better. These advices were about all that made initial prices from ⅜@½c higher. Then shorts came in and helped along the advance. St. Louis covered liberally and some of the leading commission houses executed a large number of buying orders in the different deliveries. Armour interests took a lot of the September and presumably sold the December, though as to this the trade was not quite clear. Other September buyers were Hulburd-Warren, Pringle, Milmine-Bodman, and John Barrett. Raynard bought the December. Counselman-Day, Ware-Leland, and a scattered lot of local professionals did the selling.

Broader Cash Market.

The pits began talking a big cash business early. At the close the business late Monday and yesterday was figured out about 500,000 bu. New York had 60 loads, or nearly as much as was marketed here. The seaboard cleared 323,400 bu. St. Louis reported about 100,600 bu. There were also rumors of wheat worked at other points. Altogether it was a big cash market and helped along the futures. But the No. 1 northern premium did not hold up quite as strong. It ranged from 3½@4c over the September, according to location. The cash situation is naturally strenghtened by the small quantity of No. 1 northern here, only 970,000 bu when business began yesterday. The total contract stock is 1,679,000 bu, a decrease of 303,000 bu for the week.

Receipts at all the principal points were smaller than a week ago. Minneapolis had 106 cars, Duluth 26, and Chicago 490. The latter compared with 546 a week ago. There were 9 cars of contract. The total at all primary points was 1,261,100 bu, only about 30,000 bu under the previous week. Last year the figures were 936,000 bu. St. Louis-Kansas City reported 706,000 bu compared with 603,000 bu the previous week and 207,000 bu a year ago.

Strong Market in Corn.

Corn was bullishly affected by many of the causes which were operative in wheat. Principal of these was the covering by many of the professional operators who have been on the short side. The September, December, and May were freely bought by Bartlett, Frazier, Patten, Comstock, Wrenn, Laidley, and others, while Logan, Canby, and some of the larger scalpers were on the selling side. Offerings, in fact, came largely from scalpers. The September sold up to 52⅝c the December to 41c, and the May to 39½c. In the September these prices were 2c over the previous close, while in the December the advance was 1⅝c and in the May about ⅞c.

The relatively greater advance in the September was due largely to light receipts and the fact that barely sufficient corn came out in the cash market to do business on. There were but 62 cars inspected. Ten of them were contract. Out inspection was 265,900 bu. Charters were made for 200,000 bu. Local contract stocks were 4,522,000 bu, a decrease for the week of 786,000 bu. Receipts at all the primary points were 267,700 bu, compared with 204,000 bu the previous week and 472,700 bu a year ago. Exports were reported at 21,000 bu. Car lots were fully 1c higher.

The trade is not altogether convinced that corn is out of the way of early frosts in some sections. This is having a good deal to do with the May strength.

Oats Are Also Strong.

Oats advanced ⅞@1c and closed at the top prices for the day. The strength was chiefly in sympathy with corn, though the rally was accelerated by active covering of shorts and good investment buying. Bartlett-Frazier were big buyers, and Carrington-Patten were also active on that side. The cereal crowd took a good deal of May. The selling was scattered. Morton-Switzer sold old December and September.

The government report was not much of a factor in the market one way or the other. Cash market was firm to 1c higher in spite of liberal offerings. The shipping demand was much improved, sales of 170,000 bu being reported. Contract stocks showed a decrease for the week of 441,000 bu and now include 388,000 bu of Standard and 418,000 bu of No. 2 mixed.

Steadier Feeling in Provisions.

Provisions with the help of strong grain markets showed a fair recovery from their recent depression. The whole list advanced quite sharply, and closed at only a moderate reaction from the high prices of the day. At the outset there was still heavy pressure of outside selling, but when grains began to exhibit such a decidedly upward tendency the bear movement became less aggressive. On the other hand, shorts took to covering freely to secure profits, this demand being stimulated all the while by the strength in grain. There was also influential buying of January product by brokers, Sterling, Roloson, and others. It was the feeling in the pit that packers were lending active support to the market, particularly the Armour interests.

Hogs were dull and 10@15c lower. Receipts in the west were 59,000, against 69,000 last year. Liverpool was 6d lower on bacon and hams. Exports for the week included 1,710 brls of pork, 8,754,000 lbs of lard, and 19,013 boxes of meats.

Rye was 1c higher, advancing in sympathy with other grains. Trade was light. September sold at 48½c, and closed at that figure bid. Cash No. 2 sold free on board 50½c and No. 3 at 48½@49½c.

Barley was in small supply, and anything suitable for malting ruled firm. Sales ranged at 32@59c for barley in treating condition to 62c for choice malting.

Timothy seed ruled considerably lower owing to freer offerings of cash. August delivery was nominally $4.25@4.30, and first half of September $3.77½. September sold at $3.70, off to 3.67½, and finally offered at $3.62½. October sold from $3.50 off to $3.40 and closed at the inside price. Cash lots by sample sold at $3.85@4.15 per 100 lbs.

Flaxseed was dull and about unchanged. September closed at $1.36 bid. October sold at $1.28 and closed at 1.26½ bid. Cash No. 1 northwestern was salable at $1.45 and No. 1 southwestern at $1.40. Receipts were 15 cars.

Trade Gossip on 'Change.

Estimated receipts today: Wheat, 285 cars; corn, 27 cars; oats, 205 cars; hogs, 22,000.

There was the usual spectacle yesterday of wheat prices advancing in the face of a government report which on its face looked bearish, in that quantities were in some cases increased. But for a week or two past these facts have been discounted. In the light of modern facilities the trade generally is as well if not better posted on crop conditions as the agricultural department, and unquestionably has earlier information. Every government report raises the time honored discussion as to its value or lack thereof to the trade. The last one was no exception to the general rule. A majority is convinced as to its lack of value and insists that it does the farmer an injury more than a benefit, the theory being that the government officially announces to the world: "We have more grain than we know what to do with. Come and buy it of us at your own price."

According to the percentages in the August report of the department of agriculture, based partially on percentages of yield used by the Daily Trade Bulletin, Editor Howard figures the winter wheat acreage 25,850,000 and the yield 337,107,000 bu. This compares with a 1901 yield of 429,675,140 bu. He makes the spring wheat area 18,852,000 and the yield 299,411,000 bu, the latter comparing with 318,785,008 bu the previous year. The total acreage is 44,702,000 and the yield 636,548,000 bu, against 748,460,218 bu in 1901. On a basis of the August report of conditions Mr. Howard makes the corn 95,021,000 acres and the yield 2,486,251,000 bu, against 1,522,519,891 bu a year ago. The prospects in the "surplus states" (Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, and Nebraska) are for 1,735,000,000, against 833,000,000 bu a year ago and 1,385,000,000 bu in 1900. Oats acreage is estimated at 28,636,000 acres and 819,790,000 bu, the latter comparing with 736,808,724 bu a year ago.

Editor Jones of the Commercial West estimates the spring wheat production in North Dakota, South Dakota, and Minnesota in 1902 as follows:

	Acres.	Bushels.
Minnesota	5,960,000	82,150,000
North Dakota	3,950,000	55,100,000
South Dakota........	3,500,000	41,600,000
Total.............	13,410,000	178,850,000

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

Movement of Cattle, Hogs, Sheep, and Lambs, with Range of Prices and Comparisons.

About one-half the 5,500 cattle received yesterday were westerns. The market on natives was slow, but there were no choice beeves here. The market on westerns was about 10c lower on heavy receipts. Butcher cows and heifers were weak and slow and calves steady to strong. Supplies of stock cattle were small, but prices on the good grades were strong.

Hog receipts were estimated at 18,000, and another dime was taken off, and the market draggy at the decline. There seems to be no check in sight to the slumping condition of the hog market. Prices are 50c to 75c lower than one week ago.

Receipts of sheep were estimated at 17,000. The sheep and lamb market is active and steady to strong prices are the rule. Good feeding sheep are in strong demand, with supplies very light.

The following is a statement of the movement of live stock at the Chicago stockyards for the period indicated, with comparative figures, yesterday's receipts and shipments being estimated:

Cattle.

Yesterday's run of 5,500 cattle included about 2,000 westerns and around 500 Texans. Receipts for the two expired days of the week will show an increase of about 3,000 over last week, but 5,000 less than arrived during the same time last year. The bulk of the native run was made up of the stock and common steers, with not enough here in the medium to good beef cattle classes to establish a market on these grades, while there were no prime steers on sale whatever. Those on hand were the kinds that have to compete with the range cattle, and the market was slow to 10c lower than on Monday. Any native steers of sufficient quality to bring $8.00 or over would have found free outlet at fully steady prices, as would the grades good enough to outclass the westerns. The day's trade was not of sufficient volume, however, to afford a market criterion.

While receipts of range cattle were fairly liberal, the number to arrive today is estimated at 6,000. The best range cattle here were from Dakota and sold at $6.25. The butcher stock market was steady to weak at Monday's close, which was a dime lower than the opening. Choice to fancy heifers sold up to $6.00@6.75, though there were few here good enough to bring over $6.00. The bulk of the good kinds went at $4.25@5.50. Fancy cows are selling at $5.00@5.75; good to choice, $4.50@4.75. The calf supply was moderate and the market steady to strong, with bulk of sales at $7.00@7.25, though a number of bunches sold up to $7.50. There is a good demand for stock and feeding cattle of attractive quality and weight, and prices are fully steady to strong, while common light stuff holds about steady, with demand slow. Quotations:

Good to prime steers	$8.00@8.90
Poor to medium	4.50@7.60
Stockers and feeders	2.50@5.20
Cows	1.50@5.65
Heifers	2.50@6.40

Bulls	2.25@7.15
Calves	2.70@7.00
Texas fed steers	3.25@5.00
Western steers	4.00@7.00

Hogs.

The panicky feeling on the hog market shows no signs of abatement. Monday's receipts fell far short of the estimate, and the fact that all but about 1,500 arrivals were taken on that day was taken to indicate that the market would at least present a steady tone at the opening yesterday. This, however, proved to be a disappointment. Receipts yesterday were estimated at 18,000, which is about 5,000 more than the run on the same day last week, but a shade less than arrived on the corresponding day a year ago. The early market showed no more activity than on the preceding day. Buyers were all bearish, and the best bids were fully 10c under the average quotations for the same kinds on Monday. After the opening the market showed a decline of 10@15c, or 60@75c less than one week ago and a decline of close to $1.00 from the high point of July.

Business was slow at the declines, with mixed packing droves selling at $6.60@6.95 for fair to good quality averaging around 200 lbs, with inferior lots going at $6.10@6.60. Good mixed sold on shipping orders at around $7.00, with good butchers at $7.10@7.15. Receipts of lightweights are small and the market shows less of a decline on this grade. Bacon sorts sold at $7.15@7.20, with light mixed at $6.50@7.10. A few fancy medium and heavy sold at $7.25@7.30, the latter an outside price. Choice light butchers went at $7.10@7.20, and the bulk of the good heavy and medium weights at $7.00@7.20. Quotations:

Good to prime, 245@400 lbs..........	$7.00@7.30

Sheep.

The sheep and lamb trade was irregular. There were displays of strength, steadiness, and weakness in various spots. Both native and range lambs were strong to 10c higher, other grades being steady to strong, with an active demand. Sheep, both native and range, were steady to 10@15c lower, although there were occasional sales that displayed advances. Top on both classes of lambs was $6.35, or 10c higher than on Monday, though the advance was due more to quality than anything else. Native ewes were fairly steady, choice lots selling at $3.85@4.00. A choice bunch of Idaho yearlings brought $4.80. The feeder demand showed renewed strength, coming in competition with killers. Range feeding lambs brought $4.65 and feeding sheep are unobtainable at less than $3.65@3.75. Quotations:

Good to choice wethers.....................	$3.90@4.40
Fair to choice mixed........................	3.25@4.00

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Both Cars Should Stop.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Your first editorial in today's paper calls upon the street railroads to have both cars approaching an intersection come to a standstill. This is good advice, and should be followed to make it safe for patrons of the roads. As a frequent passenger on Chicago street cars I have been an observer of the matter, and beg leave to add that passengers should be permitted to get off the cars before crossing—that is, at the near side. Under present methods, in getting off at the far side, the ladies invariably face backwards towards the street just crossed, and in descending from the cars are liable, as sometimes happens, to be thrown into the street. On the other hand, if permitted to get off on the near side, they will naturally face toward the street where they are to get off, and facing toward the front of the train are not at all likely to fall.

CLAIMS A LARGE MAJORITY

GATES HAS PROXIES FOR 200,000 SHARES OF FUEL STOCK.

Total Outstanding Is 260,000 — Canadian Pacific Earnings for Fiscal Year Equal to Nearly 8 Per Cent on Total Authorised Common Capital—Increases Large Since June—Diamond Match Company Purchases 65,000 Acres Pine Land in California.

Harris, Gates & Co. made formal announcement yesterday that John J. Mitchell, John W. Gates, and James A. Blair, the proxy committee for the annual meeting of the Colordo Fuel and Iron company, had received proxies for approximately 200,000 shares out of a total of 260,000 shares outstanding. If this announcement be correct the committee would have a majority of at least 140,000 shares. On the face of it the Gates interest will control the annual meeting.

For some weeks the Osgood and Gates factions have been venturing contrary opinions as to who would control the meeting. The matter has been taken into the courts, and it is probable all uncertainty will not be removed until votes are actually counted.

New York people were inclined to credit the announcement from Denver that George J. Gould, in the name of the Utah Coal company, had bought 10,000 acres of coal land in Colorado, part of which lies on the line of the Denver and Rio Grande railroad, and that the land was to be developed and operated in competition with the Colorado Fuel and Iron company.

Canadian Pacific's Good Year.

Net earnings of the Canadian Pacific railroad for the fiscal year ended June 30 were, according to unofficial figures, equal to 7.30 per cent on total authorized common stock of approximately $85,000,000. The figures at hand make the following showing:

	1902.	1901.	Increase.
Gross	$37,503,054	$30,855,203	$6,647,851
Operating exp..	23,417,141	18,745,828	4,671,313
Net	$14,085,913	$12,109,375	$1,976,538

Discontinuing the comparison and taking—

This year's net..........................		$14,085,913
Add other income........................		958,927
Total net income..........................		$15,044,840
Deduct—
Fixed charges.........................	$7,334,825
Against steamships...................	150,000
		$7,484,825
Leaving for common and surplus....		$7,560,015

Being equal to 7.30 per cent on $85,000,000 common.

The road since June is recording unusually large increases over corresponding periods last year. For July the increase in gross was $344,000 or 12 per cent over July, 1901. For the first week in August the gross was $771,000, an increase of $103,000 over the corresponding week last year. The gain is 15.4 per cent.

Match Company Buys Pine.

The Diamond Match company has purchased 65,000 acres of pine land in California, for which $500,000 was paid. The expense is to be borne equally by the American and English companies.

The land purchased is at Chico, near Sacramento. The company considers the purchase an excellent investment, and in securing this large amount of timber is endeavoring to make provision for supplies while they are still obtainable at cheap prices. The company has sufficient supplies in New England and the Green Bay district to meet its requirements for five or six years. However, a big sawmill plant will be erected at Chico, and the cutting of the California timber will begin at an early date.

Ship Building Dividend.

There is good authority for announcing that dividends on the common stock of the American Shipbuilding company will be ordered after the annual meeting in October. It is presumed the distribution will be at the rate of 4 per cent. The company's stock has been selling close to 50, a price which indicates the good earning power of the property.

Radiator and Biscuit.

American Radiator common sells at 50 and pays no dividend, but earnings applicable to stock are much beyond 4 per cent dividend requirements.

National Biscuit common sells between 47 and 48 and pays 4 per cent. The earnings, however, are not permitted to increase beyond the dividend rate and the necessary amount for surplus, so that, while Biscuit common dividends are as nearly assured as good management can insure an industrial common stock, still to make the 4 per cent certain it will be the policy of the company not to pay any more. By turning excess earnings back into the property and reducing the price of the product competition can be kept within bounds.

Chicago Stocks.

Boxboard stocks sold off yeterday on fairly liberal profit taking. The advance was certainly rapid and invited the reaction which has followed.

The traction stocks were quiet. A few shares of Union Traction common sold at 15⅛. The market is being allowed to rest.

Pneumatic Tool had a small advance, but there was no special motive in the buying.

Biscuit common was fairly active and firm. The buying, however, did not appear to be significant.

Northwestern Elevated common sold at 36½. Talk of extensions and necessary additional bond issues does not help the market for the shares.

Seasonable Lines Sell More Readily at Steady Prices—Potatoes Dull and Easy.

Fruits and melons were in good demand yesterday at about steady prices. Receipts were fairly liberal. A steady feeling ruled in butter, eggs, and poultry with the volume of business in those lines moderate. The market for potatoes was easy, though not quotably lower. Demand was inclined to drag and offerings were ample.

INACTIVITY THE FEATURE OF THE WALL STREET MARKET.

Government's Favorable Crop Report Causes Advances, Especially in the Granger Roads—Early Gains Are Lost in Many Instances Through Liquidation—Firm Money Market Has the Effect of Contracting Business—Gould Shares Strong.

[BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

New York, Aug. 12.—There was a decided falling off in activity today in the stock market, and the dealings were even more professional. Early in the day there was an appearance of briskness, and the majority of the list advanced on the extremely favorable character of the government crop report regarding the condition and prospective yields of all of the important staple grains. In the afternoon the market became extremely dull, and liquidation in the granger shares on a moderate scale caused a reactionary movement of prices from the best figures.

The lighter volume of business was partly attributable to the continued firmness of the money market. Part of the day call money loaned below 4 per cent, yesterday's maximum figure, and that rate was not exceeded. It developed that certain prominent banking institutions that had been figuring upon exports of gold early this week have canceled their arrangements, and their principals intimate that heavy offerings of bills against grain and cotton are shortly to be expected.

Notwithstanding the liquidation in some stocks, the market presented a number of strong features, the soft coal and southern shares and Gould stocks being conspicuous. St. Louis Southwestern preferred and common gained net 1 and 1⅝ per cent respectively; Western Union, at a reaction from the highest figure, finished nearly 2 per cent above yesterday's final sale; and Manhattan Railway, on favorable labor news, advanced nearly a point.

Missouri Pacific gained a full figure. Baltimore and Ohio common rose an extreme 2¼ per cent on suggestions of an increase in the dividend, but lost a fraction of the improvement on profit taking. The stock, however, recorded a net gain of 1⅝ per cent. Louisville and Nashville, on similar reports, at a fractional recession from the best, ended 1¼ per cent above Monday's closing price, and coincidentally in the curb market, on further rumors of a comprehensive combination of southern roads. Seaboard Air Line issues again displayed activity and advanced over 2 per cent.

Firmness was apparent in Atchison, Erie common, and Union Pacific, while St. Paul, Illinois Central, Norfolk and Western, and Southern Railway reflected in declines, mainly fractional, the liquidation indulged in.

On moderate dealings net gains were established in Chicago and Alton common, Delaware and Hudson, Hocking Valley issues, Kanawha and Michigan, Nashville and Chattanooga, and Fort Worth and Denver City stamped, extending to 4¼ per cent in the last named. In the industrial list Colorado Fuel and Iron was extremely dull, but declined 1½ per cent on reports that the Gates party in the contest for control of the property had been successful by a considerable majority. A net decline of 3⅝ per cent in International Silver attracted some attention. On nominal sales Westinghouse Electric Manufacturing gained 2 per cent.

The railway bond market was dull, and prices, in conformity with the stock list, showed irregularity. Union Pacific convertibles sustained a further fractional decline. In the curb market the tone was in the main steady and the volume of dealings fairly large.

IN NEW YORK MONEY MARKET.

General Tendency of Cash, Bonds, Railroad Stocks, and Other Securities in Wall Street.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—The dominating factors in the stock market continue to be the coming crops and the money outlook. On the other hand, the autumn activity in the money market, while it has been expected and made the subject of industrious warnings, has been ignored in speculation. This week's rise in money rates, therefore, would naturally be of most effect on speculative condition.

Buyers in anticipation of good crops, seeing the danger of a flurry in the money market, which might force liquidation of stocks, and attracted by the high level to which prices have attained, are tempted to sell to realize their profits. There was considerable strength at one time today, and in a few cases it continued to the close, but for the most part the early rise in prices was taken advantage of to realize profits, and the general level of prices ended lower than last night.

Money on call steady, 3@4 per cent; last loan, 3½ per cent. Prime mercantile paper, 4½@5 per cent. Sterling exchange, easier at 487½@488 for demand and at 485¼@485⅜ for sixty days' bills; posted rates, 486 and 488½; commercial bills, 484¾@485¾. Bar silver, 52⅝. Mexican dollars, 41¼.

IN FOREIGN MONEY MARKETS.

General Tendency of Cash, Bands, and Other Securities in London, Paris, and Berlin.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—The Commercial Advertiser's financial cablegram says:

"Trading started heavy under the lead of consols, which declined to 95 3-16 on sales by the £6,000,000 syndicate. They afterward recovered to 95⅜. Other sections of the market moved in sympathy with consols. American issues, after initial flatness, were supported on favorable crop reports, closing only a shade under the best. Baltimore and Ohio was the feature on New York's afternoon buying orders. The carry over showed little change in the size of the account, though the disappearance of backward actions on St. Paul and Louisville and Nashville proved that the bears have rebought. Canadian Pacific touched 139½."

LONDON, Aug. 12.—Money was in active demand today and the supply was fairly abundant. Loans were renewed by the Bank of England, and there was much continental money offered for a month or two at low rates. Discounts were steady. On the stock exchange the tone was fairly cheerful, but, in spite of a healthy undertone, there was some nervousness regarding the outcome of the Kaffir account. Although rumors of a small failure were inaccurate there arose a report that a large outside operator had succumbed, involving more or less four of the largest brokers. Consols declined, and a quantity of them were taken up by a large firm, after which they recovered partially. Home railroads hardened. American securities were dull, mostly below parity, but later they became firmer. Closing stocks:

PARIS, Aug. 12.—Transactions on the bourse today showed an irregular tone. Certain stocks were firm, notably Dynamite shares. Kaffirs were flat on rumors of an important failure in London, but improved toward the close. Industrials and Thomson-Houston shares were firm at the close. Rentes and French rails were stronger.

BERLIN, Aug. 12.—International shares were quiet on the boerse today. Home funds showed a general but unimportant decline. Argentine securities were supported. Canadian Pacific weakened on the dividend declaration. Local shares were firm, notably coal shares, which improved on alleged deliveries for the first week of August.

CROPS KEEP UP PROMISE.

GENERAL AVERAGE OF GOOD CONDITION IS MAINTAINED.

Uneven Distribution of Rain Causes Complaint of Drought in a Few Sections and of Flood in Others—Harvest of Winter Wheat Is Finished and of Spring Begun—Yield Disappointing in Some Districts—Corn Prospects Warrant Expectations.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11.—[Special.]—The official weekly crop report issued today by the climate and crop division of the agricultural department gives the following general summary:

Portions of Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia, Tennessee, northern Alabama, southeastern Missouri, and the lower Ohio valley continue to need rain, and drought conditions have developed to some extent in portions of Nebraska, South Dakota, and northern Wisconsin. The principal agricultural districts elsewhere east of the Rocky mountains have experienced favorable conditions with respect to moisture, with the exception of portions of the lake region, middle Atlantic states, and New England, where too much rain fell.

The temperature conditions were favorable except over the northern portions of the Missouri and upper Mississippi valleys, where it was too cool during the latter part of the week, with light frost in Minnesota and eastern South Dakota, while some injury was caused by excessive heat in Kansas and Oklahoma in the early part of the week.

Week Is Favorable to Corn.

The corn crop has experienced another favorable week, and the general outlook in the principal corn states continues promising. In portions of southeastern Missouri and southern Illinois the crop, however, is suffering severely from drought, and rain would prove beneficial in South Dakota and in a few southern counties in Nebraska.

The thrashing of winter wheat is much belated in the lake region and the northern portion of the middle Atlantic states. Harvesting continues in the north Pacific coast region, with disappointing yields in portions of Oregon.

Spring wheat harvest is nearing completion in the southern portion of the spring wheat region, and is advancing rapidly in the central and northern portions. A considerable part of the crop in the Red River valley is still green and is ripening unevenly.

Oat harvest is now practically finished except over limited areas in extreme northern districts, and, while a generally heavy crop has been secured, the quality in many sections has been impaired after being in shock as a result of injury by rains.

Cotton Progress Is Good.

With a general absence of rain in Texas and scattered showers over the central portions of the middle and eastern districts, the progress of the cotton crop, as a whole, has been favorable. Complaints of rust and shedding, however, are quite generally indicated and some premature opening reported from portions of Georgia and South Carolina.

Early cotton is opening rapidly, and picking is progressing in Texas and in the eastern districts under favorable conditions. Uninterrupted sunshine and high temperatures have checked the ravages of boll worms and weevil in Texas, but these pests continue to cause considerable damage. In inundated sections in that state the crop has been severely damaged and in many sections ruined.

The condition of tobacco in Kentucky is only fair, but in Indiana, Ohio, Wisconsin, and New England the outlook is more favorable. In Maryland early tobacco is poor, but the late planted is much improved.

Reports by States.

New England—Weather favorable for crop growth, but showers retarded harvesting and damaged hay; corn much improved and fairly promising; small grain good; apples good, but dropping; peaches and berries good; plums and pears uneven; tobacco topping progressing, crop promising; potatoes doubtful, owing to blight and some rot, but fairly promising; other vegetables good.

New York—Showery, with moderate temperature, but week more favorable than the preceding; much damage by hail, gales, and floods; corn and beans poor; potatoes declining fast.

Texas—Cotton continues to make rank growth, and except in scattered localities is fruiting and opening satisfactorily.

Arkansas—Corn and cotton promise good yield, except some localities in northwest, where moisture is deficient; cotton shedding freely; rust spreading; no damage by insects; opening in localities.

Kentucky—Tobacco only fair; grapes and damsons good; other fruit poor; potatoes excellent; pastures and gardens fair.

Missouri—Rainfall Poorly distributed; drought in southeast unbroken and corn and cotton greatly damaged; cotton shedding; late corn needing rain other sections.

Favorable Week in Illinois.

Illinois—Weather showery and cool; good week for crops and farm work; thrashing progressing rapidly; good average yield of wheat, rye, and oats; corn prospects fine, but some damaged by drought and chinch bugs in south; pastures generally good; broomcorn, gardens, and potatoes good, but potatoes rotting some; apple crop light; some injury by bitter rot.

Indiana—Showers in north portion delayed thrashing; considerable wheat and oats sprouting in shock; haymaking practically completed; seed clover looks promising; prospects for corn never better; tobacco small, but looks well; grape and pear crops below average; apple crop light; in some southern counties pastures and vegetables suffering for rain; fall plowing begun.

Ohio—Thrashing belated in the north; large crop of oats; buckwheat filling well; plowing for wheat progressing; pastures good; seed clover promising; corn eared well and advancing splendidly; potato crop promising; garden crops good; tobacco growing well; grapes and plums rotting; some apples and fair pear crop in north; peaches light.

Michigan—Oats harvest well advanced, fine yields being secured; corn small, but improved and earing nicely; beans and late potatoes in fair condition; sugar beets, apples, and buckwheat continue promising.

Wisconsin—Week cool; rain needed badly in the north section; corn made good growth; wheat, barley, and rye yielding heavily, but straw rusted some; spring wheat good; heavy crop of oats, but of inferior quality; second crop of clover excellent; pastures fine; large yield of potatoes; tobacco excellent, some cut.

Minnesota—Spring wheat, oat, and barley harvest about finished in south and progressing well in central portions; wheat ripening unevenly in Red River valley, and considerable still green; light frosts in northern central portions on 11th.

Iowa—Conditions generally favorable, and good progress made in securing small grain; thrashing returns range from poor to extra good yield of spring wheat; oats unusually variable in quality and yield; corn is progressing favorably, with possibility of heavy output from three-fourths of area planted; minor crops doing nicely.

Late Crops Are Poorer.

North Dakota—Favorable weather for filling and maturing grain; early wheat harvest in progress, and it is advancing northward rapidly; most of oats, rye, and barley in shock; late flax and grain continue poor; corn still behind the season; haying further delayed by rain.

South Dakota—Scattered but generally insufficient showers; fine harvest and haying weather; spring wheat and oat harvest finished in extreme southeast and general in north; corn making fairly good progress, but over extensive areas is late; flax late; potatoes, millet, and pastures need rain; early flax and potatoes good.

Nebraska—Cool week, with sufficient rain for good growth; small grain about all cut; stacking, thrashing, and haying have progressed rapidly; corn has grown well and continues to promise large crop.

Kansas—Early corn maturing; late corn injured by heat, but improved by cooler weather and showers last week; wheat and flax yielding poor to fair; oats fair to good; cutting prairie hay in progress; crop unusually heavy.

FEDERAL GRAND JURY INDICTS TEN: THEN QUITS.

Robert D'Unger and A. S. Cunningham the Most Important Victims of the True Bills Returned by Inquisitors.

The special grand jury drawn by the United States Circuit court returned ten true bills yesterday and was discharged. Indictments were voted against the following:

Robert D'Unger and Guy C. McDonald, sending improper literature through the mail.

Clarence A. Burgheim, forging money order for $55.

Thomas P. McNally and Harry A. Sawyer, stealing valuables from letters.

Eustin J. Batchelder and Alfred S. Cunningham, counterfeiting.

James Forney, retailing liquor without a government license.

Arthur Hug, neglecting to cancel revenue stamps on cigar boxes.

Charles H. Dill, selling cigars without procuring revenue stamps.

The grand jury was sworn by Judge James Jenkins of Milwaukee. He thanked the members for their quick work.

Dr. Robert D'Unger was arrested on Feb. 10 on charges preferred by William Funk, husband of Phrynette Ogden, connected at that time with the "King Dodo" company, then playing at the Tremont theater, Boston. Dr. D'Unger was at one time one of the leading physicians of the city, with offices in the Palmer House block, but now lives at 3010 Prairie avenue. When Mrs. Estelle Funk was a child she was known to the physician, and he is said to have taken a great liking to the child, which increased as she grew older. Because she married Mr. Funk is said to be the reason why Dr. D'Unger became incensed and wrote offensive letters, which he is charged with sending through the mail.

A. S. Cunningham is said by Capt. Porter to be one of the shrewdest makers of spurious coin in the country. Since 1898 he has eluded the secret service men until he was arrested in July at 55 Morgan street.

Eustin J. Batchelder used steel dies instead of chalk dies. He made half dollars which were passed upon many merchants.

LONG CRUISE FOR NEW LAUNCH.

Gasoline Boat, Coming from Detroit, Going Down Mississippi and Home Through St. Lawrence.

Six months of cruising has been decided upon as the method of testing the worth of the largest gasoline launch on the great lakes, and the waters of half the United States will be covered. The boat is the Wilanna, recently turned out by a Detroit shipbuilding firm for W. H. Laughlin of Canton, O. Early next month the Wilanna is expected in Chicago to enter the drainage canal for a trip to New Orleans. Then the launch will make a shore cruise around the gulf of Mexico. The half year's journey will end with a run up the Atlantic coast, through the St. Lawrence river and the Welland canal home. The Wilanna is seventy feet long and twenty feet beam. It draws less than four feet of water. The engines are calculated to develop a speed of fifteen miles an hour.

NEWS OF THE RAILWAYS

GOOD SHOWING OF EARNINGS BY THE BURLINGTON.

Total for Year Shows Interest on the 4 Per Cent Bonds More than Earned—Interstate Commerce Commission's Quarterly Reports Show Little Reduction in Number of Accidents, Despite the Use of Automatic Couplers—Transportation Notes.

The Burlington's statement of earnings for the month of June makes a far better showing than was generally expected. While the increase in the surplus for the month is only a trifle over $100,000, yet everybody looked for a decrease, as most of the other leading western roads showed a decrease for June.

The good showing made by the Burlington is undoubtedly due to the assistance given it by the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads, with which it is closely allied.

The June statement completes the Burlington's reports of earnings for the fiscal year. The year's showing is remarkable. It reveals a gain in gross earnings of 7½ per cent, a gain in net earnings of 12.03 per cent, and a gain in surplus of 26.6 per cent. The surplus after charges amounts to $10,185,407, of 9.25 per cent on the $111,142,800 capital stock, against a surplus of $8,042,976 or 7.31 per cent on the capital stock. The Burlington's earnings for the year, therefore, exceeded the interest on the joint 4 per cent bonds by 1¼ per cent. Last year it failed to earn this interest by .69 per cent.

Earnings in Detail.

Following is a detailed statement of earnings, expenses, etc., of the entire Burlington system for the month of June and for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1902:

Freight earnings	$2,893,868	$2,637,948	$255,920
Passenger earnings	1,130,554	1,007,445	123,109
Gross earnings	4,476,744	4,088,957	387,787
Operating expenses	3,097,864	2,820,669	277,195
Fixed charges	800,000	797,261	2,739
Surplus	578,880	471,027	107,853
Year ended June 30—	1902.	1901.	Increase.
Freight earnings	$36,072,079	$33,662,221	$2,409,858

Gross earnings	53,795,245	50,051,988	3,743,251
Operating exp.	34,009,838	32,441,890	1,567,948

Surplus	10,185,406	8,042,976	2,142,430

Car Couplers and Accidents.

The interstate commerce commission's quarterly bulletins, of which three have been issued, do not indicate the great decrease in the number of accidents which it was hoped would result from the adoption of automatic car couplers. In the nine months from July 1, 1901, to April 1, 1902, it appears that 103 employés were killed and 1,598 were injured in this class of accidents. Only a few of these casualties are attributed in the reports to the use of the link and pin coupler, no persons being killed and only 77 injured by this means.

To the "link and pin with automatic coupler" is attributed 1 death and 27 cases of injury, and in "holding up pin by hand" (presumably made necessary by defective uncoupling mechanism, the report says) 2 were killed and 84 injured.

The causes of accidents in coupling are classified under twenty-one heads, from which it is apparent that the handling of cars is inherently a dangerous occupation, the hazards of which cannot be removed entirely by ingenuity or expenditure in the form of mechanism. But it is certain that automatic couplers have helped to reduce the number of casualties of this class. It may be added that tabulation of the accidents of all kinds for the nine months referred to show that 248 passengers were killed and 4,768 injured, and that 1,955 employés were killed and no less than 25,512 injured, although the report says that "trifling accidents" are not included.

Transportation Notes.

Burlington officials have fixed upon Nov. 1 as the date for opening the new Des Moines and Burlington division. The work of constructing the link between Oskaloosa and Tracy, necessary to complete the division, is progressing rapidly.

The Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway company has placed an order with the Brooks company for 100 new locomotives. This makes 300 in all purchased by the Rock Island during the last fifteen months, an aggregate expenditure of $6,000,000.

O. C. Carter has been appointed general freight agent of the Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville railroad. He has held heretofore the position of general stone agent, but this office has been abolished.

OUST BOARD OF TRADE MAN FOR A MILWAUKEE DEAL.

Directors Expel Lewin A. Wood of St. Paul on Charges of "Making False and Fictitious Transactions."

Lewin A. Wood of St. Paul, for two years a member of the Chicago board of trade, was expelled yesterday on charges of making "false and fictitious" trades. The charges were preferred by John Hill Jr. The business complained of was transacted on July 1 on the Milwaukee exchange.

"I have never violated any of the rules of the Chicago exchange," said Mr. Wood after his expulsion, "and consider that I have been unjustly treated. The methods by which the trades were made were entirely in accord with the rules of the exchange on which the business was done."

W. W. Bennett & Co. were Mr. Wood's Milwaukee correspondents. The Edward Wood company is a member of both the Milwaukee and the Minneapolis exchanges.

All parties interested in the case of the McNeil Grain company against the Weare Commission company were present at the directors' meeting, but at the request of James H. Milne, attorney for Mr. Weare, the case was postponed a week. Mr. McNeil charges the Weare Commission company with withholding $32,175 deposited by the McNeil Grain company as margins.

STATE M'KINLEY FUND $50,128.

Illinois the First to Complete Its Allotment Toward National Monument at Canton.

Illinois' allotment of $50,000 toward the McKinley national monument has been completed, with an excess of $128. This state is the first to raise its portion of the fund. Arrangements are being made to forward to Illinois' contributors beautiful souvenir receipts recently prepared in New York.

Alexander H. Revell, chairman of the state commission, reports that the fund represents over 50,000 subscriptions, and, counting the individual school children who gave their pennies, the number will run into the hundred thousand. While the state's share has been secured other subscriptions will not be refused if there are any who wish to add to the total. Some few reports which have not been received will swell the total.

The last $1,000 toward the fund was given by a "friend," whose name is concealed, who agreed when subscriptions first were called for that when $49,000 had been secured he would complete the total. Other subscriptions since the last report represent several hundred persons and organizations living in all parts of the state, no individual donation being over $100.

When all the states have contributed their share to the national fund the monument will be erected at McKinley's tomb in Canton, O.

CHAMPIONS HUNT A MAD DOG.

Pistol Expert and Well Known Wrestler End the Life of a Rabid Canine.

Two of Chicago's most formidable policemen, Andrew Pidgeon, champion pistol shot of the force, and John Rooney, who has a national reputation as a wrestler and easily is champion wrestler of the force, went out to kill or capture a small mad dog yesterday. A bullet from Pidgeon's revolver ended the dog's life, so Rooney wasn't called on to do any wrestling. The dog, which was the property of Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, 100 East Thirty-fifth street, was found and killed in a rear room of Mrs. Smith's house.

Catarrh of nose or throat immediately relieved and ultimately cured by use of "Boro-Formalin." (Eimer & Amend).

STATES AT WAR OVER WATER.

Kansas and Colorado to Fight for Ownership of a River in the United States Courts.

Denver, Colo., Aug. 12.—A conference was held in the office of Gov. Orman today regarding the suit brought by the state of Kansas against Colorado to prevent the people of this state using the waters of the Arkansas river. Those present were Gov. Orman, Congressman Shafroth, Elwood Mead of the department of agriculture, State Engineer McCune, and Attorney General Post. It was decided by the state officials to contest the case in the United States Supreme court if the state of Kansas decides to press the case.

LAKE SHIPPING NEWS.

Freights and Charters.

The diversion of the regular traders to short trips on Lake Erie has deprived the Chicago grain trade of considerable tonnage. Rates advanced to 1¼ cents for corn to Buffalo. The only charters reported were the Vance for corn to Cleveland and the Chili for wheat to Georgian Bay.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 12.—Ore tonnage continues in good demand and all boats offered are placed without difficulty, but the coal trade is in worse shape than for some months. There is a big fleet in port and work of loading and unloading is slow on account of the scarcity of cars.

Ald. Badenoch Protects Billboard That Is Said to Be Illegal.

CITY BOUND TO DESTROY.

Acting Mayor Walker Says Firemen Will Tear Down the Structure Today.

Ald. Joseph Badenoch, champion of billboards against city ordinances, is likely to be defeated this morning in his efforts to save a lofty sign board of the Gunning company. He succeeded yesterday in having the city firemen called away from their work while tearing down the boards, but acting Mayor Walker said operations would be begun again this morning.

The sign is at Van Buren street and Fifth avenue. It is raised to a height of 50 feet on poles and covers nearly 2,000 square feet. The first complaint against it was made by the Cusack company, which has a smaller sign in front of the big one. The Gunning sign was found to be in violation of the ordinance, according to the building department, and was ordered torn down.

Firemen from Pacific avenue and Harrison street were beginning the work when Ald. Badenoch took a hand. Mr. Badenoch, by the way, is vice president of the Gunning company. He hurried to Building Commissioner Kiolbassa and declared that an injunction protected the board. In company with the building commissioner he hurried back to the scene and the work was stopped.

Badenoch Disputed by Walker.

Acting Mayor Walker declared that unless the billboard was erected previous to April 10, 1901, it would have to come down. It is said that it was constructed since that date and that the injunction does not protect it.

"I have had a search made of the records," said Mr. Walker, "and we find that there is no injunction on which Ald. Badenoch can rely if the board was put up since April 10, 1901. On that day Judge Chetlain enjoined the city from tearing down or molesting any billboard of the Gunning company while the company is maintaining or repairing it."

Two Fined for Negligence.

Patrol Sergeant John McNally and Policeman Andrew Vail of the West Lake street station were fined two days' pay each and lectured yesterday by the police trial board for failing to report buildings which were being erected without permits.

Alds. Snow and Litzinger were present to testify that the policemen had permitted the buildings to get under way before they discovered that no permit had been secured. At Forty-ninth avenue and Fulton street half finished structures were found of which the building department had no knowledge.

Chief Building Inspector Barry said that he had discovered the buildings and said he had notified the building commissioner.

"Was anything done?" asked Civil Service Commissioner Powell.

"Not that I know of," said the inspector.

Ald. Litzinger asked if it were not the duty of the department to proceed against a builder, in this case Hugh Hughes, who erected a building without a permit. The inspector said it was, the penalty being a fine of $25 a day.

"I recommend, Mr. Barry," said Commissioner Powell, "that you bring the whole matter to the attention of the commissioner of buildings. It seems that a contractor can start work without a permit and when detected can escape by getting one. The building department has been negligent in not prosecuting this case."

The policemen were then fined for their laxness in not reporting the erection of the buildings, as is their duty.

Inspector Sedlak Suspended.

Building Inspector James Sedlak, who reported the condition of the building at 3337 Ashland avenue as "good" a few days before it fell down was suspended yesterday and charges of carelessness will be preferred against him.

As the building commissioner has taken no action against the inspectors who were found lax by the city council investigating committee, Ald. Snow will call a meeting of the committee and make an appeal to the civil service commission for action independently of Mr. Kiolbassa.

FIX A PRICE FOR FRANCHISES.

South Side Citizens Demand That Street Railways Do Improvement Work.

The paving, lighting, repairing, and sprinkling of the streets, the removal of snow, and the use of grooved rails are the price set by south side property owners for the renewal of street railway franchises. This demand, which is to take more definite form at meetings to be held throughout the south section of the city, was made last evening when the State Street Property Owners' association met at Forty-third and State streets. Committees were appointed to confer with other property owners' associations, which are to be asked to send representatives to a massmeeting. The association which has started the movement includes owners of property from Thirty-ninth to Fifty-fifth streets.

MINNEAPOLIS BRIBERY TRIAL ON

Ex-Chief of Police, Ex-Detective, and Alleged Go-Between Face Indictments.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Ex-Chief of Police Fred W. Ames, ex-Detective Chris Norbeck, and Irwin A. Gardner were arraigned today on blanket indictments charging conspiracy. Joseph Cohen and Mayor A. A. Ames were absent and could not be arraigned. The first indictment did not include Norbeck or Gardner, but was against Ames and Cohen, charging them with conspiracy for having agreed to commit the crime of extortion from persons keeping unlawful resorts within the city. It was charged that they visited a large number of places and told the keepers that unless they paid they would be prosecuted.

The next indictment embraced the names of the mayor, Fred Ames, Norbeck, and Gardner. The date of this conspiracy was fixed at Oct. 1, 1901, at which time the persons named are accused of having conspired to commit the crimes of extortion and bribery.

It is claimed that there were thirty-five women who were to pay between $15 and $30 per month for protection. The "big mitt" men were brought in and the whole story of the protecting and the payment of money was rehearsed.

DYNAMITE DEMOLISHES DEPOT.

Lightning Starts Fire That Sets Off the Explosion at Hogan, Wis.—Close Call for Train.

La Crosse, Wis., Aug. 12.—The depot at Hogan, on the Burlington railroad, about seventy-five miles above here, was struck by lightning and totally destroyed today. Fifty pounds of dynamite stored in the building for blasting purposes exploded at the same time with a report that was heard for ten miles around. The limited train, southbound, rushed into the station just at the time of the explosion, but the engineer, realizing the danger, put on the emergency brake and kept the train at a distance from the fire.

NEW STEPS IN CANAL WAR

GAYLORD SYNDICATE SECURES MORE FRONTAGE.

Takes from Four to Six Miles of River Bank, Making Its Power Greater, if It Wins, and Providing for Company in Case of Loss—Improvement Meeting at Joliet a Frost—Maj. Seddon Tells Why He Thinks Private Concern's Plans Are Better.

While the much heralded meeting of the Illinois Valley Improvement association at Joliet yesterday was a frost, coincident with it came an important announcement—that the Gaylord syndicate is securing options on property along the river for from four to six miles below its present proposed dam at Patterson island. This is construed to mean that the syndicate is taking precautions so that it will be cared for if the drainage board defeats it finally in the contest now waging.

In section 11 of Channahon township, near to Millsdale postoffice, there is a fall of several feet in the channel. This point is called Treat's island and is about five miles below Patterson island. The total fall between Patterson island and that point would give a fifteen-foot head. The Gaylord plans contemplate centering the power it will be possible to develop at Patterson island, as under the original plan, by lowering the river channel to the level below Treat's island. This will increase the head at the dam nearly fifteen feet. If the sanitary board should not win this it could be added to the fall contemplated by the present plans, giving a total head of about thirty-five feet, which would develop nearly 20,000 horsepower. Most of the land is already secured by option and negotiations are pending for the remainder.

Few at the Meeting.

The meeting yesterday was not up to the expectation of the promoters. By actual count there were only twenty-one persons in the hall at one time. Neither President Taylor nor Secretary Bourland was there. Only three persons were from outside of Joliet, one of whom was Engineer Ward of Marseilles.

Maj. Seddon, the engineer of the Gaylord syndicate, made the only address. On the walls of the council chamber, where the meeting was held, were drawings and plans of the Gaylord syndicate and the Chicago sanitary district. Maj. Seddon spoke on the Lake Joliet waterpower and its relation to a waterway. He compared the plans of the syndicate and drainage district and claimed for the former greater benefit to navigation because it would lessen the number of locks. He said: "To back the water from our dam up to Jackson street, twenty-two feet high, is to make a deep waterway at once up as far as Hickory creek, or to where the proposed sanitary district dam would be located. Above this, it simply holds the situation in shape for future development, as any dam must do that makes a pool of this raceway. To back the water up to the location of the sanitary district dam, or only eleven feet high, is to make another such reach to be worked out finally into a waterway. It is eleven feet of depth directly lost to nearly two miles of river.

"It also imposes a needless lock in this division at an initial cost of $500,000, and the tax of its continued operation, with the limitations to traffic and delays of a double lockage on all commerce through this line forever. This is at its best; but, in fact, working out a satisfactory lockage for the flood periods in this restricted channel is also a serious engineering problem."

Maj. Seddon asserted that the sanitary district plan would make the taxpayers of Chicago pay $2 for every dollar they could get out of the waterpower. Maj. Seddon charged the drainage board with having done a vast amount of damage to Chicago commerce. He did not say how this had been done, but left it to be inferred that it was due to the swift current in the Chicago river.

Can Company Secures Land.

Expecting that the sanitary district would develop the waterpower in Joliet, the American Can company has secured a tract of twelve acres near the proposed South street dam. Steam will be used until the waterpower is available, and nearly 1,000 horsepower will be required. The plant will employ nearly 200 people.

THOUSANDS OF COMPANIES MAY LOSE THEIR CHARTERS.

Secretary of State Rapidly Canceling Licenses of Corporations Which Fail to Comply with the Law.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Of the 45,000 licensed corporations in Illinois 35,000 are likely to lose their charters because of failure to comply with the law compelling reports between Feb. 1 and March 1 of each year.

The law, which was enacted in 1901, requires all corporations to report to the secretary of state among other items, the following information: Location of principal office, the kind of business engaged in, and the names of directors or managers, together with the postoffice address by street and number.

Under this law only about 10,000 of the corporations have made report. On July 1 the secretary of state proceeded to enter the cancellation of charters. The main purpose of the law was to provide a simple method of canceling the charters of dead corporations which were needlessly cumbering the records and holding names which corporations desiring to pursue an active business might wish to use.

Any Illinois corporation can ascertain by consulting the certified list filed July 1, 1902, in the office of the recorder of deeds in the county where it is located whether or not it appears upon the records of the secretary of state as a live corporation. In all cases where the name of a corporation does not appear on such certified list there has been entered upon the records of the office of the secretary of state the cancellation of its charter, and such corporation can only be reinstated in the manner provided in the act.

Shareholder in One of the Companies in the Big Merger Brings Proceedings, Asking Injunction.

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 12.—Acting in behalf of William C. Bullitt of Philadelphia, John Douglass Brown Jr., an attorney, today sent here to be filed in the United States circuit court a petition asking Judge Kirkpatrick to direct the receivers of the Asphalt Company of America and the National Asphalt company to bring suit against the promoters, directors, and stockholders of the two companies to determine their liabilities to the bondholders of the Asphalt Company of America.

Mr. Brown wanted the stockholders of the Asphalt Company of America sued for the unpaid assessments upon their capital stock, which, he claims, amounts to $24,000,000.

The petition also asks the court to restrain the Biddle committee from arbitrarily declaring the reorganization plan effective, and from limiting the dissents of depositing bondholders to Aug. 19.

MAYOR TRIES IN VAIN TO QUIT.

Chief Executive of Taylorville, Ill., Seeks Means to Compel Council to Accept His Resignation.

Taylorville, Ill., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Mayor R. B. Temple announced his resignation at the close of the city council meeting held last evening. The councilmen made no motion to accept the resignation, whereupon the mayor declared that unless his resignation was accepted at the next meeting he would find means to compel the council to act in the matter.

The mayor gave as a reason for quitting the office that business connections compel him to be absent from the city almost continually. Some members of the council are quoted as saying that the professed resignation is a result of pending electric light difficulty.

PAY LITTLE TAX; BRING BIG RENT.

Railroad "Trackage" Lands Are Occupied by Many Profitable Tenants.

EIGHT LINES ACCUSED.

Aldermanic Committee Presents Figures and Charges to the Reviewers.

The use to which it is charged a large amount of railroad property taxed as "trackage" is really put was shown yesterday by evidence submitted to the board of review by Ald. Minwegen, Cullerton, and Sloan, and James Reynolds, the expert employed by the aldermanic committee. The councilmen supported their charges with blue prints, plats, and diagrams. It was estimated that $50,000,000 worth of real estate was involved in the figures submitted to the board.

The committee charged that the property on which the railroad companies pay a trivial tax as "trackage" is in reality rented to business firms and occupied by them. Eight railroads were involved in these charges, including the Lake Shore, the Rock Island, the Northwestern, the Pennsylvania, the St. Paul, the Englewood Connecting railroad, and the Chicago and Western Indiana. Over 150 different sites which, it is charged, escape proper taxation are presented in the report. A majority of them are said to be occupied by business firms.

Standard Oil a Tenant.

The Standard Oil company, it is charged, occupies land of the Lake Shore road at Sixteenth street and Wentworth avenue. The Lehigh Valley Coal company is said to occupy another site owned by the company at Armour avenue and Twenty-second street. According to the report, the Crane company uses land of the Rock Island road in Clark street, north of Taylor. The Knickerbocker Ice company occupies a site at State, between Root and Forty-third streets, belonging to the same company.

Land held as trackage by the Burlington road at Canal and Ewing streets is said to be occupied by the Chicago and Wilmington Coal company. The Adams Express company is said to use another site owned by the road at De Koven and Bunker streets. Another site owned by the road is said to be occupied by the Omaha Packing company between Lumber street and the river.

The Busse & Reynolds Coal company, it is said, uses land of the Chicago and Western Indiana at Fourteenth and Clark streets. The Indiana elevator is on land of the same company at Stewart avenue and Eighteenth street, according to the report.

Brewers on Northwestern Land.

A saloon stands on property of the Northwestern road in Kinzie street, east of Wells street. The Pabst Brewing company occupies another site owned by the same road on the east side of Desplaines street, between Indiana and Ohio streets. The Schlitz Brewing company has another site on the north side of the street, between Desplaines and Union streets, and the Blatz Brewing company another in about the same location.

The committee found that the Northwestern sites are sought by brewing companies, as still another, on the south side of Indiana street, between Jefferson street and the river, is occupied by the Jung Brewing company.

The W. P. Rend Coal company has several sites of the Pennsylvania company in Carroll avenue and Kinzie street. The Pabst Brewing company occupies land of the St. Paul railroad north of Carroll avenue, between Desplaines and Union streets.

Some of the other sites are vacant and the rest occupied by different business firms as coal and lumber yards and for other purposes. The report is said to comprise only about one-third of the actual number of cases in which real estate escapes proper taxation.

LOAN TO IROQUOIS COMPANY.

Trust Deed for $400,000 on Property in South Chicago Secures the Amount.

The Iroquois Iron company has executed a trust deed for $400,000 to the Chicago Title and Trust company to secure a bond issue for a like sum, secured on the property of the company at South Chicago. The loan extends five years and bears 5 per cent interest. Of the total amount $100,000 is payable in two years, $50,000 six months thereafter, and a like sum each succeeding six months until the principal is paid.

The loan may be paid after the second year on any interest day upon the payment of a premium of 1 per cent, at any time during the first year on the payment of 3 per cent, and at any time during the second year on the payment of 2 per cent, sixty day's notice be given in each case. The property which secures the loan comprises about twenty acres of land, having a dock frontage of 1,000 feet on the Calumet river, valued at $300,000, and two modern blast furnaces, completely equipped, valued at $950,000.

J. Howard McCartney is trustee in a loan of $40,000, running five years, at 5 per cent, to Charles L. Gould, secured on 40x157 feet of ground at the southwest corner of Malden street and Leland avenue, where a three story apartment house is in course of construction.

Sarah J. Graham has conveyed to Hattie E. Harris the apartment house property in Grand boulevard, 36½ feet north of Forty-fourth street, east front, 36¾x149 7-10 feet, the purchaser assuming an incumbrance of $12,000.

Grace Baptist church has purchased from E. Roberts the property at the southwest corner of Warren and Sacramento avenues, 39 82-100x120 feet, north front, for $8,500, which will be used as the site for a new church.
